President encouraged with arms limit talks

VLADIVOSTOK, U.S.S.R. (AP) — President Ford said Sunday he was "encouraged" about the progress he is making with Soviet Leader Leonid I. Brezhnev on establishing guidelines for a new 10-year treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons.

"We hope we don't disappoint you," the President, bundled in a wolfskin parka and a Russian sable hat on his head, told newsmen at the door of his dacha. "We're encouraged."

He then walked down a snowlined path to a conference center where Brezhnev awaited him for the second day of talks on the nuclear arms limitation treaty, as well as a variety of other topics, including the Middle East.

Ford and Brezhnev had met in the white stucco building until past midnight Saturday, discussing only one subject: how to instruct negotiators in Geneva on framing a nuclear arms limitation treaty in time to sign when the two leaders meet again in Washington next summer.

After the more than six hours of talks, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told newsmen: "We are in the same ballpark...Enough was done to give impetus to the negotiations in Geneva. We have come closer to our goal."

The two-day summit has been widely publicized in the Soviet press, reflecting the Kremlin's determination to move ahead with its policy of detente.

The nuclear arms limitations treaty apparently has been the key topic of discussion. The United States and Soviet Union are both committed to a 10-year treaty limiting missiles, bombers and other means of waging nuclear warfare.

The U.S.-Soviet pact restricting certain weapons systems expires in 1977. At the last U.S.-Soviet summit, Brezhnev and former President Richard M. Nixon failed to make substantial progress on a SALT pact, but agreed to work toward a year pact.

"For a variety of reasons things were not right for an agreement" last July, Kissinger said in an obvious reference to Watergate. The Ford-Brezhnev talks were "in a different atmosphere," he said. "I have the impression the two men get along excellently."

The Russians issued a statement, approved by Ford, that spoke of a "determination to make all necessary efforts" to give recent improvements in U.S.-Soviet relations "an irreversible character."

Ford and Brezhnev were meeting again Sunday and were expected to turn to the Middle East and other topics shelved along with dinner Saturday night to maintain the momentum of their discussion on the complex nuclear weapons issue.

Kissinger said Ford's departure may be extended several hours but that the President planned to head back for Washington by nightfall.

Fatal mishap

A Sedalia boy was killed Saturday in a one-vehicle mishap at 5:40 p.m. on Route HH, about 2 miles east of Route O, near Beaman. According to the Highway Patrol, Douglas James Bacon, 9, was dead at the scene (bottom photo). His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Eldon Bacon, 1703 South Engineer, three sisters and a brother were treated at Bothwell Hospital and released.

The Patrol said the accident occurred as Bacon, driving a 1971 Ford winch truck, slid off of the right side of the road on a curve. Bacon veered the truck to the left side of the road, but it overturned on the pavement, sliding again to the right and down an embankment, (right photo). The Patrol said the truck belonged to Dean Machinery Co., 1620 West Main. Bacon 40, is a mechanic for the company. He was treated for shoulder lacerations.

The following also were treated: Elizabeth, 25, bruises and abrasions; Virginia, 8, fractured pelvis; Leonard Thomas, 6, scalp lacerations; Patty 4, bruises and abrasions, Anna, 2, lacerations, bruises and abrasions.

State Fair contract method also criticized by grand jury

The method in which contracts were let for the 1974 Missouri State Fair, as well as the firing of one Fair employe on assumed political motives, came under attack in the Pettis County grand jury report released Saturday.

Although it considered the over-all procedure of letting contracts for the Fair, the jury paid special attention to contracts involving International Village, new to the Fair this year.

Also in the spotlight was the Fair's advertising contract. In this regard, the report said, the jury's "examination was dictated because the award of this contract to a Kansas City firm, Christenson-Barclay and Shaw, was made after the contract with Musical Productions, Inc., was negotiated. Among the shareholders in the Musical Productions, Inc., (who were promoters of the Ozark Music Festival) were Mr. Jerry Christenson and Mr. Robert Shaw. These two men were also two of the principals of the advertising firm which was awarded the contract to promote the 1974 Fair.

"It appears that an evaluation of services included in each of four final bid presentations was made by the State Department of Contracting and Procurement. Apparently the conclusion drawn following this study was that the Christenson-Barclay and Shaw bid was best, even though it was not the lowest bid," the report said. The contract was for $75,000, more than $4,000 higher than originally bid. There was no explanation for that.

Then, in what the report terms "a side note," it states, "Raymond L. Moore, director of Contracting and Procurement, was a former friend of David Kinton, Kansas City lawyer and secretary of Musical Productions, Inc."

The contract negotiated for the International Village was signed by Ron Jones, then director of the Fair, and Wendell Smith, who was director of concessions at the time. During its investigation, the jury was told by Smith that "other duties did not allow him the time to negotiate the various contracts" for booths at the village. This responsibility was then delegated to Connie Crouch.

The jury's report was quick to point out that after Smith was promoted director of the Fair, his former position as concessions director was "eliminated because state officials now feel it is not a full-time job."

The state and Mrs. Crouch contracted for her to use an area of the fairgrounds. The contract also called for her to secure lessees for 55 booths and restaurants. She could lease the space, the contract said, for any amount she could secure, but the Fair was to "receive 70 per cent of the total leased sum of all spaces designated as part of said International Village."

"It is the feeling of the grand jury that such contracts for sub-leasing of Fair space is a questionable procedure. On the face it appears that the State Fair was deprived of revenue in the amount of $3,685, and favoritism is a justified suspicion," the report states.

The investigation also revealed that escrow accounts are maintained in the operation of the Fair. One of these accounts was "established in relation to the International Village arrangement," the jury's report says.

"It was determined by the grand jury that monies were shuffled between two different banks by Connie Crouch, and the exact determination of the actual money collected was impossible to ascertain. Said Connie Crouch did deposit some of the receipts in her own business account, including some checks made payable to Missouri State Fair, later supposedly transferring same to the escrow account, which required signatures of either Wendell Smith or Connie Crouch. It was the determination of the grand jury that all monies of this nature should have been deposited in the general revenue account of the state...," the report says.

It concludes by adding, "Even though no direct evidence is established of a personal vested interest by Wendell Smith, it is recommended that all State Fair escrows accounts be audited immediately by the state auditor, or an independent auditing firm with national recognition in order to fully explore the unusual manner in which these accounts were handled."

The grand jury's report, although never mentioning a name, then turned to the dismissal last September of E. F. Strickler, editor of the Fair's premium book since 1965 and also manager of the Fair's horse show.

The report says, "The grand jury's

Therapy Center dedication

The Virginia Flower Child Development and Rehabilitation Center, 600 East 14th, will be opened to the public from noon to 3 p.m. Sunday in conjunction with special dedication ceremonies scheduled at 1:30 p.m.

At that time, the Center will be officially named in honor of the late Miss Virginia Flower, a member of the Center board of directors for many years and primary benefactress of the new building, which opened a year ago.

Center director Roger Garlich said the ceremony will feature remarks by members of the board of directors, rather than out-of-town dignitaries, "because the Center was conceived and is funded by local citizens. It is only appropriate that they speak at the ceremonies."

Invitations have been sent, however, to various authorities in childhood development and education, Garlich indicated.

During the three-hour open house, Center personnel and members of the board of directors will lead tours through the one-year-old building and the adjoining Sheltered Workshop.

Indictments presented

Grand jury probe ends

By PETE DANIELS
Managing Editor

The Pettis County grand jury, working late into the night in the last two days of its term, Saturday morning handed its 145-page report to Circuit Judge Frank Meyer "with great concern" and the "unanimous opinion...that a new grand jury should be impanelled."

Judge Meyer was also presented a sealed envelope containing an undetermined number of indictments. The names were kept secret. Circuit Clerk William Lyles was ordered to issue the warrants, to be served by Sheriff Emmett Fairfax. Fairfax said it would be "a couple of days" before the warrants are ready for him to serve. Judge Meyer also said that on Dec. 9 he would review the indictment situation "to ascertain the number of unserved warrants and to determine whether names should (continue to) be supressed."

Before an indictment is served, Judge Meyer will stipulate the amount of bond to be set.

Judge Meyer complimented the jury on its work and said the jurors' "duties have been discharged in a manner in keeping with the highest tradition of common law."

The 9-man, 3-woman jury began its term Nov. 23 and spent 42 days in session, using more than 3,000 man hours to hear an estimated 75 witnesses and review documents and other evidence.

Serving on the jury were William C. Hopkins, foreman; George W. Ray, Kenneth U. Love Jr., Mrs. Alice K. Horn, Mrs. Jo Ann Harvet, Sam G. Tuck, Edward G. Kehde, Bill N. Glenn, Mrs. Dorothy C. Durley, David G. Curry, Paul M. Moore and Bob L. McDonald, who was not in attendance when the report was submitted to Judge Meyer.

Their primary charge, investigation of last July's Ozark Music Festival, took up most of their time, but the jurors also probed other matters — ranging from the police department to various county offices.

Much of what the grand jury learned coincided with the findings of the Senate Select Committee . . . The local investigation, however, also discovered other problem areas.

Evidence presented to the jury concerning the festival showed the rock music event was a launching pad for "the wholesale disregard of the law including the sale of drugs, assaults, rapes, extortion, nudity, promiscuity, illegal sales of alcoholic beverages, flagrant sales of drug paraphernalia, lewdness, prostitution and black marketing."

Much of what the grand jury learned coincided with the findings of the Senate Select Committee, which also investigated the rock music event. The local investigation, however, also discovered other problem areas.

One of these was the jury's conclusion that David Kinton, a Kansas City attorney for the Christenson-Barclay and Shaw advertising firm that promoted the festival, "was far from circumspect as an attorney" in a letter to state officials and that the letter gave "erroneous information."

According to the jury's report, Kinton's letter said he was an attorney for Musical Productions, Inc., "a Missouri corporation." The letter was dated Feb. 19, and, as the jury noted, the firm's articles of incorporation were not on file in the secretary of state's office until March 8. "In the opinion of the grand jury, this is strongly a deception. Even one of the promoters in his testimony admitted this was a misrepresentation." The intent of Kinton's letter was to "set out the various aspects of the proposed" music festival.

Noting that "legal counsel representing the Department of Agriculture was extremely lax in its review of the lease" of the fairgrounds for the festival, the jury said it felt there were enough "'red flags'...to create more than a cursory study of previous injunctions successfully obtained in other proposed rock festivals."

The gist of the jury's report is that the $40,000 lease payment suggested by Musical Productions, Inc., which staged the affair, "blinded" state officials and seemed of "great magnitude to the agriculture department based on isolated rentals of the past." Members of the jury indicated they were aware there has been pressure on state officials in the past to realize more rental income from the Missouri State Fairgrounds when the Fair is not in session, and that this was a contributing factor in establishing the lease agreement.

"The incident of not screening more carefully this type of venture by the Secretary of the Fair and decision-makers in the Department of Agriculture appears to have been an impetous decision..." the report says.

The jury's report detailed, as did the Senate Select Committee's report, security arrangements for the festival, medical staff and facilities as well as the method by which tickets were sold, both in advance of the event and at various entrances to the fairgrounds.

At one point, the report says, "witnesses testified they had seen literally piles of money strewn upon a table . . . the whole system was disorganized and broke down."

In the latter case, the report quotes testimony saying money collected from gate sales and the manner in which it was handled "became very loose because of the deluge of people bearing down on the gates. No one could give an accurate account of who was collecting money and taking it to the Women's Building where it was being counted and recorded." At one point, the report says, "witnesses testified they had seen literally piles of money strewn upon a table...The whole system was disorganized and broke down."

The jury also learned that "despite the uncertainty of the ultimate contingencies facing Musical Productions, Inc., in relation to any final profits, dividends have already been paid to stockholders. It is noted these dividends have been applied by at least some of the officers to help finance a new corporation (called) Broadway Enterprises, which will promote 'one-day rock music concerts.'"The jury said the new firm was founded Sept. 20 and that testimony shows Musical Productions will eventually be dissolved.

One of the more interesting aspects of the music festival investigation was the revelation that the city has evidently been bilked out of an estimated $1,500 in license fees.

Promoters of the festival contacted city officials concerning these fees, especially for concessionaires, and learned that each concession stand operation had to pay a minimum of $25, unless one or more concession was operated by "one legal entity."

Robert Shaw, who headed the festival promotion for Musical Productions, Inc., and who is a partner in the advertising firm of Christenson-Barclay and Shaw, was informed of this "by three different sources." He was also told that if he incorporated "the arts and crafts concessions under one type of legal entity, this one license would suffice."

After questioning various concessionaires, the jury "determined they were never organized or incorporated. It appears to the grand jury the city of Sedalia was deceived of between $1,475 to $1,500 by Shaw's misrepresentation," the report says,

Policeman censured in report

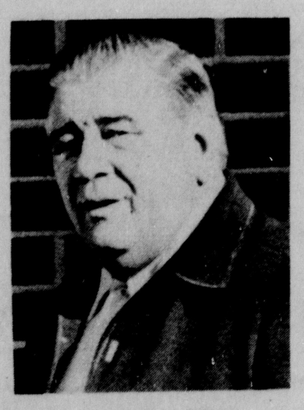
An investigation of City Attorney Robert Liston by agents of the state Department of Revenue, and the conduct and attitude of two Sedalia police officers were part of the Pettis County grand jury's inquiry. The probe, started in September, ended Saturday.

The jury's report states, "In the interest of enlightening the city, the following encounter did occur while the state revenue agents were investigating an incident (involving reduction of a traffic violation charge) reported to them by a person unknown, of Mr. Liston's conduct as city attorney. The revenue agents determined, after interviews with various police officers, that Mr. Liston had indeed conducted his duties properly.

"Detective Sgt. Perry Franklin's conduct in the presence of two state revenue officers at the Sedalia police station on Oct. 23...certainly deserves censure, and such comments made to these men demonstrating his disdain for the city attorney were actions unbecoming a police officer. The two revenue officers were...questioning two police officers regarding the city attorney, and on four occasions during the interview Franklin made the following statements to the revenue officers:

"1. 'I hope you get Liston's ass;' 2. 'I hope you send that son-of-a-bitch back to Jeff City;' 3. 'You just write a statement about him and I'll sign it, whether it is true or not;' 4. 'I'm a friend of the governor, and if you guys don't get his ass, I'll get your job,'" the report quotes.

The jurors then wrote that it was their opinion, "based on sworn testimony of the two agents and the fact that Sedalia policemen swore they heard similar remarks made by Franklin about the city attorney, that these actions on the part of Sgt. Franklin represent unbecoming conduct by a police officer."



Det. Sgt. Perry Franklin

The jury recommended that Police Chief William Miller be made aware of Franklin's behavior and that "appropriate action be taken."

The jury also was critical of Assistant Chief Charles Knapp. Once, during an appearance before the jury, the report says, "it was felt that his (Knapp's) attitude towards the loss of cases in court was of apathy and did not generate any interest on his part as to how the police department cases could be made stronger and better able to hold up in a court of law. He stated once a case is lost it is of little interest to him to make a follow-up of the reasons."

In another matter, the jury also went on record on drug problems at Sedalia's public schools.

The report says, "Much testimony presented...dealt with the problem of drug usage among the students of Smith-Cotton High School and the Junior High School. It is the opinion of the sheriff and other officials that the drug traffic has accelerated tremendously since the Ozark Music Festival."

The jury suggested that Russell Bellamy, attendance officer at S-C, be given walkie-talkie communications with local police to control loitering by non-students at

Supersonic flight can be 'boomless'

CHICAGO (AP) — Computer demonstrations have shown that supersonic flights can be made without creating a sonic boom that would be heard or felt on ground, United Air Lines says.

United said in a statement Wednesday the demonstrations show that when jets fly at slightly above the speed of sound, the annoying and sometimes damaging sound waves can be avoided.

Routes, speed and altitude were adjusted to weather conditions during the simulated flights so as to reflect the sonic boom back into the atmosphere.

United did the tests for the Kaman Aerospace Corp., prime contractor for the Federal Aviation Agency's supersonic flight studies.

Congress acts to insure more more privacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has approved bills designed to crack down on the government's use of computerized information to snoop on Americans.

The Senate, by 74 to 9, and the House, by 351 to 1, approved similar measures Thursday.

Under the Senate version, federal agencies would be required to disclose their use of personal data, set minimum standards for handling such information and create a Privacy Protection Commission to investigate violations.

The House, with only Rep. Earl Landgrebe, R-Ind., in dissent, approved essentially the same legislation but omitted the commission provision.

The bills will be sent to a conference committee for reconciliation of the differing provisions.

Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., and his son, Rep. Barry M. Goldwater Jr., R-Calif., won approval of their amendments to curb the growing use of Social Security numbers as part of a universal identification system.

Local officials attend revenue sharing meet

Pettis County officials have returned from a conference in Columbia with more knowledge of revenue sharing funds.

The one day conference was attended by presiding judge-elect John Bluhm Jr., county clerk Mary Jane Wilson, deputy clerk Marjori Williams, county treasurer-elect Mary Helen Grimes and auditor-elect Jerry Barr.

Mrs. Wilson said the conference covered everything county officials would need to know about handling federal revenue sharing funds. She said a question and answer period was held after federal and state speakers addressed the group.

Mrs. Wilson said the conference was helpful because in the past the only information available on revenue sharing was in letters from the Federal government.

After the conference Mrs. Wilson said the group "got the feeling we were doing everything to comply with the regulations."

The conference was sponsored by the Missouri Office of Administration.

LONDON (AP) — If you are the proud owner of a new car, steer clear of Frank Perkins. He cuts them in half.

In fact, Frank will chop up any part of a perfectly good car — bodies, engines, gearboxes and even gas tanks.

Frank is a specialist — an engineer with the touch of a surgeon. British Leyland actually pays him and his team of engineers to cut up even the most expensive models the company makes.

Frank, 60, is Technical Display Engineer, based at the British Rover Triumph factory at Coventry, England. For 25 years he has prepared cars and parts of cars for display at auto shows throughout the world.

Millions of visitors to the shows have seen his displays of sectioned and animated cars and engines.

Says Frank: "It's very creative work and knowing where and how to cut is vital. There are lots of trade secrets."

This year, his crowning achievement was the preparation of a sectioned cylinder head of a Triumph Dolomite Sprint. This advanced, 16-valve unit won for British Leyland a Design Council Award.

Hijackers release hostages; kill one

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Three Palestinian gunmen, who earlier had executed a German hostage, released about a dozen of their captives Saturday night, but continued to hold others in a comandeered British jetliner.

The exact number of hostages still being held was not immediately known, but there were 40 hostages prior to the release.

The freed passengers came down a ramp placed against the door of the British Airways jet's cockpit. They then were escorted into the airport control tower.

The hijackers had said they would kill their hostages one at a time if 13 of their colleagues were not released from confinement in Cairo. Five of the imprisoned guerrillas were flown here earlier from Cairo, but they remained in a building near the control tower.

Floodlights illuminated the plane as it stood on a taxiway of the Carthage Airport outside of Tunis. Tunisian officials continued to negotiate with the hijackers by radio from the control tower.

Earlier in the day, hundreds of horrified spectators looked on from the airport's terminal building as one of the gunmen marched German banker Gustzav Kehl to the open door of he airplane and shot him in the back.

Kehl, the 43-year-old father of three, dropped 12 feet to the tarmac and 10 minutes later was taken to a hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

The murder came after the three hijackers apparently felt they were tricked by a Tunisian radio announcement which had said the 13 Palestinian guerrillas held in Cairo had been brought to Tunis. The guerrillas had, in fact, not been brought here.

The hijacking, which began on Thursday when the gunmen comandeered the airliner during a stopover in Dubai, has been decried by the Arabs as an attempt to embarrass Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasir Arafat.

A spokesman for the PLO said in Cairo that the PLO opposes giving in to the hijackers' demands. But informed Egyptian sources said that for humanitarian reasons President Anwar Sadat finally agreed to release five of the 13 men the hijackers sought.

Democrats working to avoid 'blow-up'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key Democratic factions, following the lead of the party's governors, are making progress in their effort to avoid a blow-up at next month's Kansas City charter convention.

Party leaders, headed by national chairman Robert S. Strauss, have felt that in the wake of Democratic election victories, a peaceful mini-convention is the next necessary step in showing the nation that Democrats are ready for national leadership.

The progress in that direction began when the governors and governors-elect adopted a proposal by Ohio's John J. Gilligan to compromise an important charter dispute.

Within two days, black and labor leaders indicated they too want to settle potentially divisive questions before the 2,000 delegates open the unprecedented midterm meeting Dec. 6.

The major achievement so far is substantial agreement on a compromise anti-discrimination provision that would take the delegate selection rules already approved for 1976 and make them part of the permanent charter that will govern Democratic affairs after that date.

Other issues, however, still remain to be resolved, particularly a provision that would incorporate into the charter the 1976 rule providing proportional representation of differing viewpoints.

These, too, could be resolved before the actual mini-convention meets.

The arena in which the preconference compromises will be discussed is a 50-member Rules Committee, composed of the Democratic National Committee's executive committee and the executive committee of the panel that drafted the proposed charter.

U.S., Saudi Arabia discuss arms sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Saudi Arabia have ended the first round of negotiations that could lead to the sale of billions of dollars of American arms to the oil-rich Arab nation over the next 10 years.

U.S. officials stress that the two weeks of talks, which took place in Washington and Saudi Arabia, were preliminary and no deal was made. However, they said there was progress toward shaping the ultimate program.

As the basis of their talks negotiators are using secret Pentagon recommendations that would give the Saudis a highly mobile and mechanized army along with a larger air force and greatly expanded navy.

The American view was presented during a week-long visit earlier this month to Saudi Arabia by two high-ranking U.S. officials.

This past week, Saudi Deputy Defense Minister Prince Turki was in Washington for more detailed discussions.

The Pentagon's still-classified recommendations proposed:

—Four mechanized brigades with three mechanized infantry battalions attached.

—A tank battalion with other combat and support units.

—An airborne brigade and three airborne infantry battatlions.

—Two assault helicopter battalions attached to an aviation group headquarters.

—One attack helicopter battalion.

—Two air cavalry battalions and two assault support helicopter companies.

Other secret documents indicate the Saudis will need 26 new naval vessels, including missile-equipped patrol boats, torpedo boats, mine sweepers and other craft.

Defender program in economic bind

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Missouri's fledgling public defender program, nearing a year and a half of full operation, already finds itself in an economic bind, constrained by a ceiling on its annual expenses and the inability to shift unexpended funds.

While the 1972 statute setting up the program states "under no circumstances may the expenditures from general revenue exceed $1.8 million," budget requests for the coming fiscal year total more than $3 million, according to court administrator James Parkinson.

With caseloads continually increasing and the costs for carrying out the program rising, some officials have indicated the plan could be terminated unless the ceiling is at least raised.

The most evident alternative to the public defender plan is the one that existed before its passage when all attorneys in the state were required to accept a certain number of indigent cases without compensation.

But the public defender plan resulted after the state Supreme Court said in 1971 that it would not compel attorneys to represent indigent defendants in criminal cases unless they were paid for their efforts.

Because of the economic plight of the program, which involves public defender offices in 14 judicial circuits and a court-appointed attorney plan in the other 29, members of the legislature are considering revision of the spending ceiling.

"This is something we've got to study because we're at the limit right now," says Sen. Richard Webster, R-Carthage, a member of a joint subcommittee that has been looking at the economic problems facing the program.

The $1.8 million ceiling, a compromise reached during legislative discussion on the proposal in 1972, was only a guess, according to Webster, at what the program would cost because no concrete information was available.

It was written into the law because, as one of its sponsors, Rep. Robert Snyder, R-Kirkwood, notes, "These things have a way of getting out of hand. There's a tendency to spend all the money available."

While a number of legislators have indicated some attempt may be made to lift the ceiling when the House and Senate convene in regular session in January, most feel some kind of limit should be retained so spending in the program does not get out of hand.

"It's safe to say there is not sentiment to remove the ceiling completely," Webster emphasizes, "but it will have to be revised from time to time."

From July 1973 through June, the first fiscal year the program was funded by the legislature, the average monthly operating cost for the court-appointed attorney program rose from about $27,000 to $37,000. From July through October this year, the average cost was $46,000 a month and this month bills totaling more than $60,000 are expected.

According to Parkinson, the primary cause of the increases has been the rising number of cases.

While the 14 public defender offices have operated within the budgets they were given for the 1973-1974 year, a $55,000 deficit was run up through the court-appointed attorney program.

The deficit was only on paper, however, because the program returned $70,000 in unused funds to the state treasury at the end of June, more than enough to make up the deficit.

But because the money was allocated specifically to the various court circuits, funds not needed in one circuit could not be transferred to those that had run out of money because of a legal opinion from the attorney general's office prohibiting such transfers.

Consequently, the $55,000 deficit was paid out of this year's budget, which cut in to the limited appropriation for 1974-1975 operations.

Parkinson expects the program to be at least that much in the red by the end of June and probably more than that if rising monthly costs continue.

"We're just pointing out the facts," he says, declining to take any stand on whether the ceiling must be raised. "It's obvious it's a problem."

Three arraigned for murder at Carthage

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) —Three young men were arraigned here Saturday on charges of first degree murder, armed robbery, and kidnapping in the slaying of liquor store operator James Stemmons.

The three, arrested Friday night and early Saturday after an investigation by the Tri-State Major Case Squad, were identified as Leslie Sanders, 21, John Martin, 19, and David Pugh, 20.

Government moves to end coal strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's top labor troubleshooter, declaring an "all-out effort" was needed to settle the nationwide coal strike, moved Saturday into contract talks between the coal industry and striking United Mine Workers.

Both sides indicated they would comply with a request by W.J. Usery Jr., director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, asking that union and industry bargaining committees meet with him at 10 a.m. EST Sunday.

"The mounting toll this dispute is inflicting on the nation now makes it imperative that a resolution be reached promptly," Usery said.

Even if the impasse can be broken within the next few days, the strike is certain to last well into December, further damaging the country's faltering economy. More than 20,000 workers have been laid off in the steel and railroad industries, and the government estimates up to 400,000 could be idled by a four-week walkout.

Usery requested the Sunday meeting in a telegram to UMW President Arnold Miller and Nick Camicia, chairman of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

State Fair

attention has been called to the fact that a certain full-time employe of the Missouri State Fair has been discharged after ten years of apparent satisfactory service. There is a degree of sympathy with this man and suspicion of political motivation since this employee was nearing retirement eligibility. Dissatisfaction arose when the employee demanded a receipt for money turned over to the State Fair office; the money he was turning over were funds for which he was held accountable. The reason given him for his discharge was that the State Fair officials felt it would be unnecessary to hire a full-time man to manage the operation of that department. Testimony before this body reveals that there have been, and are now in progress, interviews with applicants for this position.

"Since the horse show is always well attended each year at the State Fair, we can only assume that his dismissal is politically motivated," the report said in conclusion of its Fair statement.

Grand jury

because Shaw evidently told city officials the concession operations were incorporated. Requests from the city to prove this, the jury noted, were never met. There were an estimated 60 arts and crafts concessions on the grounds during the festival.

Police activity before and during the festival has often run into public criticism. However, the grand jury report "commends individual members of the Missouri Highway Patrol, the Sedalia Police Department and the Pettis County sheriff's office for the untiring and delicate handling of security within the scope of their agreements and jurisdictional responsibilities under the repugnant conditions they had to work." The Missouri National Guard also received praise for its work.

The report states: "Because of the intense heat (during the festival) and the thousands of young people under the influence of drugs and alcohol at the time, officers familiar with riot control stated arrests would have been met with total disaster. The grand jury concurred with both state and local law enforcement officials testifying that efforts to make open arrests on the fairgrounds after the festival commenced could have resulted in untold destruction, arson, serious injuries and possible deaths, both on the fairgrounds and to other areas of the city..."

The grand jury's report also includes a breakdown of medical cases handled both on an out-patient basis as well as those admitted. For out-patients at Bothwell Hospital, the jury's report lists "30 for drug overdose, 5 car accidents, 1 gunshot wound, 1 stabbing, 3 alleged rapes, 66 cuts and abrasions and 61 miscellaneous cases. Admitted patients included 20 drug overdoses, 2 maternity, 1 miscarriage, 5 auto accidents, 1 appendectomy, 1 lost child and 15 miscellaneous." One youth died from a drug overdose during the festival.

"It is the opinion of the grand jury from testimony concerning medical patients that at least 200 persons acutely affected could have died at the festival if there was not an adequate staff available with professional education."

It also noted that on various occasions Shaw attempted to prevent Dr. A. J. Campbell, head of the emergency hospital unit on the fairgrounds, from increasing his staff.

Policeman

S-C, and that police patrol the school area during certain key periods of the day. Such patrols were recently discontinued by Chief Miller, despite requests for them from school officials.

Besides the Ozark Music Festival, the grand jury was also charged with investigating local jails, public buildings and county roads. Here are highlights of some of these findings:

✔ The jury had general praise for the condition of the Pettis County Courthouse and the County Court, but noted that the "elevator could be easily converted to a self-operating unit" to save the county money and to avoid long waits for elevator operators.

✔ County jail: the jury expressed satisfaction with "existing conditions" but recommended that the staff of the sheriff's office be increased.

✔ City jail: The jury found "impressive equipment" and clean conditions, but noted that the "expensively equipped exercise area for the officers to use for physical fitness" is not being fully used. It also recommended a change in the manner in which "contraband" is stored, urging a switch from using the gun room to the evidence room.

✔ County fire department: Considered inadequately staffed and being financed "contrary to state statutes." The jury said it would "seem prudent that...a fire district should be established" for the county.

✔ City fire department: Found to be "well equipped and the personnel seemed to be trained to do the job."

✔ Sedalia Public Library: The condition of the building is considered generally sound, but work needs to be done on replacing electrical wiring. The jury found that the cost of such work has prevented it from being undertaken.

✔ Boonslick Regional Library: "The only suggestion is that the collection of papers in the garage be removed because they constitute a potential fire hazard."

✔ Buena Vista Home: Patient care adequate "as far as the facilities permit." The jury found the need for smoke sensor alarm repairs and the installation of a dishwasher, air-conditioner, central heat and sprinkler system. "There is no way the building could be evacuated quickly in the event of fire."

Good reports were given after visits to Bothwell Hospital, the offices of county assessor, collector, clerk, Sedalia Park Department and road district funds.

Concerning private clubs, the jury reported that unannounced "inspections of all private clubs to check for gambling equipment allegedly being operated...(showed) there was no evidence of any gambling equipment on any of the premises."

Missouri's liquor, fish and game and cigarette laws were all found to be enforced as effectively as possible.

Recent controversy over the Sedalia Animal Shelter prompted the jury to investigate this area also. It reported animals are fed nightly and pens cleaned daily. It did recommend, however, that "on several occasions throughout the year advertisements be placed with local news media announcing that pets are avaiilable for a $5 shelter fee."

Question

What is the policy of your Funeral Home concerning visiting hours?

Answer

In the very early days of Sedalia's history the friends of a deceased person maintained a vigil, or as the Irish called it, a "wake," until the time of the funeral and burial. With the acceptance of modern funeral services the vigil moved into our Funeral Home and the "wake" has been replaced with visitations or calling hours. Different customs prevail in various geographical areas and among certain ethnic groups.

In Sedalia friends may call at our Funeral Home everyday of the year from 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. There may be a specific time during the day when the family will be here to receive their friends. When this occurs we publish in the local newspapers, "The family will receive their friends at the Funeral Home today from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m." We maintain a register of visitors so the family may have a record of all those who called at any time.

Our Funeral Home is equipped, staffed and maintained for the purpose of creating a "home away from home" at this time for the comfort and convenience of the family and friends.

Contractor, youths are arrested

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A Lemay, Mo., contractor and three youths have been arrested in connection with a bombing Thursday night that blew a hand off of one of the youths, police said.

Arrested Friday were William Baldwin, 65; John Daniel Placher, 17, of Affton; Billy Ray Maxwell, 17, also of Affton, and a 15-year-old minor.

Authorities said the youths told police Baldwin employed them to build a bomb that could be thrown into a house in DeSoto, Mo., where Baldwin's 35-year-old former wife is living.

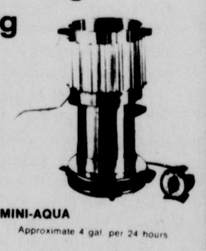
Baldwin, Maxwell and Placher took a iron-pipe bomb made by the 15-year-old youth to the north side of St. Louis to test it on a vacant house, police said, but the bomb went off prematurely as Maxwell prepared to throw it. The explosion blew off 80 per cent of the youth's hand.

A resident of the home that the youths mistakenly believed was vacant, Virginia Wilson, 28, reported the explosion.

Maxwell was reported in serious condition at a St. Louis hospital, where the remainder of his hand was amputated.

All four of those involved have been charged with bombing and attempted bombing, authorities said.

WATER YOU DRINK Has a Strong Bearing on Your Health



MINI-AQUA
Approximate 4 gal. per 24 hours

Some people — and we consider them misinformed — claim that the body needs the minerals in water. They advise people to avoid distilled water for this reason. They would have us drink water saturated with impurities and chemicals and run the risk of contracting serious diseases to obtain a few minerals.

Water is certainly not our only source of minerals. The mineral content in water varies from area to area. One locality might have water with a high calcium content and be low in phosphorous. Drinking a glass of milk would supply both.

So doesn't it make good common sense to clean the water of all bacteria, virus and chemicals, eat a good balanced diet, and if there are doubts as to sufficient minerals, take a good organic mineral supplement?

At wit's end

Faces tell it all

By ERMA BOMBECK

Next time you attend an Athletic Awards banquet, catch the look on the faces of the mothers as the accomplishments of their sons and daughters are revealed. By intense concentration, you can sometimes read their thoughts.

"Mark is probably one of the best sprinters I've had in my entire career here at So High. Hang onto your hats, people. Mark ran the 100-yard dash in 9.9!"

("Had to be nine days and nine hours. I once asked him to run out the garbage and it sat by the sink until it turned into a bookend.")

"I don't know what the baseball team would do without Charlie. We've had chatterers on the team before we get the guys whipped up, but Charlie is the all-time chatterer. There isn't a moment when he isn't saying something to spark the team."

(Charlie speaks six words to me a week: "When you going to the store?")

"For those of you who don't really understand field events, I want to explain about the shot put. It's a ball weighing eight pounds that was thrown 100 feet by an outstanding athlete here at So... Wesley Whip."

("That's funny. Wesley looks like the same boy who delivers my paper and can't heave a six-ounce Saturday edition all the way from his bike to my porch.")

"Wof-Man Gus will go down in football annals as one of the all-time greats here at So High. In the game with Central, Gus scored the winning touchdown despite a chipped bone in his ankel, a dislocated shoulder and a fever of 103."

("So how come Wolf-Man Gus stays home from school everytime he has his teeth cleaned?")

"I don't suppose anyone has better reflexes in this entire state than our outstanding basketball rebounder, Tim Rim. When the Good Lord passed out coordination, Tim was first in line."

("Tim is 17 years old and I can still only pour him a half glass of milk because that's all I want to clean up.")

"Tennis is a gentleman's game. This year's recipient of the Court Courtesy award is none other than So High's Goodwill Ambassador, Stevie Cool."

("He's come a long way since he tried to break his brother's face last week when he took a record album without asking.")

"The swimming team would never have made it this year without our plucky little manager, Paul Franswarth. Paul picks up those wet towels off the floor, hangs up the suits to dry, and is responsible for putting all the gear back where it belongs."

("Let's go home, Ed. I feel sick.")

Hot line

Hot line answers questions, looks into complaints, solves problems and generally serves readers and protects their interests. Write Hot Line, The Sedalia Democrat-Capital, Seventh and Massachusetts, Sedalia, Mo. 65301, or call 826-1000 between 7 a.m. and 11 p.m. Hot Line will appear as often as necessary to serve our readers.

All calls and letters to Hot Line must include name, address and phone number of inquirers. Names will not be used but are needed should additional information be required to answer questions.

Q — While I was downtown this week, the meter department ticketed a car behind mine because the meter was expired. The car directly in front of me — a police car — was also parked on an expired meter, but the meter department's officer refused to ticket it, as he had the others. His explanation was that "it's a police car." Downtown parking is supposed to be for the benefit of shoppers and merchants. Why should a police vehicle be allowed to park in violation of the parking meter ordinance, when everyone else has to pay? — D.P.

A — City meter department superintendent David Schick explained that it has been a long-standing department policy never to ticket police cars.

"We assume that, because police cars are required to be used only in the line of official duty, every car parked in front of a meter is there because an officer is assisting someone or otherwise performing official duties," Schick said. Police officers do receive tickets, he added, if their private cars are parked in front of expired meters or are otherwise illegally parked.

Q — I saw in the Thursday paper a picture about hearings on pricing. It was about stores repricing items already on the shelves. And there's a lot of this going on in Sedalia. I'd like the address of the Council of Wage and Price Stability so I can write about this. — Mrs. N. H.

A — Pricing complaints can be sent to the Council of Wage and Price Stability, Room 2325, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D. C., 20506. Complaints can also be mailed to the Missouri Department of Consumer Affairs, P.O. Box 1157, Jefferson City, Mo., 65101. A spokesman for the department said at this time there are no regulations against repricing, "but we do keep a record of these complaints and some repricing practices will be investigated."

The state office also suggested writing the headquarters of stores that reprice.

Q — Can stores and banks make a person pay a penalty because of an unintential over-draft? Just because a person is a dollar or two short, why are they allowed to charge that penalty for what they call "a bad check," and can they be prosecuted for having a "bad check?" — C.B.

A — Bob L. McDonald, executive vice-president of Third National Bank, said a bank can charge for an over-draft if it is the policy of the bank, and people are made aware of this when starting an account. He said his bank charges $1 for overdrawn checks, where it covers the check, and $2 for returning a check.

Sedalia Bank and Trust Co. also charges for overdrawn checks and for returning checks it will not cover. Both banks share the feeling that only a large overdrawn account or continued overdraws would be taken to court.

Bill Smillie, manager of Consumer's, 701 East Broadway, said it is company policy to charge $3 for each check it has to return to a customer. Smillie said under some circumstances, as in the event of an "honest mistake," the charge would not be made.

Identify Kentucky business

An out-of-state firm selling advertising to local merchants over the telephone, a subject of many complaints in the past few days, has been identified as a legitimate firm headquartered in Lexington, Ky., Chamber of Commerce executive manager Larry Melton announced Friday.

However, Melton said, a representative of "Business Review Editons," in town this week to collect payments from local merchants for the advertising, was doing business without a city license.

Melton personally confronted the man Thursday afternoon in a local store after being notified by a store employe that the man had come in to collect payment for the advertising.

"I asked him if he had a city license and he said his company had one in Kentucky," Melton said. "I then told him there was no record of such action in the city files."

Following this brief conversation, Melton said, the man suddenly ran away. Melton then contacted the firm's main office in Lexington and was told that the rural shopping guides, in which the local advertising was to appear, were in the process of being mailed from Kentucky. These guides have not yet arrived in Sedalia, according to postal authorities, Melton said.

"I think the things will probably end up coming here, but I'm not positive they would have if we hadn't raised a fuss," Melton said. "I guess the company is probably legitimate, but they engaged in questionable methods of operation in this area."

Truck, farm tractor crash fatal to man

PALMYRA, Mo. (AP) — Jerome D. Lapolice, 32, of Clyde, Kan., was killed Friday afternoon in a collision between his truck and a farm tractor a mile south of Palmyra on U.S. 61.

The highway patrol said the truck rammed the tractor from the rear and broke the machine into several pieces. The tractor driver, William Marion Schade, 72, of Hannibal, Mo., was injured. The truck overturned.

Gun possession means jail term for man

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jack Powell, 33, owner of a restaurant in Malden, Mo., has been sentenced to 30 months in prison on a charge of possessing stolen shotguns.

Powell was found guilty of possessing firearms after a felony conviction and of dealing in firearms without a license Nov. 10 in federal court.

Judge James H. Meredith also ordered Friday that Powell be placed on five years' probation after his prison term. Powel was freed on bond pending appeal of the case.

Detective will have a hearing

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A hearing is scheduled in the Missouri Court of Appeals here Tuesday for a police detective who was jailed for about five hours Friday because he would not name his informants for a Washington County grand jury.

Florissant detective David McClelland was sentenced to seven days in jail by Circuit Judge Phillip Hess after McClelland refused to tell the grand jury the names of two women who came to him with information concerning alleged corruption in the Washington County Sheriff's department and the Potosi police department.

McClelland was released about five hours later at the order of the appeals court.

McClelland had told the grand jury that the women came to him with the information because they were afraid to go to county or Potosi authorities. He said they told him that four deaths ruled accidental by county authorities were actually drug-related murders.

Florissant Police Chief robert Truetken backed McClelland in the incident, saying "McClelland wouldn't even divulge his testimony or the women's names to us. To a good law enforcement officer, their informants are sacred."

Potosi is about 70 miles southwest of St. Louis.

Rocky gets support from most

In another light response, 61 per cent of The Democrat-Capital readers who answered last Sunday's survey said they supported the confirmation of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president of the United States. Only 16 answers were received.

Readers were asked: "President Ford's nomination of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president has run into trouble in Congress, where questions have been raised about Rockefeller's financial gifts to friends and other matters. Based on what you know, do you believe Rockefeller should be confirmed?"

Lee and Madge Kluttz, Clinton, wrote, "Nelson Rockefeller should be confirmed for vice president. There is a bunch of over-grown kids in Congress. They are a bunch of soreheads and even though they knew Nelson Rockefeller was rich, he is far richer than anyone could imagine, they just can't seem to be able to stand it. Am sure he would be a much better and stronger president than the one we have. He has had a lot more business experience, and would be firm in his decisions ..."

A Versailles reader who asked not to be identified said, "Congress should not push a man through the back door when he has been rejected three times (by) his own party."

A "yes" vote was accompanied by this note: "I don't agree with your premise that President Ford's nomination of Mr. Rockefeller as vice president has run into trouble in Congress. All questions have been satisfactorily answered in the Rules Committee hearings. Certainly Mr. Rockefeller should be confirmed and I believe Congress will have the good judgment to do so."

Mrs. Albert Schader, 801 East 10th, is against Rockefeller's confirmation. She wrote, "I read in the paper here some time ago that he owed a lot of taxes. We have had too many of those kind in our government the last years (who) spend people's tax money like it grew on trees ..."

Another unidentified reader wrote, "I most certainly believe that Mr. Rockefeller is the best qualified man in the country to be vice president. I feel that his broad experience in finances and his knowledge of foreign affairs would be invaluable to the President."

Mrs. Paul Varner, Florence, doesn't feel this way. She wrote: "No! Nelson Rockefeller should never be confirmed as vice president. His resignation from the governorship of New York to head up a high-sounding committee had a two-fold purpose. If he lost his governor race, his chances for the presidency were lost. Two, by announcing he wasn't running for an office, but would make up his mind in late 1975, would give him plenty of time to run around the country trying to get support ... Since he moved to Albany a decade ago, New York's expenditures have tripled. White New Yorkers are the heaviest taxed people in the U.S. Since 1959, New York's budget has spiralled from $1.9 billion to $8.8 billion. He didn't bring fiscal sanity to New York, so now he wants to take his kind of fiscal sanity to Washington. No thanks. We don't want him and we don't need him ... If he gets in he will help America go right down the drain."

James Bell, Route 6, wrote, "One day recently I listened by radio to the Senate's hearings on Nelson Rockefeller. He appeared willing to answer any and all questions that were put to him. If he didn't know the answer to a question, he indicated he'd have the information looked up. His openness impressed me ... Isn't it about time we return to trusting men in our political system instead of viewing each man as a villain?"

And finally this reply from a Sedalian who didn't want to be named: "Thank you for giving me and others like me a chance to express our opinions. It is a relief to get strongly-felt resentment out of our systems in this manner. I find you less biased and not so controlled by the powers that are apparently buying propaganda space in daily papers and periodicals. Watching on TV how the committees of senators and representatives are turning Mr. Rockefeller inside out and upside-down and invading his innermost privacy, I defnitely would vote for him. They have crystalized my opinion that he is well-fitted to serve as vice president or as president."

In World War I the Russians mobilized 12 million men and 9,150,000 were casualties, including 1,700,000 killed.

Blind man wants to join Army

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — A blind Milwaukee college student, rejected by recruiters because he's not fit for combat, is waging a personal battle to enlist in the U.S. Army.

Michael Welch, 21, says he and other handicapped Americans should be allowed to serve in the military. He says it's his patriotic duty.

"It's not fair," Welch said of the Army requirement that all males be qualified for combat duty. "There are plenty of other things handicapped people can do. This is discrimination against people with handicaps."

A social welfare major at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Welch wants to serve as an Army prison counslor.

"My basic premise is that women are allowed into the service without being qualified for combat, so handicapped people should, too," he said.

He said his congressman, Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., is looking into legislation to allow qualified handicapped persons to enlist.

"I'm more than qualified other than being blind, and that shouldn't hold me back," Welch said. He has been totally blind since birth.

Five feet, eight inches tall and 155 pounds, he said he has no other physical drawbacks. A certified sport parachutist with more than 50 jumps, he said he might even try out for the Golden Knights, the Army's show team of precision parachutists.

"Think what good publicity it would be for them to have a blind parachutist," he said.

Dick, Jane in action ..

The Phoenix Nest
Edited by Martin Levin

By DERECK WILLIAMSON

I was down in my cellar the other day, removing a carton of old books from the wet floor caused by either a pipe leak or a floor leak. I was trying to find out where the leak was coming from, but first I had to move the books out of the way.

I carried the carton over to a dry spot, and the bottom fell out. I started picking up the books and putting them on a shelf where they'd be safe until the wall leaked. Soon I found myself leafing through each book. It never pays to rush into plumbing problems.

Suddenly, I came upon a familiar passage. "Oh oh look look!" I said aloud.

My wife called down to ask if I'd found the leak. I said no, I was reading from a published work, "Fun With Dick And Jane."

As I examined the colorful pages of monosyllabic adventures of Dick and Jane and their friends and pets, I was flooded with nostalgia, a nice change from water. Millions of us had been led down the path of learning through the stories of the apple-cheeked kids.

In later years they were replaced by visual aids, magnetic boards, and reading books containing stories without a central cast of characters. But here, in my musty cellar, I found them all once again: Dick, Jane, Baby Sally, Mother, Father, Spot, and Puff. Oh oh.

I sat on the steps and began to read. The very first Dick and Jane story is a classic; it runs three pages and contains only two words!

On the first page we see Dick. It is Fall, and leaves are on the gruund. Dick is standing on his head. The text says, "Look look." Near Dick is a basket full of leaves. If Dick should fall...

On the second page, Dick is falling. His feet are hitting the basket! The caption:

"Oh oh oh."

Trembling with excitement, I quickly turned the page and read the end of the story:

"Look, look. Oh, look." Dick is lying on the ground. The leaf basket is on his stomach. Leaves are scattered in all directions.

Jane is introduced in the next story, a lot wordier:

"See, see. See Jane. Oh, Jane. Look, look, look. Oh, oh, oh. Oh, see. Oh, see Jane. Funny, funny Jane."

I took the book upstairs and read the story to my wife. She pointed out that it didn't make much sense without the pictures. Since she was busy at the stove, I explained that Dick is watching Jane roller-skating, when one of Jane's skates comes off. But Jane keeps on going, with one skate, leaving the other behind. Funny, funny Jane.

I poured myself a cup of coffee and settled down at the kitchen table to read the whole book. Later stories introduce Baby Sally, who does funny things like pulling umbrellas and tents down over her head; the dog Spot who gets chased by a toad (Funny Spot); and the cat Puff who chases a toad (Funny Puff).

In one story the animals team up (Funny Spot, funny Puff) to tear down a washline and then make paw-marks all over the family car, a 1940 Dodge.

I noticed that Dick and Jane tended to speak in a rather autocratic manner. Conversation consisted of a series of commands. "Run, Jane, Run." "Jump, Dick, Jump." I advanced the theory that Dick and Jane may have been phased out because they were so abrupt and undemocratic. I asked my wife what she thought.

She said, "Oh, go now. Go now, go. Find leak. Go, go, go!"

That's the trouble around here; I can never have a serious literary discussion.

Counting doesn't help in solitaire

By MIKE PIEDMONTE

It does no good to count the cards after every game. There are always 52 to the deck.

There is never a king when you need one.

Given a choice of kings, there is a magnetic force that will make you peek every time, no matter how honest you are.

Any game of solitaire that gets off to a good start will soon prove to be a bad hand.

Never play solitaire with an adult female in the same room. She will either talk to you or will keep deathly quiet. Regardless, it will be impossible to concentrate.

Never play solitaire with an adult male in the same room. He will either try to help you or just watch. Regardless, it will be impossible to concentrate.

Never play solitaire with a child of either sex in the same room.

In solitaire as in life, you must give yourself a fair shuffle.

Book two men in executing style killing

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Two men have now been booked in connection with the Nov. 9 execution-style slayings of pharmacist operator Bernard Grossman, 45, and an assistant, Susan Psaris, 18, police said.

Authorities said the second man that was sought in the case, Harry Mack Baker, 23, surrendered Friday to city police. Baker and his brother, James Otis Baker, 30, have been charged with kidnaping and robbery in the case.

Grossman and Miss Psaris disappeared from the south St. Louis drug store during business hours and were later found shot to death on a football field at Affton High School in St. Louis County.

Believe modern man losing control

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

PALM COAST, Fla (AP) — Frizzy-haired geneticist James Watson shocked his distinguished audience when he said, "God is a cop-out." The message of the past 30 years, he said, is that "nothing is going to get better."

Fellow Nobel Prize-winner Gunnar Myrdal declared that he was "scared for America because she's so different from the glorious era of Franklin Roosevelt."

And soft-spoken novelist Saul Bellow added to the consensus by saying, "We have never been in such a tremendous crisis as the present time."

As panelists at a recent symposium discussing human nature and human destiny, the three appeared in basic agreement that modern-day man is losing control of his historical direction.

Dr. Watson, a Harvard professor who won the Nobel for his discovery of the structure of DNA, the molecule of heredity, amplified his witty presentation at a relaxed cocktail party following the panel discussion.

"It would be nice to believe that there is something distantly wonderful that keeps everything in line, but there is no reason for it," he said with a smile. "I would like to think that there is something guiding our destiny. But there is nothing that is doing this but man himself.

"I don't believe in God at all."

And he told his audience that after many years of study of cellular evolution, molecular genetics and other areas of biochemistry, one would think that somehow, something could exist and multiply, acquiring the property of evolving to become more efficient.

"You might then say that there might still be something new in nature, something which in some way might make life more bearable," he said.

"But what's really been the message of the last 30 years is that there's nothing which would make it so," he concluded to an uncomfortable stirring of audience and participants.

The aging Myrdal, Swedish-born social scientist and economist, appeared to be bewildered by the present, unwilling to discuss the future and far more comfortable in his old theories of a past "when there was a trust in the future and in American institutions."

Now 75 and shuffling along with the aid of a cane, the author of "An American Dilemma," "Beyond the Welfare State" and "Challenge to Affluence" said such trust in the future among young people of the Roosevelt-Depression Era was "very, very important ... and it's very much missing now."

"I am a little scared when I look upon present-day America because she's so different from the glorious era of Roosevelt in which I worked at the time," said Myrdal.

Asked his views on President Ford's economic policy, the social economist repeatedly tapped his interviewer on the knee to emphasize his belief that "the so-called war against inflation is flowery rhetoric and not reality.

"Mr. Ford asks the American people to sacrifice themselves in this war, and the Americans see no incentive to making sacrifices like they did in World War II, for instance," Myrdal says.

"I call it stagflation, and you will not win it if you don't take it as a war. I don't see any clear leadership in either major party against this evil."

Bellow, whose award winning books include "Herzog," "The Adventures of Augie March" and "Mr. Sammler's Planet," said he disliked terms like pessimist and optimist, adding that he classified himself as a realist.

"Everyone knows that people always believe that they're living in the worst times," he said. "I think we have a better claim to this type of thing than people had before."

He added that there was a feeling of "uncontrollable urgency" to today's problem of controlling human destiny.

"These questions are the concern of everyone and there is no way to avoid the general feeling that something must be done and that it must be done now," Bellow said.

Small plants make tools

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — Have you ever wondered where icepicks and "glacier skis" are being made? Certainly not on the assembly lines of the big plants in Western Europe and the United States.

They are made in such places as the tiny villages of the Stubai Valley in the Tyrol, where the descendants of the village smiths knew they would never be able to compete with the industrial giants.

But they also knew they could make icepicks, precision tools and "glacier skis," things with which the big factories would not bother.

"Glacier skis" are made of aluminum and measure only about one third of a normal ski. They are used by mountain climbers to traverse glaciers or snowfields during their summertime mountain tours. The "glacier skis" weigh little and can easily be taken along on tours.

The Stubai Valley industry is well-placed to make them, situated on the foot of the eternal-snow Stubai glacier which was opened up to tourism on a large scale earlier this year by a new system of cablecars.

Before construction of the cable cars — in fact, a system of closed gondolas each holding six persons — it took nine hours to climb up to the Dresdner mountain hut halfway up the 11,000-foot-high Wildspitze, Tyrol's tallest mountain. The cablecar makes it to the 9,842-foot-high Eisgrat at the foot of the Wildspitze in about 20 minutes.

Some 75 years ago, the 30 village smiths of the Stubai Valley decided to join forces. Now the industrial collaboration started by them has grown to 50 small plants with 500 workers, producing some 4,500 tools used in industry, home, garden and tourism.

Even moonshiner feels inflation

SOMEWHERE IN NORTH CAROLINA (AP) — "The moon ain't shining so bright these days," said the man called Sam. He laughed, and tried to hold his enormous belly in place.

Sam is a moonshiner by trade, and that's how he began his personal impressions of the nation's inflationary economy.

Sam was interviewed by Merritt Sallinger of the Norfolk, Va., Ledger-Star behind an abandoned farmhouse in the swamp woods of northeastern North Carolina on a recent, frost-chilled night.

In the moonshine business, Sam is known as "a factory man."

He is also out of work.

Truth is, the spiraling costs of production — the cost of sugar, largely — and what Sam calls "a dying market" are sending moonshine operations down the drain. "I'm ruined," Sam moaned. "I think this business today would break a banker."

He should know. For 30-odd years, this man has engaged in the moonshine trade. He has made mistakes, paid fines, served time in jail.

Some of his expensive stills have been found by agents and destroyed. He relocated them and started up again.

"But that ws when there was money to be had," Sam said. "Likel told you, the market is almost gone and a man just can't afford to bu.ld a factory no more."

A couple of years back, he plant that cost him about $700 to set up. "That same rig today would cost a man over he said.

With that still, Sam made nearly 600 gallons of moonshine whisky twice a week. He sold it from the site at $4 a gallon.

Supplies for that much whisky cost more than $2,600 on today's wholesale market. But few moonshiners are able to come by wholesale prices, so the cost is well above that figure — and rising.

"A man would have to get more than $7 or $8 a gallon to make a decent profit," Sam said.

And buyers are vanishing. "People are getting rid of the slums, and when you ain't got no slums, you ain't got much of a market for this stuff."

The sooner you call, the sooner you save.

Business is brisk for some

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — While the nation's economy sags, merchants in this cigarette-manufacturing city are selling cars and color televisions at a brisk pace. The city's largest employer has pumped at least $45 million into the local economy.

The money flowed in after R. J. Reynolds Industries, a major cigarette manufacturer, paid off most of its employe profit-sharing plan last week. Although the company will not reveal the exact figure, a spokesman said the amount was at least $45 million and possibly as high as $100 million.

The money bolstered sales at a time when business was slumping.

"It's been a fantastic boost,' said Ed Kelly, an appliance and television dealer. "It happened when sales were down and brought us back up to last year's level."

Reynolds instituted the profit-sharing plan in 1956 but terminated it in 1969. The money credited to employes who have remained with the company stayed in their accounts until Reynolds received a ruling from the Internal Revenue Service last week on how to close them out.

Employes who had joined the plan before 1969 were given four choices: take the money in cash, use the money to buy an annuity, take a combination of stock and cash or continue the full share in the profit sharing trust.

A company spokesman would not say how many of the estimated 10,000 eligible employes took the cash. "We'd have every huckster in North Carolina and probably the country in here if we did that," he said.

Coal company sued for fish kill

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Peabody Coal Co. will be sued as the result of a fish kill in Henry County, an attorney for the Missouri Clean Water Commission says.

Dan Summers of the attorney general's office said Friday a charge against A. P. Green Refractories for a fish kill July 15 in the Salt River is under consideration, but no decision has been made.

The Clean Water Commission authorized the attorney general's office to investigate and file charges if necessary, in both cases.

About 1,500 fish died in the Salt River from toxic chemicals which escaped into the river.

Summers said charges will be filed against Peabody Coal, charging that acid drainage was pumped out of its strip mine near Clinton and into Bear Creek Sept. 11, killing 6,000 fish.

If convicted, the firm faces civil penalties up to $10,000, plus damages for the value of the fish. The damages would be paid into the Henry County school fund.

Nuclear power plant debate continues

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Participants in the Union Electric Co. application to construct the state's first nuclear power plant began their wait for transcripts as one of the longest proceedings before the Missouri Public Service Commission has ended.

The 14 days of oral testimony from the public, company officials and expert witnesses concluded late Thursday with the testimony of Robert Sorensen, an economic professor at the University of Missouri-St. Louis.

Sorensen questioned the reliability of the St. Louis utility's estimate that demand for electricity would increase by 5.6 per cent in the coming years.

He claimed it would only rise about 4 per cent annually because the rising cost of electricity would force demand down, offering more time to develop alternative sources to nuclear power. That theory had been voiced earlier in the hearings and refuted by Union Electric officials, who claimed their growth estimates were below those of other power companies.

Following preparation of what is expected to be several thousand pages of transcripts, the commission will order briefs to be submitted by the parties involved and then set a date for final oral arguments.

Union Electric has already spent more than $3 million to purchase some 6,600 acres in southeast Callaway County for construction of the $1.75 billion plant, which would have a generating capacity of 2.3 million kilowatts when it goes into full operation in 1983.

Utility officials have acknowledged that rates will rise as a result of construction of the plant, but they claimed a nuclear facility would best meet demands for the remainder of the century.

PSC chairman James F. Ouze has said a final decision is expected on the application sometime early next year. The commission has emphasized that it is most interested in the economic and locational impact of the plant with the federal Atomic Energy Commission ruling on the safety aspects.

No dates have been set for the AEC hearings on the UE application. But should the commission become the first regulatory agency in the nation to turn down construction of a nuclear power plant, the application would be dead.

A spokesman said the commission will file as a participant in the AEC proceedings soon without taking a stand on the proposal, but he noted that such action is normal for the PSC in any federal case involving the state.

More than 20 witnesses testifying on behalf of the company, the Utility Consumers Council of Missouri and other intervenors appeared before the commission during the hearings and dozens of members of the public testified, primarily against the plant because of safety considerations, during two days of public testimony.

New assistant to governor is appointed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — One of the organizers of the Missouri Association of Counties has been named assistant to Gov. Christopher S. Bond to serve as his liaison with county and local governments and the state Senate.

Bond announced Friday that Ralph N. Smith, Republican Senate candidate who lost his bid to succeed retiring state GOP Sen. Don Owens of Gerald in the general election, will succeed Alan Woods in the post, beginning Jan. 1.

Woods resigned in September to return to work in Washington, D.C. where he had served in the administration of former President Richard Nixon.

Smith, 45, a co-owner of realty and insurance firms in Union, has been presiding judge of Franklin County since 1966 and served two terms before that as Franklin County Clerk.

Discrimination investigations come slow

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — It has taken nearly two years to investigate some discrimination cases with the Human Rights Commission and some cases waited nine years before a public hearing was held, a state audit report says.

The five-year audit showed delays in investigation of complaints and statistical errors by the commission.

The report cited 66 cases awaiting a public hearing as of last June 30. One was filed in 1965 and 20 in 1966. Twenty-one hearings have been held in the past three years.

The report was critical of delays in handling cases referred to the commission by the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

The report recommended the 66 cases awaiting a public hearing be reviewed promptly and resolved. It recommended a review and disposal of all cases still open after six months, and that in the future top priority be given to cases older than two months.

Of 113 employment cases filed from July 1, 1969, to June 30, 1974, the report said, 28 cases were returned to the EEOC without any investigation being performed.

Some of the cases mentioned in the audit were closed before last June 30, Ellen Roper, executive director of the commission, said.

"We're inventorying our list, taking all the steps recommended in the audit. In some cases the statistical errors were carried on from year to year. Some of the cases have been resolved and not yet removed from the statistics. Our case report control is poor in this area."

On the EEOC cases now, she said, they are returned to the federal agency within 24 hours if the Missouri commission decides it has no jurisdiction.

"Some cases do take up to six months to investigate," she said. "It's only fair to the complainant to check out everything. In some cases we're not clear legally whether we have jurisdiction and investigation is delayed."

Mrs. Roper replaced John DeShields in October as director of the commission. DeShields replaced Clyde Scott in December of 1973.

The report showed the commission received 6,334 complaints from July 1, 1968, to June 30,1973, and 4,232 of the cases were closed. No figures were available from June 30, 1973 to June 30, 1974.

The commission has a budget of $400,000. It investigates and conciliates, or prosecutes, cases of discrimination based on race, religion, age or sex. When a complaint is filed, an investigation is conducted before the case is dropped, conciliated or taken to a public hearing.

The audit, for the five years ending last June 30, said the commission used unreliable statistics in its appropriation requests and annual reports.

The audit report said the commission's 1974 fiscal report indicates 728 cases were under investigation but the state auditor's review found only 627 cases pending investigation. The discrepancy resulted from information dating back to 1961, the report said.

The report said the files were never inventoried to verify actual cases on hand, and status reports were prepared from a case docket register containing statistical errors. The report advised the commission to inventory all current cases, reconcile the docket clerk's records with the inventory, and prepare a yearly inventory of cases before the annual report is published.

The report said an average of six months—some up to 22 months—was spent in investigating complaints for which the case file was closed because of "no probable cause," "no contact could be made with complainant," "no jurisdiction," and "jurisdiction waived and case referred to Equal Employment Opportunity Commission."

"Our review of 231 case files showed that 112 cases should have been screened prior to extensive investigation," the report said.

Canada plans to reduce oil exports

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada has announced plans to reduce oil exports to the United States next year by up to 28 per cent and completely eliminate them by 1982.

The plan was announced in a Friday night address to Parliament by Energy Minister Donald Macdonald.

Macdonald said the 900,000 barrels a day now being exported to the United States — about 15 per cent of U.S. oil imports — would be reduced to 800,000 by Jan. 1, 1975, and be further cut to 650,000 in July if the main oil-producing provinces, Alberta and Saskatchewan, agree.

Macdonald said the immediate purpose was to arrange for sufficient oil to be shipped to eastern Canada when the country's first east-west pipeline link is completed, while the long-term objective was to avert an oil shortage predicted for the next decade.

The proposed cut to 650,000 barrels a day is tied to a government promise to pipe oil from Canada's western states to Montreal by 1976 for use in markets in the east of the country. A pipeline extension capable of carrying 250,000 barrels a day is scheduled to be built to Montreal from Sarnia, Ont., but it won't be ready before 1976.

The minister told newsmen later that if Alberta and Saskatchewan raise serious objections, the 800,000 level would be maintained throughout 1975. However, this would not affect the long-term intention of phasing out exports by 1982, the date when existing supplies of crude oil are expected to fall below domestic demand.

Macdonald said the proposal to "lock up the oil ahead of time" is primarily a political move in response to criticism over the volume of exports now going to the United States.

Anti-trust case far from resolved

NEW YORK (AP) — Settlement of the Justice Department's biggest antitrust case is sure to be a long way off, as is the answer to the question of whether or not its end result will be lower prices.

Target of government attorneys' suit this past week was no less than American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the world's biggest public utility. In terms of its $67 billion in assets, AT&T is the biggest company in the world.

AT&T operates more than 80 per cent of this country's telephones. With its payroll is second only to that of the federal government. Its stock is owned by more Americans than that of any other corporation.

Justice Department attorneys charged this past week that AT&T was illegally monopolizing the telecommunications industry, making it difficult for others to link up with the nation's various types of communications networks and hence difficult for others, to compete at all with Ma Bell.

They argued that AT&T should give up its giant Western Electric Co., the efficient producer of most of the nation's telephone equipment.

They also said AT&T should either get rid of most of its long distance operations or at least some of the 23 local telephone companies which spread the Bell system across most of the nation.

Justice Department officials said more competition would result and hopefully bring lower prices.

AT&T Chairman John D. deButts, however, said the action would hurt the nation's telephone network. "If that happens, telephone service would deteriorate and cost much, much more."

DeButts said AT&T saw no room for compromise and would fight antitrust action "to the end." Justice Department officials themselves said the case could take at least three years.

Remember the Great Depression

KENOSHA, Wis. (AP) — "There was worry, anger, joy and love all jumbled together, and I have a deep feeling of unhappiness when I try to recall the things I want to forget."

Those are the words of Gertrude Haltman, and they apply to the Great Depression of the 1930s.

They appear with the recollections of more than a dozen other amateur authors in a 22-page booklet on sale during a fund-raising fair at the Kenosha Senior Citizens Center.

Mrs. Martion Bach, program coordinator for the community activities center, said the pamphlet was a hot sales item.

Mrs. Bach said members of a creative writing class, many of them retired persons who recall the deprivation of the 1930s, "wanted to contribute something," and they put together their "Reminiscences of Depression Days," a collection of essays and poems.

Mrs. Haltman, for example, relates the frustration felt by her husband who was a meat department manager in a grocery store.

"At the beginning of the Depression," she writes, "the government passed some kind of wage scale that was supposed to help people. But the firm my husband worked for took unfair advantage of it. They changed his title from manager to clerk and were able to cut him exactly one-third of his regular salary."

Lillian Lundin compares her experiences with today's cost of living, recalling seven-cent bus fares and hamburger for 10 cents a pound.

"We saved pennies, and it seemed we bought everything with pennies," Mrs. Lundin said. "Once, when the pennies were exhausted, we sold dad's gold inlays from teeth that were extracted, and bought cherries to can and eat.

"We had company for dinner one evening, and Lois, 3, said: 'Daddy, are these cherries from your gold teeth?'

"Wealth we did not have. But there was good health and lots of love in our home."

Edna E. Veale recalls her brother's frantic search through dresser drawers for five cents with which to buy tobacco. Suddenly he remembered having accidentally tossed a nickel which disappeared through a gap in some doorway woodwork.

"Off came the woodwork and they found the wedged nickel, which meant another day of smokes," she writes.

Harold Kolb, a retired printer, recalls the dearth of jobs in Minneaolis in 1934.

"Shortly after World War II started, work increased," he said. "One day the foreman of the shop ordered me brusquely to get a job out in a hurry.

"Then he paused, remembering things were different and added pleading: 'Will you please?' I laughed, the Depression was over."

Metal cans dangerous

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — That bottle of wine may make the perfect dinner. But it also might mean a tenfold increase in your body's lead content, a University of Idaho chemistry professor says.

Dr. Chien Wai said a research project which began in 1971 shows that wine bottles capped by a metal seal often contain one to two parts per million of lead in the liquid.

He said consumption of four or five bottles of wine sealed with metal caps over their corks can give the average person the equivalent of one year's accumulation of lead.

Wai said the bottles' soft metal seal contains 95 per cent lead. When wine is properly stored, with the liquid touching the cork, the alcohol can attack the lead, causing corrosion and diffusuion of lead back through the cork into the wine.

Wai said lead poisoning could occur in countries where the yearly per capita consumption of wine is as high as 30 to 50 gallons.

People in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — Valery and Galina Panov, the ballet dancers who emigrated to Israel after a two-year struggle to leave the Soviet Union, have arrived here for a dance tour of the United States.

"We are filled with admiration and delight at being in this country," Panov said Thursday night as he and his wife received a warm welcome at Kennedy Airport.

Panov, a Jew, was dismissed from Leningrad's Kirov Ballet after he applied for permission to emigrate to Israel in 1972. Galina, who is not Jewish, was demoted and eventually dropped from the company.

PARIS (AP) — Kenneth Rush, the new ambassador to France, has presented his credentials to President Valery Giscard d'Estaing. Rush, who succeeds John Irwin III, met with Giscard d'Estaing on Thursday.

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Lithuanian-born Simas Kudirka has been invited to visit the U.S. Coast Guard cutter where he made a desperate bid for freedom that got him 45 months in Soviet prisons.

Kudirka and his family, who were allowed to leave the Soviet Union on Nov. 5, has been living here with the family of Dr. Roland D. Paegle.

Kudirka plans to accept the invitation to visit the cutter Vigilant in New Bedford, Mass., on Saturday, the fourth anniversary of his request for political asylum.

Kudirka spent 6½ hours aboard the boat on Nov. 23, 1970, after leaping to its deck from a Soviet fishing trawler.

Wyoming state was named after Wyoming Valley, Pa., and in the Indian language Wyoming means "alternating mountains and valleys."

Middleman again gets the blame for increased prices in the U.S.

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher wheat prices are once more becoming factors in how much consumers pay for bread, although middleman charges account for most of the cost increase, according to the latest government figures.

The retail price of a one pound loaf of bread in October averaged a record 35.6 cents nationally, up eight-tenths of a cent from September, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said Thursday.

Figures by the Agriculture Department show the farm price of wheat also went up sharply last month to $4.85 a bushel from $4.32 in September. The record wheat price, was $5.52 a bushel last February.

Although officials said an analysis of what contributed most to the October bread price increase will not be ready for another month or so, another USDA report Thursday showed processing and other middleman expenses have contributed most to the price increases in the past year.

A wheat situation report by the department's Economic Research Service showed a one-pound loaf of white bread averaged 34.7 cents in the third quarter of this year, compared with 27.7 cents in July-September 1973.

The farm value of wheat in a loaf of bread averaged 5 cents during the third quarter, compared with 4.5 cents in July-September last year. Thus, while the retail price of bread rose seven cents over a 12month span, the farm value of wheat used to make a loaf increase one-half cent.

Wheat soared to record levels last winter, averaging a top of $5.52 per bushel on Feb. 15, according to USDA surveys then. At that time, middleman margins — the price spread between what farmers get for raw products and consumers pay for an item — were increasing along with wheat prices.

In the first three months of 1974, the report showed, bread averaged 32.8 cents per loaf, including a value of 6.4 cents for wheat used to make it. Although the farm value of wheat soon began declining, bread prices continued to go up generally.

Wheat historically has represented a minor portion of bread costs. In 1950, for example, the retail price of a loaf was 14.3 cents, including a wheat value of 2.4 cents. As recently as 1972, there was only 2.8 cents worth of wheat in a loaf that by then cost consumers 24.7 cents.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Illegal traces of the chemical DES have shown up in three more beef livers sampled by federal inspectors, says the Agriculture Department.

The chemical has caused cancer in animals used in laboratory tests.

The three samples were from steers produced in Colorado, Iowa and Wyoming, officials said Thursday. Two previous DES-contaminated livers were reported earlier this year. The total of five were from 2,477 livers tested thus far in 1974 as part of the government's DES monitoring program.

Officials said DES has shown up because of "an apparent increase in the number of cattle growers using DES to promote faster growth and cheaper beef production, and possible carelessness in observing withdrawal times."

The chemical —diethylstilbestrol — was banned as a growth stimulant in 1973 but reinstated by a federal court ruling last January. No trace of it is permitted in livestock meat for human consumption. None ever has been detected in red meat tissue.

Another USDA report Thursday said that in the third quarter of this year chemical residue violations in general fell to less than one per cent of 4,629 meat and poultry samples checked by federal inspectors, compared with a violation rate of 1.3 per cent in the second quarter of this year.

Curators suggest cut in budget

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — University of Missouri President C. Brice Ratchford says he will ask the legislature to ignore a request for deep cuts in the university's proposed budget for the year starting next July.

Dr. Ratchford told the curators at their monthly meeting Friday that he will urge the legislature to provide the full $133 million he wants.

The budget cuts were recommended by the Coordinating Board for Higher Education.

Requests for money to renovate Memorial Stadium brought this question from Pleasant R. Smith of Mexico, a curator for 10 years:

"Where is Missouri going to get its football players?"

Smith said the rejection of a school levy increase threatens to wipe out athletics in St. Louis high schools and the same thing may happen in Kansas City.

"If it gets to the point that there are no interscholastic athletics in Missouri, where are you going to get your football players?" Smith asked.

He said some universities are retrenching on athletics and Columbia doesn't want to provide policemen to direct traffic at football games.

"There ought to be a great deal of caution before you go into debt," Smith said.

He noted reports that Oklahoma may drop out of the Big Eight Conference.

Dr. Ratchford quoted the Oklahoma president, Dr. Paul Sharp, as saying, "That's the last thing we have in mind" when they talked about the reports this week.

MU proposed to spend nearly $400,000 of athletic department money to overhaul restrooms and concession stands and expand the VIP section of the pressbox in the stadium.

The curators approved only $324,000 for the restrooms and concession stands.

Ratchford said he will make a recommendation next month on a proposal to establish a school of optometry at the Missouri-St. Louis campus. He said he hasn't ruled out the idea that the school should be at some other site.

The curators approved an honorary doctor of laws degree for Lawrence K. Roos, St. Louis County supervisor, for outstanding leadership in county government. Roos will be honored Jan. 5 at St. Louis.

A $2,176,176 contract was awarded to the Rallo Construction Co. of St. Louis to start an administration building for the St. Louis campus.

The board also agreed, subject to financial and other considerations, that St. Louis should offer courses leading to master's degrees in psychology and public policy administsration.

Despite his earnings, Spiro bitter

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew is reportedly making $100,000 a year from one business venture and might have another six-figure income from commissions, but he is still unhappy over Watergate.

"I'm bitter," Agnew is quoted as saying in the December issue of McCall's magazine.

Following his conviction on a tax evasion charge and resignation as vice president, Agnew began a career as a business broker. Now he "could be well on his way to becoming a millionaire," says Nick Thimmesch, author of the article.

According to the magazine story:

—Agnew has used an unspecified advance on an uncompleted novel to finance Pathlite Inc., a land-owning, managing and consulting firm.

—He also has a four-year contract with Midwest land developer Walter Dilbeck that pays $100,000 annually, plus one third of profits.

—He is negotiating a potential $5 or $6 million deal for the rich Kuwait International Investment Co. that could bring in a six-figure commission for the former vice president.

Actress suffers from meningitis

LONDON (AP) — Diana Dors, 43, one-time movie sex-symbol, has been hospitalized with meningitis.

Her husband, Alan Lake, said the actress who recently has performed in character roles on the stage and television, became ill at their Berkeshire home after complaining of a headache.

The National Hospital for Nervous Diseases said Miss Dors' condition was serious but that she was resting comfortably.

New arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sidoti, Anoka, Minn., and their adopted son, Brian, nine months (left), greet another adopted son, Matthew, eight months, at the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport Wednesday. The couple applied to Friends of All Children in Denver, Colo., in October, 1973, saying they were willing to adopt Vietnamese orphans.

Killing of man ends in arrest of two

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Two men have been arrested in the fatal shooting of Hyman Gimpelson, 64, who was killed during the Nov. 15 robbery of the Ajax Iron and Metal Co., police said.

Charged Friday with murder, armed robbery and assault with intent to kill in connection with the incident were Charles Tate, 33, and Leroy Taylor 20.

Gimpelson died of wounds received when two armed men entered the firm and took $700 from a safe, police said. The shooting occurred when Gimpelson lunged at one of the men who was carrying a sawed-off shotgun. Gimpelson's two brothers, Simon, 66, and Samuel, 69, were wounded, authorities said.

Favor end to ban on Sunday sales

ST. LOUIS (AP)—About 20 persons testied in favor of doing away with a Missouri law prohibiting Sunday sales here Friday.

St. Louis Police Board President Theodore McNeal and three city police commanders testified before a legislative subcommittee that the 1963 law is difficult to enforce and that there are few complaints about Blue Law violations.

Subcommitte chairman Rep. Phillip Scaglia, D-Kansas City, called the law "antiquated and unenforceable" and claimed it was unfair because it allow sales of "shotguns, ammunition and liquor, but makes it illegal to buy baby bottle, nylon stockings and electric light bulbs."

Scaglia is leading a petition drive for a voter referendum on the Sunday sales law.

The only person to testify against the repeal of the law was Bob Kelly, who represented Local 655 of the Retail Store Employes Union. He said retail workers oppose a change in the law because they like to spend Sunday with their families.

Barking dog problem solved with honking

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed several letters over the years about inconsiderate neighbors who might be deaf because they don't seem to hear their dog barking all night. I had the same problem and finally solved it. Maybe you'd like to pass the word to others who are similarly plagued?

Last week my wife and I were up till 3:00 a.m. because of our neighbor's barking dog. It was driving us out of our miinds. We got out of bed, drove our car out of the garage and marked in the driveway, between our house and our neighbors. We took turns leaning on the horn for 15 minutes straight. The neighbors came out and yelled, "Are you crazy?" I yelled back, "Your dog makes just as much noise every darned night."

With that they whistled for the mutt. He came running and we haven't had any trouble since.--Peace--It's Beautiful

Dear Peace: You're lucky the other neighbors didn't call the police.

Dear Ann Landers: A friend of mine wrote an essay. She called it "Love Or Infatuation?" I hope you'll print it for all the teenagers (and many adults) who are grappling with the problem.--Oakland Reader

LOVE OR INFATUATION leaps into bloom. LOVE usually takes root slowly and grows with time.

INFATUATION is accompanied by a sense of uncertainty. You are stimulated and thrilled but not really happy. You are miserable when he is absent. You can't wait until you see him again.

LOVE begins with a feeling of security. You are warm with a sense of his nearness, even when he is away. Miles do not separate you. You want him near, but near or far, you know he's yours and you can wait.

INFATUATION says, "We must get married right away. I can't risk losing him." LOVE says, "Don't rush into anything." You are sure of one another. You can plan your future with confidence.

INFATUATION has an element of sexual excitement. If you are honest, you will discover that it is difficult to enjoy one another unless you know it will end in intimacy.

LOVE is the maturation of friendship. You must be friends before you can be lovers.

INFATUATION lacks confidence. When he's away you wonder if he's with another girl. Sometimes you even check to make sure.

LOVE means trust. You may fall into INFATUATION, but you never fall in love. Infatuation might lead you to do things for which you might be sorry, but LOVE never will.

LOVE leads you up. Itmakes you look up. It makes you think up. It makes you a better person than you were before--I Know The Difference

Dear Reader: Beautiful. Thanks for sharing.

Dear Ann Landers: My job is endangered because I don't know how to deal with my wife's irresponsible spending. She refuses to admit she can't handle a checking account, although every month she is overdrawn.

We fight about this constantly. I can't live with debt. I think she needs professional help because she's a compulsive spender. She won't go. Can you help?--Trusting In You

Dear Trusting: Make an appointment with the person in your bank who counsels clients. He will tell you both what needs to be done--and how. If an "authority" says she must live on an allowance and all charge accounts must be closed, she might listen. If she refuses to go, go alone and follow the banker's instructions--no matter what.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers's guide to "Necking and Petting--What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

In Combination With The Sunday Morning Capital

Sedalia, Missouri, Sunday, November 24, 1974—Section B

Creative hobby

Guy Hackett, 1015 South Ohio, carefully closes the glassed door covering the face of this grandmother clock he recently built. He has been making clock cases and assembling the inside "fixings" in his little backyard workshop for nearly a decade.

By RON JENNINGS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

Guy Hackett would be the last to admit it, but he's more than just a custom clock-maker.

Everytime he steps into his 12-by-18 foot backyard workshop at 1015 South Ohio, Hackett enters the mainstream of a quilt-sewing, cabinet-carving renaissance of craftsmanship in this country. Some sociologists have explained this phenomenon of the seventies as a frustrated society's yearning for distinction and quality in an age of mass-production. Others view it as the outgrowth of a people's quest for the concrete essence of an earlier age.

Hackett, 72, puts about as much stock in such long-fangled explanations as he does in solid walnut clock cases.

"All I wanted was just something to keep me busy ~~after I wanted was just something to keep me busy~~ after I retired," he explained, while handling a lathe that still resembled the sewing machine it once was. "If I didn't have this little place to go back to, I don't know what I'd do. Go stir-crazy, I guess."

Hackett's sanity-preserving measures often begin with a four-by-eight foot sheet of lumber, preferably plywood, three-fourths of an inch thick. Calling upon the scattered array of tools crowded into his small shop, he saws, sands, planes and carves individual pieces. When glued or nailed together, they form a decorative six-to-seven foot tall grandfather clock case.

Once the shell is finished, Hackett installs the time mechanism, chimes, pendulum, face and glass. He orders his fixtures from an Illinois supplier who, in turn, imports them from West Germany. He says he could buy cheaper items elsewhere but, "I want only the best to go into my cases. The ones I buy are brass, not tin. They'll last 200 years."

Glancing up at a six-foot grandfather model standing five inches over his head, Hackett quickly appraised it as slightly over $125.

"Three times cheaper than you could buy 'em anywhere else," he maintained. "You couldn't even look at one in stores for that." His smaller five-foot varieties sell for between $75 and $125, "depending on what a fella wants."

"I never intended to make much money from all this," he explained. "Like I said before, it's something that keeps me busy and as long as I break even, that's about all I'm really thinking about."

Since he moved here from Otterville 10 years ago, Hackett has made more than 30 grandfather, grandmother, wall and mantle clocks in addition to whittling many other assorted wood furnishings for his home. His production rate could have been higher, he admits, "but I go fishing whenever I feel like it ... I'll stop right in the middle of something if the fancy strikes me. To me, fishing is just the same as making things from wood ... they're both things I like to do."

There is one difference though. Hackett's been fishing most of his life, but he didn't take up woodworking until around 1964. Before that, he rebuilt boat engines and served in the Navy for 30 years as a "real" metal machinist.

"That's right," he said, "a real machinist. Not like the ones today. These young sprouts, all they do nowadays is just run a machine. In my time, I ran a machine, drew blue prints, welded and made patterns. When I first came on the job, they handed me a file and I had to file a hunk of metal square. That's how they started you out."

Having this metal-working experience to fall back on made the transition to his workshop easier, Hackett acknowledged. But, he quickly added, some adjustments had to be made.

"When you work with metal, you have to fit the different parts real tight, perfectly tight, you might say," he said. "With wood, you can't make it quite so snug because you have to allow for swelling."

Walking from his workshop back to his house, Hackett paused by the side of a circular, rock-and-mortar wishing well.

"We just had all these big rocks around our yard when we came here and didn't know what to do with them," he smiled. "I just got busy one day and started putting this together. I guess I just don't like to keep my hands still."

Continuing on inside his home, Hackett counted eight clocks he keeps there. He's proud of them all — even the one he didn't make. "That's a genuine Dresden China clock," he said pointing to a timepiece in the kitchen. "I've been offered quite a good deal for it. I guess it's what you'd call a valuable antique."

Hackett hasn't spent a penny on formal advertising ("I don't want more than I can handle") and in general has managed to keep a low profile. But he wasn't worried about getting his name in the paper.

"You may end up causing me some trouble," he said with a wry grin. "But I guess I don't care. I may get more requests, but the people will just have to wait a little longer. If they want one of my clocks bad enough, they'll wait. I'm not going to hurry up for 'em if I don't feel like it."

Artifacts unearthed along route

IN THE ATIGUN CANYON ABOVE THE ARCTIC CIRCLE, Alaska (AP) — The slate-blue arrowhead looked out of place lying on top of the ground in the middle of nowhere.

Somehow it would have seemed more appropriate to stare at it on a piece of black velvet, inside a glass case, beside a neatly printed card telling of a long-ago people who made it and used it and left it behind.

But there it was, freshly dug from the ground of Alaska's North Slope above the Arctic Circle. For the first time in 10,000 years, the carefully chiseled piece of stone was being held by human hands.

The arrowhead discovered that afternoon in late summer is one of more than 20,000 "finds" unearthed by students and professional archeologists at several sites along the nearly 800-mile route of the trans-Alaska pipeline during the past several years.

Armed with trowels, brushes, wire screens, bug repellent, heavy face netting, camping equipment, cameras, survey instruments and patience, between 30 and 40 men and women spent the summer participating in digs under the sponsorship of two Alaska universities.

Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., the consortium of oil companies responsible for the design, construction and operation of the pipeline, has awarded contracts to the University of Alaska at Fairbanks and the Alaska Methodist University in Anchorage to uncover artifacts along the right-of-way, paying the diggers an average of $40 per day, and providing food, housing and transportation.

The universities are also conducting orientation seminars at the pipeline camps to acquaint construction workers with the importance of the archeology project.

Seven professional archeologists direct the undergraduate and graduate students, four of whom have earned their masters' degree and one a doctorate on the basis of an earlier archeological survey conducted in 1970 and 1971 along the route.

Commenting on that earlier study, the Arctic Institute of North America said the digs have "shed new light on the long-standing problems concerning the origin and distribution of Alaskan Eskimos and Indians ..."

One of the supervisors, Mike Kunz, 29, of Fairbanks, has participated in about 30 excavations along the pipeline route.

"We haven't come up with anything really startling, but the things we have uncovered have added more pieces to the puzzle of what happened up here in the past," said Kunz, a deeply-tanned young man with a golden beard and weather-etched face. "Before the pipeline project, no one had ever worked in this area before."

Each site is carefully staked out with string and sticks and the digging is controlled and catalogued. The young workers, heavily bundled in layers of clothing to ward off the sharp stings of millions of fat mosquitoes, spent most of their 12-hour days on their knees methodically sifting the dirt with their fingers and placing their discoveries in small manila envelopes for shipment to the universities' laboratories for further analysis.

Most of the diggers, who worked in groups of five to 10, are fellow students at the University of Alaska. But some of them came from as far away as Harvard University in Boston, the University of Utah and the University of New Mexico. Some knowledge of archeology is generally a prerequisite for employment.

Huffman-Lehman

Miss Sheryl Dawn Huffman and Kenneth Wayne Lehman were married at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 16 at the First Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Huffman, Stover, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Warren M. Lehman, Versailles.

The Rev. James A. Allen performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with yellow roses and bronze and gold pom pons. Mrs. Gene Swearingin was the pianist and Mrs. Kenneth Twyman was the soloist, accompanying herself on the guitar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long gown of ivory crepe radiance with a small stand-up collar, long full sleeves and chapel train. Her cathedral veil of imported illusion, edged in English lace, was secured with a small crepe and lace-covered bridal cap.

Mrs. Don Kimbrough was the matron of honor. Bridesmaid was Mrs. Kenneth Twyman, sister of the bride. They wore long floral gowns of avocado, rust and gold and yellow roses in their hair.

Rex Rains Jr. and Michael Huffman, cousins of the bride, were candlelighters. Angela Stafford was the flower girl and Brian Lehman, cousin of the groom, was ringbearer.

Best man was Gary Imler while Milton Lehman, brother of the groom, served as groomsman. Seating the guests were David Huffman, cousin of the bride, James Vaughan, Lonnie Roam and Donald Lehman, brother of the groom.

Following a reception in the church social room, the couple left on a honeymoon to the Lake of the Ozarks. The bride wore a three-piece hunter green suit.

The couple will be at home in Versailles. The bride, a 1970 graduate of Morgan County R-I High School, was graduated in 1973 from Central Missouri State University with a bachelor of art degree in English. She is employed with Morgan County Printers in Stover.

The groom, a 1970 graduate of Morgan County R-II High School, is employed at Browns Inc., Versailles.

Silvey-Kidwell

Miss Karen Ann Silvey and Randy Allan Kidwell were united in marriage at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at First Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Silvey, 1930 East Seventh, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kidwell, 2303 East Tenth.

The Rev. Robert Magee performed the candlelight ceremony. A fall arrangement of mums and gladioli decorated the baptistry. Mrs. Otis Thomas was the organist and Miss Jan Phillips was the vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white crystal gown accented with Venice lace trim. Her delicately appliqued skirt fell to a flounce and chapel length train. Her Venice lace juliet cap secured a two-tier illusion veil.

Miss Sue Silvey served as her sister's maid of honor. Gayle Kidwell, sister of the groom, Rita Bechtal and Patty Cooper were bridesmaids. They wore harvest gold high-waisted, A-line dresses with scoop necklines and bell-shaped sleeves.

Tina Silvey, sister of the bride, and David Silvey, brother of the bride, were candlelighters. Miss Janice Baker was the flower girl and Jamie Ditzfeld was the ringbearer.

Glenn Waggoner was the best man. Mike Parker, Mike Ditzfeld and Pat Ditzfeld were groomsmen. Seating the guests were Randy Silvey, brother of the bride, and Rick Ditzfeld.

The couple will be at home at 500 South Park. The groom plans to graduate in May from Central Missouri State University where he is majoring in accounting. He is employed at McLaughlin Bros. Furniture. The bride has attended State Fair Community College and is employed with Sedalia Bank and Trust.

Button-Slavens

WARSAW — Miss Margie Ann Button and Phillip Eugene Slavens exchanged wedding vows at 7 p.m. Nov. 15 at First Baptist Church here.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Button, Warsaw, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Owen Lee Slavens, Warsaw.

The Rev. Cy Smith performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with fall oak leaves. Red rover mums and mixed fall flowers decorated the candelabra. Janise Jenkins was the organist, Pam Hedrick was the pianist and Amy Byrum played the flute. Vocalists were Danny Button and Janie Durham.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long white jersey and Venice lace gown. Lace trimmed the jewel neckline, long fitted sleeves and inserted waistband. Her full skirt swept a chapel train and Venice lace enhanced her chapel length veil and blusher.

Mrs. Patty Barnes, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. Vickie Berryman and Malinda Button, sister of the bride, were bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of printed beige batiste.

Renee Slavens, sister of the groom, and Dallas Slavens, brother of the groom, were candlelighters. Kathy Brauer, cousin of the bride, and Margie Brady were flower girls. Jeff Criger, cousin of the groom, carried the rings.

Owen Slavens Jr., brother of the groom, was best man. John Prock, cousin of the groom, and Glenray Spenser were groomsmen. Seating the guests were David and Danny Button, brothers of the bride, David Rumuto, cousin of the groom, and Dallas Slavens, brother of the groom.

The couple is at home at 804 Ruth Ann Drive. The bride, a 1974 Warsaw High School graduate, is a student at State Fair Community College. The groom, a 1973 graduate of Warsaw High School, is employed at Menefee Construction Co.

Friedly-Rupe

IONIA — The Rev. Paul O. Bond united Miss Carolyn Kay Friedly and Richard Lee Rupe in marriage at 7 p.m. Nov. 16 at the United Methodist Church here.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Friedly Jr., Ionia, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Rupe, Ionia.

Orange carnations and white gladioli decorated the altar. Miss Judy King was the organist and Miss Valarie Shipley was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory delustered satin and Alencon lace gown. The sculptured bodice and A-line skirt were accented with bands of lace, as were the tapered sleeves. Her chapel train was trimmed in peau flounces and lace. A juliet satin and lace cap secured her veil of French silk illusion.

Mrs. Ray Perkins served as her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Virginia and Patricia Friedly, sisters of the bride. They wore tangerine crepe gowns with long sheer, multiflowered sleeves.

Miss Elaine Steffens and Dean Rupe, brother of the groom, were candlelighters. Miss Elaine Weno, niece of the groom, was the flower girl and Michael McGinnis, cousin of the bride, was the ringbearer.

Wesley Brockman was best man while the groom's brothers, Robert and Carl Rupe, served as groomsmen. Johnny Meyers and Joe Campbell seated the guests.

The couple is at home in Green Ridge. The bride, a 1973 graduate of Cole Camp High School, is a student at State Fair Community College. The groom, a 1971 graduate of Green Ridge High School, is employed at Tullis-Hall Dairy.

Cook-Young

Miss Susan Louise Cook and George Raymond Young exchanged wedding vows at 7 p.m. Nov. 9 at Calvary Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E.W. Cook, Route 4, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George A. Young, Route 4.

The Rev. Charles Hendrickson performed the candlelight, double ring ceremony. Mrs. Pauline Gehlken was the organist and Mrs. D. C. Payne was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long-sleeved, satin-backed crepe gown with lace adorning the cuffs and empire waist. Her elbow length veil was secured with a satin bow.

Miss Susan Sauers, maid of honor, wore a long navy blue velvet gown with long sleeves.

David Lees was the best man.

Serving as candlelighters and ushers were Bill Cook, brother of the bride, and Allen Young, brother of the groom.

Following a reception in the church, the couple left on a honeymoon to Kansas City. The bride wore a brown corduroy jacket and slacks outfit.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at their home the evening before the wedding.

The couple is at home on Route 4. The bride is a 1974 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School. The groom, a 1973 graduate of Sacred Heart High School, is employed at Parkhurst Manufacturing Co.

Notice for area brides

Future brides who wish to submit their wedding stories to The Sedalia Democrat-Capital should secure a wedding form from the newsroom at the newspaper office, Seventh and Massachusetts.

There is no charge for publication of bridal stories, but only those forms submitted within the established deadlines and policies will be considered for publication.

Wedding stories, with or without a photograph, must be submitted within two weeks of the ceremony. Thursday noon is the deadline for all bridal entries submitted for publication in the following Sunday's edition.

Close-up, professional photographs of the bride are to be black and white, 5-by-7 inch. Photographs that do not meet quality standards will not be used.

Photographs may be picked up following publication, but none will be returned by mail unless accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The Democrat-Capital will not be responsible for damage which may occur to photographs submitted.

Wins dollar

Dorothy Poart, Route 3, was recently awarded a "Polly Dollar" for a suggestion she submitted to the "Polly's pointers" column which appears daily in The Democrat-Capital.

Deadline change

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday next week, the deadline for society news will be noon Wednesday, instead of noon Thursday. If you plan to have an engagement, wedding or anniversary announcement in the Dec. 1 edition of The Democrat-Capital, be sure to submit the information by noon Wednesday.

Quotable women

By The Associated Press

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I'm really amazed at how well I feel. I've lost 40 pounds." Singer Beverly Sills speaking between acts at the San Francisco Opera House, where she performed less than four weeks after she underwent surgery for cancer.

"I just had a good home. But now I'm kind of lonely. This boy came along and he wanted marriage. I put all the blame on him." Wealthy Rachel Fitler, Philadelphia socialite who plans to marry a 29-year-old Welshman, her former chauffeur.

"I think there's a need for a recount. I think it's apparent there's something wrong, something's rotten in Denmark." Brothel madam Beverly Harrell, formally filing for a recount of votes cast in the state Assembly district she lost by 120 votes to her opponent.

"It didn't go well. I forgot what song was coming next. But I'll get better." Fanne Fox, the Tidal Basin Bombshell, after her appearance as a stripper in a Boston theater.

Smith anniversary noted

The Rev. and Mrs. Jack W. Smith, 419 North Prospect, will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary Tuesday with a banquet hosted by their daughters at Flat Creek Inn.

They were married Nov. 26, 1949, in Maywood, Calif., by the Rev. John A. Curtis, uncle of the bride. The couple has three daughters, Mrs. Naomi Childers, Ruth and Jacklyn Smith; and two grandchildren.

The Rev. Smith does missionary evangelist and pastoral work and is presently managing Calvary Temple Boarding Home for the Elderly.

Dedication, bond drive for center

Pettis Countians who have not already done so may inspect the new Virginia Flower Child Development and Rehabilitation Center during its open house from 12 to 3 p.m. today. The $240,000 facility will be officially dedicated at 1:30 p.m.

All of this coincides with the center's annual bond drive, which is being mounted this weekend and will run to the end of the month. This is the door-to-door canvass that enables donors to purchase "shares" in the center at $10 apiece.

The new center at 600 East 14th Street has enabled twice as many people to be served in the last year as was possible in the more restricted area formerly occupied in the Bothwell Hospital building. The actual figures are 1,340, compared to 667 the previous year.

But the vastly improved facility also means that costs of operation and maintenance are up, too. The center's budget has increased between 20 and 25 per cent, largely as a result of the move. And, of course, it has suffered its share from inflation.

This makes it all the more important that Sedalians and county residents make a little extra effort this year during the canvass. No specific goal has been set for the drive, but the center's board of directors will no doubt appreciate any increase.

It is worth reminding ourselves that the Children's Therapy Center, with the exception of a current federal grant of short duration, is entirely dependent upon voluntary giving and other contributed efforts to raise its budget each year.

This is both a source of pride — and a responsibility — for each of us.

Fasting is an option on holiday

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON —

"Come, ye thankful people, come
Raise the song of harvest home . . ."

We in the United States can still sing thankful songs, but they may be less enthusiastic this year. The harvest is leaner, food costs more, and there is a depressive attitude among the people of our country.

Will we feel guilty as we gather around the family board on Thanksgiving Day? Most families will have the traditional turkey and cranberry sauce (what is one without the other), and the two or three vegetables that have been traditional, and the pumpkin or mince pie will surely be on hand. Tradition will survive because it is part of our history and turkey is a lot cheaper than beef, lamb or pork.

There is an alternative, however. During this season, we can contribute the amount of money we spend on 24 hours of food intake to the United States branch of the British-based Oxford Famine Relief Committee, Boston, Mass. Another organization suggesting the 24-hour fast is Project Relief in P.O. Box 1455, 335 Westminster Street, Providence, R. I., 02901. Receipts are available if requested and all donations are tax deductible.

Those who fast will not starve. They can survive on coffee, tea, fruit juice or broth. Already 200,000 Americans have decided to fast. While their brief sacrifice may not feed the 500 million threatened with starvation this year, it will help build a global food reserve, and ease the consciences a little for the people who want to help and are upset about the pictures of starving children.

There are other reliable agencies who will accept food packages or money, such as the Salvation Army, the World Council of Chruches, Care, the United Fund and the United Nations. The crisis is now!

The World Food Conference recently conducted in Rome agreed to set up a World Food Council to deal with short and long term problems of shortages and hunger. It is impossible to separate food and population growth. The problems are too immense for halfway solutions or for half-baked moralisms. We are proud of the American delegation in Rome that set an example by not holding receptions while some of the other rich nations feasted on caviar and champagne. Edwin Martin, a delegate leader, announced to the conference that the United States agreed to accept the 10 million tons of grain annual goal of donor nations. It is expected that this country may increase its commitment.

If Americans want to fast during the Thanksgiving season, it is not a bad idea. Most of us eat too much anyway, but that problem is being solved to a great extent by the cost of food. They may fast not from choice but from necessity.

Thanksgiving has been declared a national holiday by President Ford. The people have a choice to celebrate it as they wish. The harvest may be lean but people can still be thankful and generous and continue to share.

From President Ford's Thanksgiving proclamation:

> "I call upon all Americans to gather together in homes and places of worship on this date, to join in offering gratitude for the countless blessings our people enjoy, and to share with the elderly and the unfortunate this special day that brings us all closer together."

Animal lovers keep eye on Hollywood

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Hollywood make-up artists who bleached Jonathan Livingston Seagull's winged pals to make them white enough for the movies, reportedly succeeded in killing many of them.

The Humane Society of the United States, which has conducted a lengthy investigation, is so incensed over this and similar findings about other films, that it has begun a secret infiltration of the movie industry. The animal-lovers are using movie stars and technicians as undercover agents.

The seagull movie's producer, Hall Bartlett, insists he is equally militant about the birds' welfare. Bartlett claims he spent a fortune to protect them during filming, even to the point of putting rubber gloves on a hawk's talons before it attacked a gull for one scene.

The battle between humane associations and the filmmakers is as old as cowboys and Indians. In the 30s, trip-wires called "running W's" were widely used to tumble horses, buffaloes and cattle during gunfights and other violent scenes.

More recently, chickens' heads have been shot off, mice stomped to death, sheep's throats cut, donkeys shot and a goose decapitated, all on camera.

Earlier this year, the American Humane Association, the Humane Society of the United States, and the Fund for Animals met privately with Motion Picture Association head Jack Valenti. Valenti promised to work with moviemakers to get voluntary reform. The Humane Society of the U.S. decided, however, to conduct its own probe.

According to the society's 40-page secret report on "Seagull," the Bartlett production team got permission from the U. S. government to "take" 250 gulls.

Based on memos, signed statements and tapes, some from those who worked on the film, the society concluded the birds were bleached "too fast," killing at least two and probably many more.

Some 88 of 113 birds suffered eye injuries and others were crippled "as a result of strings being attached to their legs to control them while in flight," witnesses said.

"Birds (were) made to do difficult flying stunts and, as a result, crashed on the rocks and bled," the report goes on. It charges that some of the 50 to 100 bleached birds were treated with hairspray, others were dosed with a caustic so strong it burned handlers' fingers.

In all, the society's witnesses reported that bleaching, filthy accommodations, poor feeding and movie stunts, killed dozens of the gulls and may have permanently injured more. Other films produced similar reports.

As a result, the Humane Society is now enlisting several movie stars as spies. And society investigators will shortly adopt undercover poses to get close the animals during filming.

Quipped the society's lawyer, Murdaugh Madden: "The movies will be asking employes 'are you now or were you ever a member of the Humane Society of the United States?'" the movie industry, meanwhile, insists it is doing its best to meet demands of the animal protection groups.

Footnote: Bartlett disputed the society on every point. Of some 600 birds handled, he said, only two died. Both perished from natural causes, he claimed. No birds were injured from the strings, he said, because they were made to break before damage occurred. Special housing, food, refrigeration and veterinary services were provided, he said. In all, a maximum of 25 gulls were bleached, he insisted. He added that several U. S. and independent inspectors had found no inhumane conditions.

FAMILY AFFAIR: The family of a prominent Wall Street stockbroker appears to have kicked in an illegal $6,000 to his 1974 congressional campaign, even though the financier's father was already up to his neck in campaign financing troubles.

Republican John L. Loeb Jr. built up a $100,000 campaign chest with the help of his own $25,000, $70,000 in loans endorsed by his uncle, $3,000 from his father and $3,000 from his brother. Despite it all, he abandoned his campaign in May.

Federal law does not limit the uncle's help, but it does restrict the other family contributions to $25,000. The Loeb family's help totaled $31,000 — well over the limit.

Ironically, Loeb's father, John L. Loeb Sr., had previously pleaded "no contest" to charges that he hid $48,000 in contributions to the 1972 presidential campaign of Sen. Hubert Humphrey.

Although thousands of such apparent violations of the law have been referred to the Justice Department, action is unlikely. The Justice Department has only a dozen staffers, including secretaries, to prosecute the cases.

FAMILY AFFAIR II: In an earlier column, we reported that Dr. Morris Chafetz, head of the government's alcohol abuse program, was under investigation. He and two aides billed the government for a stay at a fancy Palm Springs, Calif., hotel after a million-dollar contractor had already paid their bills.

We have now learned that a powerful Senate aide tried to cripple the Health, Education and Welfare Department's investigative unit shortly after it began to probe Chafetz's office.

The aide is Harley Dirks, operations head of the Senate appropriations subcommittee which controls HEW's purse strings. He has such influence over HEW's budget that, inside the department, his messages are called "Harleygrams."

Concern for animals

This letter is in regard to the letter from Mrs. Pummill concerning the conditions at the Sedalia animal shelter. I was pleased to see you had the consideration to have an article about it in your paper. I must admit though, the men who were asked to help passed it off easily, or rather Chief Miller did. I believe a more concerned person could be in charge of the animal shelter, but more important there should be a more concerned person to see that there is a better dog catcher appointed and not just worried how high the feed bill is for the misfortunate dogs.

No one with any humaneness would have even mentioned that fact, especially when it is nothing compared to the dollars that could be available for the animals. If the choice was theirs, I am sure a lot of people would have more of their tax money spent on the animals. This could even mean a better salary for a better dog catcher.

Another thing that didn't sound quite right was if they are fed so well, why would they fight over their own regurgitation? Miller's excuse for no bedding for the puppies was poor also. Any bedding for one litter of puppies could be destroyed afterwards.

Papers with litter on them could be placed in the kennels and this could help keep it cleaner as far as the waste on the floor. Many dogs in there are many people's pets that are house trained. And even if they aren't, most dogs would be smart enough to use the papers.

There were no excuses made for why the dog catcher is so hard to find when he is wanted ... or why sick animals aren't given even the slightest bit more comfort than the others and kept separate. But who wants excuses for complaints made. The effort made in covering up these complaints could be put into rectification.

I do hope you don't leave the matter as is, as far as your paper is concerned. Please print more views on this and maybe we can get more people concerned about this.

The ultimate salesmanship technique

WASHINGTON — As each day passes by, the automboile dealers are getting more desperate to move their 1975 cars. They've tried almost everything under the sun to no avail — well, almost everything.

Buchwald

"Attention all cars — attention all cars — go to Overview Terrace — a family is being held as hostage by a madman."

"Zipkind, we know you're in there. Throw your weapon out the window and come out with your hands up and you won't get hurt."

"Not unless the Friedkins agree to my terms."

"What are your terms?"

"They buy a new four-door Buccaneer station wagon with genuine leather seats, power steering, air conditioning and white-wall tires. I'll throw in the radial tires for free."

"Zipkind, that is no way to sell an automobile."

"I've tried everything else, copper. I begged them to come into the showroom. I promised the greatest trade-in of their lives. I offered them financing over 48 months. But they just laughed at me. Well, now it's my turn to laugh. They either sign a contract or else . . ."

"Listen to us, Zipkind. We'll talk about it later. Just let the hostages go. We'll find you somebody else who might want to buy a station wagon."

"Don't kid me. Nobody wants to buy a station wagon now. The only thing the consumer understands is force. No one leaves this house unless I have a signed contract in my hand."

"Let me speak to Friedkin."

"Here he is, copper, but I warn you, if he makes one false move . . ."

"Friedkin, are you willing to give in to Zipkind's demands?"

"I'd like to, commissioner, but I don't have the money. Who can afford a new car these days?"

"He's stalling, copper. He's got the money; he just won't part with it. All right, if he can't afford a station wagon, what about a four-door 1975 Whiplash with vinyl bucket seats, disc brakes and a rear-window defroster?"

"Zipkind, we can't negotiate with you for a new car until you release the hostages."

"Fie on you, copper. I'm going to move those cars off the lot one way or another."

"Zipkind, here is your wife Esmerelda."

"Horace, please come out of the house. Even if you sell the Friedkins a car, you can't keep holding people as hostages every time you want to make a sale."

"No dice, Esmerelda. If I don't sell any '75 cars, they'll take my dealership away from me. I have to think of us. I warned Friedkin something like this would happen if he kept stalling on the new models."

"Zipkind, we're losing patience with you. You either come out or we're coming in after you."

"All right, copper, I'm coming out. But Friedkin is going to be sorry. When he goes to buy his next new car he'll be paying $500 more than they're selling for right now."

"Get in the cruiser, Zipkind. We're taking you down to headquarters."

"Hey, copper. What are you doing with a 1973 cruiser? How about a new '75 Amazon? I'll throw in a siren and a red light gratis, and you get a two-year warranty on all parts except the engine. I'll give you $800 for this heap, no questions asked."

"Sorry, Zipkind, but there's a freeze on in the department and we can't buy any new cruisers."

"That's what I thought, copper. When it comes to a new car you're all talk."

Thanksgiving time

Thank you, God, for faith and friends.
For the peace within my heart.
For the sleep as my day ends
And the night begins to start.
Thank you, God, that I can see
Beauty, joy, and always hope.
Leaving all my trust to thee.
I, in darkness, never grope;
Thank you, God, that I'm not lost
In this life, have never been.
I've not had to count the cost
Ever chancing how to win;
Thank you, God, for the past
Where memories of life interweave.
Sunny moments, shadows cast.
But by your strength do I believe.
Thank you, God, for today
I look back along the way
But care not to return somehow.
Thank you, God, this day of prayer
That we set aside each year.
May our words we choose with care.
Thankful words that are sincere.
Like the Pilgrims, kind and good,
Who for their simple life said grace.
May we believe, God, as we should
And with confidence the world's trials face.

Citizens of the Channel Islands still govern themselves in old Norman way. Because their ancestral ruler, William of Normandy, conquered England, the islanders claim that Britain belongs to them and they toast Queen Elizabeth as the Duke of Normandy.

Supermarkets open books to inspection

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The dollar you plunk down at the meat counter is being stretched almost as many ways as the family budget these days. The biggest chunk goes for the cost of the meat itself and the next largest portion pays the wages of the butcher and other employes.

Supermarkets traditionally have claimed they lost money — or made very little — on meat departments. But they refused to release specific figures.

Now, under pressure from government officials and consumers who want to know why farmers are getting paid less while retail prices are going up, the stores have agreed to disclose some figures to back up their claim of low profits.

A spokesman for Jewel Supermarkets, a Midwestern chain which says it lost $5 million on $95 million in meat sales during the first nine months of 1974, provided The Associated Press with a breakdown of where the consumer's meat dollar actually goes.

For every dollar you spend on meat, the spokesman said, Jewell pays out: 81.7 cents to the wholesaler for the meat; 12.4 cents to store employes; 1.6 cents for employe fringe benefits including health, accident and life insurance and payroll taxes; 1.6 cents for wrapping and packing; 3.8 cents for rent, depreciation and interest; 1.2 cents for advertising; .8 cents for warehouse and transportation costs; 1 cent for remodeling, repairs, property tax and insurance; and 1.6 cents for all other costs.

That adds up to $1.057, the spokesman said, and shows that for every dollar you spend on meat, Jewell is losing almost six cents.

Comparable figures for 1973 were not available.

Other supermarket sources, while declining to release specific dollars and cents breakdowns for meat department expenses, said that labor costs went up 18.4 per cent over the past year, light and power 38.6 per cent, paper bags 31.5 per cent, interest rates 55 per cent and laundry costs 40 per cent.

A recent Cornell University survey showed that supermarket expenses in fiscal 1973-74 actually represented a smaller percentage of sales than they did in fiscal 1972-73. Gross margin — the difference between the amount the stores took in and the amount they spent on merchandise, expressed as a per cent of sales — also declined.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says the average price of a pound of beef during the week ended Nov. 2 was $1.358 — just about the same as it was at the start of a meat boycott in April 1973. The USDA says the farmer is getting almost 7 per cent less than he did in April 1973 while the wholesaler is getting 2 per cent more and the retailer is getting 5 per cent more.

"Pretty nice end play wasn't it?" chortled South.

"Wonderful, for a moron," replied North.

We think that North was rather severe in his reply, but South had overlooked an automatic correct play at trick two. He had been forced to end-play West to make his notrump game.

At trick two South had led his deuce of hearts. Dummy's jack lost to East's ace and a spade return had set up four tricks for West. South led the eight of hearts to dummy's queen. When East showed out, the nine of hearts that South was still holding blocked his chance to run the rest of the suit.

South thought a while and cashed his three high diamonds. West had to chuck two spades to keep heart and club protection, whereupon South led a heart to dummy's king; threw West in and made ter coat, sacks, baby crib his contract with clubs.

All this was made necessary because South had not learned the automatic unblock with the sort of heart spotcard holding he had been dealt. If he had learned it, his first heart play would have been the nine; the second the eight and the third heart from his hand would be the deuce. In this way he would find that East was out of hearts on the second lead; return to his hand with a diamond; lead the deuce; finesse the 10 with the seven and then drop the 10 with his jack.

KC Kings beat Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Nate Archibald scored 24 points as the Kansas City-Omaha Kings came from behind in the closing minutes to defeat the Atlanta Hawks 103-100 in a National Basketball Association game Saturday night.

The Hawks who led most of the way, were ahead 98-97 with 1:41 left in the game. But Ron Behagen in two free throws and Jimmy Walker scored a basket to put the Kings ahead by three points.

After John Brown connected on two free throws for Atlanta, Archibald made two of three foul shots with 35 seconds remaining to close the scoring.

Tom Van Arsdale led Atlanta with 21 points, followed by Brown with 20 and John Drew with 15.

Nate Williams had 16 points for the winners.

Black Hawks trounce Scouts

CHICAGO (AP) — Stan Mikita scored two easy goals and picked up an assist Saturday night to lead Chicago out of the scoring doldrums as the Black Hawks trounced the Kansas City Scouts 6-0 in a loosely played National Hockey League contest.

The Hawks, who have won only one of their seven previous games, got a three-goal opening period to virtually wrap up Kansas City's 15th loss of the season.

Mikita's teammate Cliff Koroll grabbed three assists while Germain Gagnon collected a goal and two assists.

Darcy Rota opened the Chicago scoring early in the first period with his seventh goal of the season. Less than than two minutes later Gagnon grabbed a pass from Pit Martin and whisked it past Kansas City goalie Peter McDuffe.

Three minutes later Dennis Hull chalked up his eighth tally of the year from close range.

Mikita's goals in the second period came on a rebound shot and a backhand flip which caught McDuffe out of position. The final Black Hawk goal came in the opening of the third period by Pit Martin.

Mo. Valley wins semifinals

HANOVER, Ind. (AP) — Quarterback Craig Conklin's two-point conversion pass put Missouri Valley in the lead and Dennis Demarea's touchdown late in the game sealed a 37-29 victory over Hanover Saturday in a National Intercollegiate Athletic Association Division II football semifinal playoff game.

Missouri Valley, now 10-0-1, advanced to the NAIA championship game next week against the winner of Saturday night's Texas Lutheran-Linfield, Ore., semifinal game.

The loss snapped Hanover's school-record 17-game winning streak, including nine games this season en route to the Hoosier-Buckeye Conference championship.

Conklin's go-ahead conversion pass to Frank Arizmend followed a four-yard touchdown run by Greg Farris. The Vikings sealed the victory with three minutes left on Demarea's 24yard return of an intercepted pass off Hanover quarterback Bruce Harbeson.

Missouri Valley grabbed a 1614 halftime lead when Russ Moulton picked off another Harbeson pass and scampered 77 yards for a touchdown in the second quarter.

Harbeson, who had suffered only two interceptions all year before Saturday, was hampered by an ankle injury incurred on the first play of the game. He finished the day with seven completions in 13 passes for 193 yards.

Missouri Valley, which also recovered two Hanover fumbles, held Hanover sophomore running back Anthony Brantley to 53 yards in 19 carries. He had averaged more than 100 yards a game during the regular season.

Barnes to talk with Spirits

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Marvin Barnes, the Spirits of St. Louis center who bolted from the American Basketball Association team last Wednesday, will return here Monday to confer with team officials, according to a published report Saturday night.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch quoted a source as saying that Barnes would report to Spirits Coach Bob MacKinnon, but that the rookie's suspension without pay will not automatically be lifted.

Mike Recht, Spirits' spokesman, said team officials had no word on Barnes' immediate plans.

Arguello wins featherweight

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lanky young Alexis Arguello of Nicaragua captured the World Boxing Association featherweight title Saturday by knocking out veteran Ruben Olivares of Mexico City with a left hook in the 13th round.

Arguello thus brought Nicaragua its first world boxing title and his enthusiastic fans among the 16,000 in attendance swarmed into the ring filling it with many hanging on to the ropes.

Canadian leads LPGA match

APOPKA, Fla. (AP) — Canadian-born Sandra Post overcame treacherous winds and pin placement with deft putting and bunker play Saturday for a one-under par 71 and the second-round lead in the Ladies Professional Golf Association's $35,000 Lady Errol Classic.

Miss Post's score, one of only two sub-par rounds on the blustery day, gave her an evenpar 144 for 36 holes on the 6,230-yard course.

S. Africa leads World Cup

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — South Africa, led by Bobby Cole's three-under-par 67, took a one-stroke lead over Japan on Saturday with a team total of 139 in the third round of the World Cup golf tournament.

Cole's performance on the 6,763-yard, par 70 Lagunita Country Club course gave him a two-stroke margin over Masashi "Jumbo" Ozaki of Japan as the low individual scorer.

Jaynes caught without pants

KANSAS CITY (AP) — David Jaynes, rookie quarterback with the Kansas City Chiefs, was arrested early Friday and cited for disorderly conduct.

The arresting officersaid Jaynes was with several other men and women on the sidewalk in front of a bar when he noticed the former All-American from the University of Kansas lower his trousers to his knees.

Jaynes, who has seen little action with the Chiefs this season, joked about the incident in a telephone interview and said it was nothing more than him and "three other guys out having a good time."

He laughed the matter off, joking that he was doing an underwear ad for a television commercial "like Joe Namath," the New York Jets quarterback. "When the policeman turned his light on me, I thought it was the television crew ready to start filming."

Jaynes was released on $25 bond and was scheduled to appear in Municipal Court Dec. 9.

Sacred Heart beats Warsaw in league tilt

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

"This is the first time we've put it all together as a team all season," said a happy Tom Jennewein, looking back at his first Kaysinger Conference victory of the season Friday over Warsaw, 70-56.

That win, spiced by the fact that it came over a team Friday night that had previously defeated the Gremlins in last week's league tourney, boosted Sacred Heart into the victory column for the second time this season in six games. In league play, Sacred Heart stands at 1-2.

"This is the first time we've put it all together as a team all season." — Jennewein

The Sacred Heart-Warsaw game, which saw two ex-teammates bump heads in the coaching department, was the only league tilt on Friday's slate.

In non-league games, a tall, young and talented Windsor squad handed Cole Camp its first loss of the season in convincing fashion, 63-43. Santa Fe (Alma) dropped Northwest (Hughesville), 69-37. Green Ridge fell victim of a 27-point outburst by Sweet Springs in the final quarter and dropped a 68-67 decision. And Leeton trimmed the LaMonte Vikings, 71-60.

"Probably the biggest key to our victory was the way (Rick) Weller and (Mark) Register got the ball off the boards to set up the outlet passes, which keyed our fast break," Jennewein said.

"This definitely was our best team effort of the season ... we sure needed something like this to get us back on the right track," he said.

Weller and Marty McLaughlin, Warsaw, each scored 29 points for their respective clubs. Mel Simon and Register added 16 and 10 in that order for the Grems.

In the girls varsity volleyball game, Warsaw won in straight sets, 15-9, 15-10. Warsaw also won the junior varsity contest, 34-22.

Cole Camp coach Bob Farrington wasn't near as upset about seeing his five-game victory streak ended as one might think.

"It's something that I could see coming," he commented about the Bluebirds' loss.

"We hadn't looked good in practice or in our game against Lincoln Tuesday night. We still haven't come down from the clouds from winning the league championship," he added.

"I simply don't think we were hungry enough," said the dean of the Kaysinger Conference coaches.

Windsor got the bulk of their scoring from a pair of juniors, Tim Craig and Chris Mitchell, both of whom canned 16 points. Al Duensing topped the Cole Camp Bluebirds with 12.

Four players entered double figures for the Santa Fe Chiefs to spearhead the attack against Northwest. Ron Lovercamp scored 17, followed by Kevin Hilbrenner (15), Tom Schmidt (11) and Marvin Dankerbring (10).

The Chiefs jumped out to an 18-7 lead in the first period, but saw that cut to 34-28 by the intermission. Santa Fe put the game away in the third quarter, outscoring the Mustangs, 15-2.

Green Ridge held a 10-point, 51-41, lead as play entered the final quarter at Sweet Springs, but the Tigers couldn't hold that margin.

The Greyhounds heated up for 27 points in the final stanza. That was six more than they netted in the second and third quarters combined.

Don Prindle, a transfer student, pumped in 22 points to lead Sweet Springs. Rick Arnold and Tony Bredehoeft followed with 17 and 16 respectively.

Robert Risner scored 23 for the Tigers to gain game honors.

Larry Crumpley (12), Joe Purchase (11) and Kelly Harding (10) followed.

In LaMonte, the Leeton Bulldogs jumped out to a 24-10 lead in the first quarter and made it stick, as the Vikings went down to their sixth loss of the season.

"We sure needed something like this to get us back on the right track."

Steve Stockton poured in 32 points for the Bulldogs. Hitting in double figures for LaMonte were Bill Hurt and Scott Thompson with 17 each, and Butch Blakely, who scored 10.

In other area action, Knob Noster defeated Central Missouri State University-High (Warrensburg), 50-31; School of the Osage ended a two-year drought with a 68-60 upset win over Eldon; and Montrose upended Cass-Midway, 68-45.

In area junior varsity action, Sweet Springs trimmed Green Ridge, 39-33; Knob Noster dumped University-High, 52-41; Leeton made it a sweep over LaMonte, 39-35; and Santa Fe tripped Northwest, 49-25.

BULLETIN

KEOKUK, Iowa — The State Fair Community College Roadrunners won the Keokuk Classic Saturday night over the host team 69-61.

State Fair was down by one point at halftime, but scored eight unanswered points with ten minutes left in the second half to seal the victory.

Leading scorers for SFCC were Charles Johnson 18, Lynoell Hardin 16, and Stan McNeill 14.

The consolation game was won by Black Hawk College, who SFCC beat on Friday night, 91-77, over Marshalltown, Iowa.

Tag teams meet in fenced ring

Professional wrestling action resumes Tuesday night after a one-week layoff. The main event on this week's show will be a tag team match between the Interns and the team of Mike George and Ted Oates. The wrestlers will be fenced in to keep them in the ring.

The Interns' manager, Dr. Ken Ramey, will meet television announcer Bill Kersten in a boxing match, while one-fall matches between Bobby Jaggers and Rob Piper, and The Viking and Bob Orton round out the card.

The first match is set for 8:15 p.m.

Kewps, Pirates in finals

Raytown South, Pleasant Hill, four others fall

By The Associated Press

Columbia Hickman and St. Louis Sumner ended unbeaten streaks of Raytown South and Ladue Saturday to advance to the finals of the Missouri high school Class 4A football playoffs.

Hickman defeated Raytown South 20-9 while St. Louis Sumner was shutting out Ladue 6-0.

In Class 3A it will be Boonville vs. Washington. Boonville ripped Houston 44-7 while Washington was defeating North County of Desloge 18-7.

In Class 2A, Pleasant Hill shut out Seneca 21-0 while St. Louis Country Day was edging Centralia 9-6.

King City edged Orrick 7-6 in overtime while Lockwood ran over Drexel 20-6 to advance to the Class 1A finals.

All championship games will be played next Saturday.

Raytown South jumped to a 9-0 lead in the first half of its game in Raytown on a Mark McIntosh-to-Dennis Bullard touchdown pass and a 40-yard Dan Hafley field goal. Hickman came back with Dave Williams scoring from the three, Leo Lewis passing to Ray White for the go-ahead score and Gary Ellis scoring from the three. Hickman is 9-1; Raytown South 10-1.

In 3A, Boonville fullback Rick Kemp scored four touchdowns and rushed for 104 yards to end Houston's winning streak at 28 games. Houston is now 10-1; Boonville is 10-0.

Rich Alferman scored twice to lead Washington to its 3A victory over North County. Washington is now 10-0; North County 8-3.

N. Carolina St. heads preseason AP cage poll

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

North Carolina State, the new bully on the block, is the No. 1 college basketball team in the nation in The Associated Press' annual pre-season poll.

The Wolfpack, conquerer of longtime kingpin UCLA in last year's NCAA championship round, scored 934 points with the help of 33 first-place ballots from sports writers and broadcasters around the country.

UCLA, which won the NCAA championship seven straight years before getting knocked out by North Carolina State in the semifinals in March, was picked as the country's No. 2 team by the voters. The Bruins got 13 ballots for first place and 878 points.

Indiana, which shared the Big Ten title with Michigan and lost a playoff game to the Wolverines for a berth in the NCAA championships, was in third place, well back with 663 points.

Maryland, which lost to North Carolina State in a drama-filled playoff for the Atlantic Coast Conference title, was given two votes for first place and selected as the country's No. 4 team.

The voters gave No. 5 ranking to Marquette, which lost to North Carolina State in the NCAA championship game.

South Carolina and Notre Dame, which each got one, were the only other teams to get first-place votes.

Oilers no longer the lovable losers

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

For eight years now, the good citizens of Dallas have been looking south—down their state and down their noses—toward Houston and smiling the condescending smile. After all, they and everybody else knew, when you talked about pro football in Texas, you talked about the Cowboys.

It's the 5-5 battle for Texas between the Cowboys and Oilers.

The Oilers? The smile returned. Houston's lovable losers, they said.

Well, the Oilers are back and the two teams are getting together in the Astrodome Sunday for a friendly little game that's going to make the Alamo look like a pastoral scene.

To put it simply, the Cowboys are 5-5...and the Oilers are 5-5. Both are all-but-mathematically out of championship playoff contention.

But so what? This is for the championship of Texas, son...and everybody knows that's the biggest thing around.

In Sunday's other less dramatic but sometimes more meaningful games, it's Minnesota at Los Angeles, Denver at Oakland, St. Louis at the New York Giants, Miami at the New York Jets, Philadelphia at Washington, Buffalo at Cleveland, Kansas City at Cincinnati, New England at Baltimore, San Diego at Green Bay, Chicago at Detroit and Atlanta at San Francisco. On Monday night it's Pittsburgh at New Orleans.

The Vikings and Rams are each within two steps of clinching divisional titles. Minnesota can take the NFC Central crown if it wins while both Detroit and Green Bay lose. Los Angeles needs a victory coupled with a Monday night loss by New Orleans to take the NFC West championship.

The Raiders, having clinched the AFC West title last Monday night when Denver lost, begin tuning up for the playoffs in their game against the Broncos. It's the second of three games in just 11 days for the Broncos, who play in Detroit Thanksgiving Day.

The Cardinals are clinging to the NFC East lead by one game over Washington and, although they're 8-2 while the Giants are 2-8, the game at Yale will probably be another tough one.

The Dolphins, first in the AFC East by a game over Buffalo, will have to cool off Joe Namath, who has thrown four touchdown passes in his last two games, both victories for the Jets.

The Redskins have won six of their last seven games and, along wth being solid contenders for a division title, have a two-game edge over the rest of the field in the battle for the NFC wild card. The Eagles, preseason picks as divisional contenders, are out of the race.

If Cleveland loses, it'll saddle the Browns with their first losing season since 1956. The Bills, hoping to stay on Miami's tail in the AFC East scramble, lead New England and Cincinnati by a game in the conference's wild-card scrap.

The Bengals, 1½ games backh of Pittsburgh in the AFC Central Division, hope NFL passing leader Ken Anderson can regain his form and will be trying to cool off Kasnsas City's hot offense.

The Patriots have lost three in a row. They routed Baltimore earlier this year 42-3 on three Jim Plunkett touchdown passes. But the Colts are coming off a 17-7 upset victory over Atlanta, only their second this year.

Rookie Don Woods of the Chargers, fourth in the AFC in rushing with 790 yards, would like to have an especially good day against the Packers, who released him in preseason. And Green Bay quarterback John Hadl would like to have a big day against his former San Diego teammates.

The Vikings and Rams are each within steps of clinching titles.

The Bears beat Detroit 17-9 in their season opener—but the Lions have won five of their last six while the Bears have lost four straight and haven't scored a touchdown in 19 quarters.

The Falcons take a five-game losing string into San Francisco, which broke a seven-game nosedive last Sunday with a 34-0 win over the Bears.

..In Monday night action

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The underdog New Orleans Saints, having gotten it all together last time out, try to do it again Monday night against Pittsburgh Steelers.

For a change, the Saints offensive line was conspicious by its presence in shocking Los Angeles 20-7, springing running backs and giving quarterback Archie Manning throwing room.

Now come the Steelers with a reliable defensive front that includes "Arrowhead" Ernie Holmes and "Mean" Joe Green and leads the National Football League in sacking the quarterback.

Steeler Coach Chuck Noll, after some pondering, elected as starting quarterback Terry Bradshaw, who has been sulking lately since losing the No. 1 status to a system of quarterback roulette—with Noll placing alternate bets on Terry Hanratty and Joe Gilliam.

But why change a winning system? Pittsburgh arrives on field with a 7-2-1 record and a game and a half lead over Cincinnati in its division.

By contrast, the Saints are 4-6 and painfully working their way through a rough late season schedule that includes five championship contenders.

Last time out, the New Orleans defense chopped off the Rams' running attack at 61 yards, sacked the quarterback four times, forced four fumbles, recovering three of them, and made one interception.

Monday's game will be televised nationally on the American Broadcasting Company network, with kickoff set for 9:05 p.m., EST.

Rolla keeps SMS from MIAA crown

ROLLA, Mo. (AP) — Tight end Merle Dillow hauled in the deciding touchdown with 15 seconds remaining Saturday and the University of Missouri-Rolla knocked Southwest Missouri State from a share of the MIAA crown, 35-31.

Southwest's league record is 4-2, giving it a tie for third place. The Miners, who finished 4-1-1, gained second.

The first score of the game was a 56-yard field goal by Southwest's David Kruse.

SE Mo. 29, NE Mo. 16

KIRKSVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Rick Wieser scored two touchdowns and Mike Wood kicked two field goals for Southeast Missouri in a 29-16 MIAA football victory over Northeast Missouri Saturday.

Southeast ran up a 22-0 halftime lead while holding Northeast to a minus three yards total offense.

Southeast finished 4-2 in the MIAA and 7-4 for the season.

Cole Camp wins volleyball trophy

COLE CAMP — Cole Camp downed Green Ridge in straight games Saturday night to capture first place in the Cole Camp Invitational Girls Volleyball Tournament here.

In earlier games, Smithton downed LaMonte to win the third-place trophy, while Stover defeated Warsaw in the consolation finals.

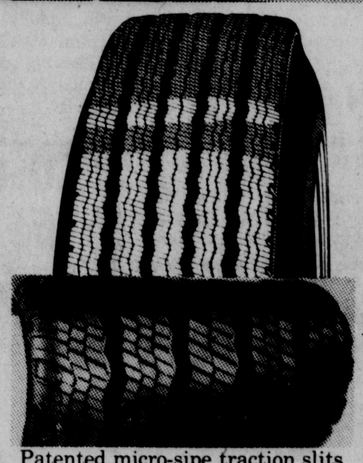
Bandag retreads break record.

The all-time record for utility vehicles in the Pike's Peak Race was set by Bob Seivert on tires treaded by a revolutionary system developed by the international Bandag corporation. This patented Bandag retread is now available for cars, pick-ups and campers.

- Extra tough factory-made tread.
- Super-strong bond locks tread to casing.
- Proved by thousands of truck fleets worldwide.
- Used on giant airliners, military jets and off-road equipment.
- Performance proved at the Baja 500 road race.
- Backed by over 16 years research and development.
- Perfect for radials as well as regular tires.
- Guaranteed for 25,000 miles or 25 months.*



Patented micro-sipe traction slits for performance.

Come in today and save money with the toughest tread that ever came down the Pike.

Bandag
Mud & Snow tread now available in most sizes.

*Bandag guarantees every Passenger Hiway Retread to deliver 25,000 miles during the first 25 months of service following purchase. This applies to the original purchasing owner. If the tire does not deliver 25,000 miles during the first 25 months of service, your Certified Bandag dealer will give you credit or refund (dealer's option) based on the current retail price, multiplied by the percentage of unused mileage. This guarantee also covers normal road hazards (excluding repairable punctures) and defects in workmanship and materials, when tire is used on passenger vehicles in normal service. Such allowance will be based on the tread depth remaining and Bandag's current printed suggested retail price, which will fairly represent the actual selling price of the tire.

Missouri goes Jayhawk hunting

Jayhawks sink to last place

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Tackle-breaker Tony Galbreath and the pass receptions of Don Muse fired Missouri to an easy 27-3 victory over old rival Kansas Saturday in a Big Eight Conference football game that closed the season for both teams.

Galbreath and Muse each scored two touchdowns in this oldest college gridiron rivalry west of the Mississippi River.

Galbreath, a junior college transfer, was magnificent, scoring touchdowns on nine and one yards, and tossing a 4-yard halfback pass to Muse for another.

Muse also pulled down a 5-yard end zone pass from Steve Pisarkiewicz for the other Missouri six-pointer.

Tim Gibbons converted after three of the touchdowns.

Mike Love kicked a 32-yard field goal for Kansas' points early in the second quarter.

The victory left Missouri with a 5-2 Big Eight record and 7-4 against all opponents. Kansas is 1-6 and 4-7.

Galbreath carried 34 times for 137 yards. As a passer, he hit on two of two, bringing his aerial record for the season to five completions on as many throws and three touchdowns.

Galbreath made 57 yards on the 71-yard march for Missouri's second touchdown, breaking loose on big bursts of 15, 17 and 17 yards that brought the crowd of 56,193 to its feet.

Kansas, loser of six straight games, saw its chances take a big setback when quarterback Scott McMichael was helped from the field with only seven minutes 28 seconds gone in first quarter. He never returned. McMichael twisted a knee when he slipped on the Tiger's natural turf and will undergo surgery Sunday.

Ken Downing set up Missouri's first touchdown on the Tiger's second possession by returning a punt 43 yards to the Kansas 42. Galbreath made a first down on two five-yard thrusts, and Pisarkiewicz shot a 20-yard pass to Mark Miller atthe 11. Galbreath made two before he turned the left side for a touchdown.

Kansas St. 33, Colorado 19

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State, blending the passing of veteran quarterback Steve Grogan and the running of newcomers Kerwin Cox and Jim Couch, closed a frustrating season on a rousing note Saturday, whipping favored Colorado 33-19.

It was the Wildcats' lone Big Eight Conference victory after six straight league defeats and seven consecutive losses overall. Colorado, which last week stunned Fiesta Bowl-bound Oklahoma State, 37-20, finished 3-4 in the conference and 5-6 for the season.

Kansas State, which had not won since opening the season with three nonconference triumphs, made tougher Coach Vince Gibson's decision–due in about a week–whether to continue at the Wildcats' helm after eight years.

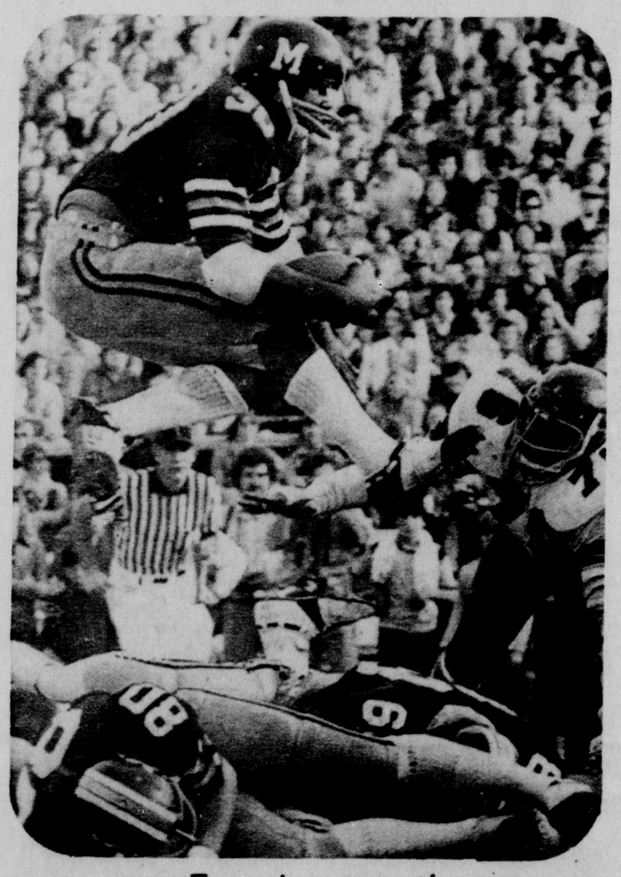
Oklahoma St. 14, Iowa St. 12

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)— Freshman halfback Skip Taylor scored one touchdown on a nine-yard run and set up another with a 24-yard dash and the Oklahoma State defense staged a tremendous final period goal line stand as the Cowboys outlasted Iowa State, 14-12, in a Big Eight football game Saturday afternoon.

The Cowboys trailed 9-7 at the half but went ahead 14-9 early in the third period on Taylor's romp around left end. The 44-yard touchdown drive was set up when Carl Devorce recovered Cyclone quarterback Tom Mason's fumble.

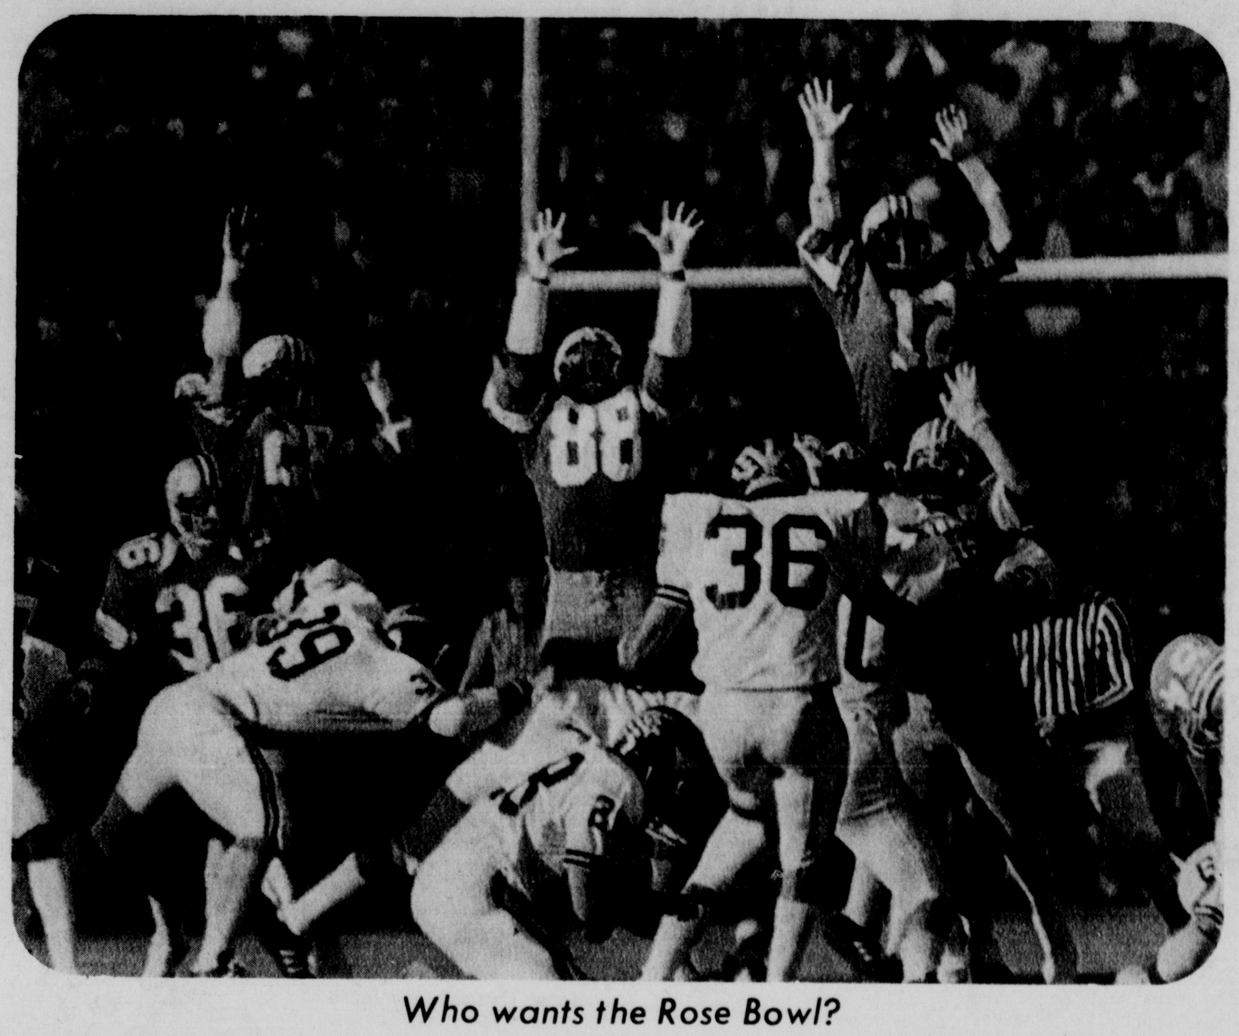
Halfback Leonard Thompson's one-yard plunge gave Oklahoma State a 7-3 first period lead after a fumble by Iowa State signal caller Wayne Stanley on the Cowboy 41. The score was set up by Taylor's 24-yard run to the one after a pitchout from Cowboy quarterback Charley Weatherbie. s by Poke defensive end Jesse Hudson caused the fumbles that led to both Oklahoma State touchdown drives.

All the Cyclone scoring came on field goals of 37, 30, 31 and 22 yards by Tom Goedjen, giving him a Big Eight career mark of 40. Goedjen missed a 35-yarder with 5:22 left in the game which could have given the Cyclones the victory.



Tony is grrreat!

Tony (the Tiger) Galbreath again lives up to his billing as he hurdles the Kansas line to score one of his two touchdowns in Saturday's game. Galbreath also tossed a TD to tight end Don Muse in the game (AP Wirephoto)



Who wants the Rose Bowl?

It seems the Ohio State Buckeyes answered this question Saturday as they leap up to distract an attempted field goal by the Michigan Wolverines in the waning seconds of their annual Rose Bowl contest. Ohio State won the game as this kick went wide; now its up to the Big Ten who goes to the Rose Bowl. (AP Wirephoto)

ABC's godfather

Cosell admits slip in Monday ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard Cosell and the brass at ABC say their Monday night football extravaganzas have slipped slightly in popularity this season but the show, considered a big gamble when it was launched five years ago, still is faring very well.

Cosell said the number of viewers had dropped about four per cent from last year, the network's best season since it started televising the National Football League games.

"The reason is very simple," Cosell said in an interview. 'We've had tremendous, tremendous competition. And there's a growing apathy in the country for football, as evidenced by the number of empty seats in the stadiums.

"CBS threw both barrels at us. They took a hit show, 'Maude,' and moved it to Monday. Then they also put 'Rhoda', a marvelous new show, opposite us."

Ratings sheets for the season show that "HOHO" has outdrawn Monday night football nine of 10 weeks, but ABC's football has outdrawn "Maude" half of the nights.

"And we've had a terrible schedule," Cosell said. "How in the hell could you hope to do as well as we did when you've got a Kansas City, a team with a 3-6 record, going against a Denver, at 4-4-1?"

Cosell was referring to last Monday's matchup, which had to compete with NBC's showing of the second half of "The Godfather."

"We feel the greatest night Monday night football ever had was against 'The Godfather,'" Cosell said.

NBC claimed that 70 per cent of all television sets in use in New York City Monday night were tuned in to the second half of the award-winning movie. The NFL game between the Chiefs and the Broncos was watched by 10 per cent of the viewers.

But Irv Brodsky, publicist for ABC-TV Sports, said the football game received a "very respectable 26 per cent share of the audience nationally. It was sensational, compared to what was expected."

Cosell said because of the strong matchups to be shown on Monday night in the next four weeks, ABC believes it will match last year's record 38 per cent share of the audience.

He said it has had a 34 per cent share thus far this year— 30 per cent is considered successful—and said that means Monday night football is watched by about 13.5 million households. He said Sunday's NFL games on NBC are watched by fewer than nine million households, slightly more than are tuned in to CBS games the same day.

"We charge $100,000 for a commercial minute on Monday night football," he said. "And we've had no sponsor deflections. We have sponsors waiting to buy time.

"We're not competing with 'The Godfather,' nor could we," Cosell said. "But for five years we've beaten the movies."

Galbreath: running, passing destroys Kansas

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Kansas Coach Don Fambrough sat in the dressing room Saturday and looked back over his team's 27-3 Big Eight Conference football defeat by Missouri.

Basically, Fambrough's thoughts were focused on Tony Galbreath, the tackle-breaking, pile-driving, pass-throwing Missouri tailback, who made a shambles of the Jayhawks' defense.

"Galbreath was just tremendous," said Fambrough, "especially when he can throw the ball the way he did. He's a great weapon when you have to have the whole team to drag him down."

Fambrough said he was "completely disgusted" after the Jayhawks had lost their sixth straight game. "You can't blame the grass, because we were just terrible. They just kicked the hell out of us.

"I don't think the offensive line played well any time during the game, and if you can't knock anyone off the line of scrimmage, you can't run or pass ... or anything else."

Fambrough did not place the blame on the loss of Kansas quarterback Scott McMichael, who injured a knee when he slipped on the turf midway through the first quarter.

"The loss of McMichael certainly didn't help us," said Fambrough, but lots of people have to go without their quarterback once in a while. You still ought to be able to move the ball, and we just were't doing the job."

Kansas runner Laverne Smith did set a school record in the defeat. His 79 yards increased his output for the season to 1,181 yards, breaking the old mark of 1,131 set by John Riggins in 1970.

Missouri Coach Al Onofrio didn't mention Galbreath but pointed to Bill Ziegler and Anise Davis as the players who "made the big difference in the offense today."

Galbreath, who scored two touchdowns and passed for another and gained 137 yards on 34 carries, said he "had good blocking. I just had to run. We needed the halfback pass play, and we used it."

Onofrio, whose team finished 7-4, described the contest as "an emotional and a physical game. The defense forced a lot of plays and gave the offense good opportunities.

Sooners clinch Big Eight title

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Quarterback Steve Davis and halfback Elvis Peacock scored fourth period touchdowns to rally Oklahoma's tauted Sooners to a 28-14 victory over No. 6 Nebraska and a second straight Big Eight Conference football championship Saturday.

The Sooners trailed 14-7 early in the third period, but Oklahoma generated its vaunted wishbone attack to tie the score before the quarter ended and ground out two touchdowns in the final stanza to up their record to 10-0 and extend their winning streak to 19 games.

The loss left Nebraska 8-3 overall and 5-2 in the Big Eight.

It was a fourth quarter letdown that undid the Huskers who had been plagued by that problem all year. All-American defensive back Randy Hughes intercepted two Husker passes in the fourth period and Zac Henderson grabbed another to stifle Nebraska's comeback hopes. The first period was scoreless. Oklahoma scored in the second quarter when Davis went over from the Nebraska 10 to polish off a 48-yard drive.

Ohio State 12, Michigan 10

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A record-shattering four field goals by Czechoslovakian-born Tom Klaban lifted fourth-ranked Ohio State to a 12-10 Big Ten football victory over No. 3 Michigan Saturday, apparently earning the Buckeyes an unprecedented third straight trip to the Rose Bowl.

Michigan's Mike Lantry attempted a 33-yard field goal with 16 seconds remaining that sailed wide to the left and touched off a momentary celebration by a record Ohio State throng of 88,243.

Big Ten athletic directors will meet in Chicago Sunday to decide the conference's representative for the Rose Bowl.

Klaban, breaking a school record, booted field goals of 47, 25, 43, and 45 yards to give the Buckeyes a share of the conference championship with Michigan for the third straight year.

If the athletic directors select the Buckeyes, it will mark the first time in history that one Big Ten school has appeared in three successive Rose Bowl games against the Pac-8 Conference champion.

Notre Dame 38, Air Force 0

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Fifth-ranked Notre Dame struggled through another sluggish first quarter, then came on to swamp Air Force 38-0 in intersectional college football Saturday.

Backup halfback Russ Kornman dove one yard in the opening period for the only touchdown the Orange Bowl-bound Irish, now 9-1, needed.

Reserve quarterback Frank Allocco ran one yard for one score and passed 25 yards to split end Kevin Doherty for another, long after the issue was settled.

Air Force, 2-9, made its most serious scoring threat on the game's opening drive, by moving to a first-and-goal at the Irish 4. But strong safety John Dubenetzky intercepted a pass from Air Force quarterback John Worden in the end zone.

After that, the Irish defense, ranked No. 1 in the nation, held the Falcons to only 17 yards in the first half, minus eight in the second quarter.

Arkansas 21, Texas Tech 13

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Ike Forte spiked Texas Tech's holiday Peach Bowl with a heavy dose of bitters Saturday as he led Arkansas to an uphill 21-13 Southwest Conference victory over the fumbling Red Raiders.

Forte romped 17 and 9 yards for touchdowns in the final period as the Razorbacks, concluding their own season of frustrations, stung Tech with its first hometown loss in two years.

Field goals of 47 and 32 yards by Steve Little kept the Raiders off balance most of the sunny, windswept afternoon and Forte supplied the coup de grace in the closing minutes.

The Raiders, now 6-4-1 and 3-4 in SWC play, led 7-6 entering the fourth period seizing the lead temporarily in the third quarter on Billy Taylor's two yard touchdown scamper. The Raiders scored the second time on a 26-yard pass from Don Roberts to Lawrence Williams as time ran out.

USC 34, UCLA 9

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pat Haden ran for one touchdown, passed for another and handed off to Anthony Davis, who romped 195 yards, as the Southern California Trojans hammered crosstown rival UCLA 34-9, clinching a Rose Bowl berth for the third straight year.

The eighth-ranked Trojans, nailing down their seventh Pacific-8 Conference championship in nine years, marched to scores the first three times they had the ball. Then they put the contest out of reach 24-9 when Davis knifed eight yards up the middle to cap an 81-yard drive with the second-half kickoff.

Southern Cal, 8-1-1 overall and 6-0-1 in Pac-8, concludes the regular season against Notre Dame next week before meeting either Ohio State or Michigan in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

The Trojans went right to work against the two-touchdown underdog Bruins, marching 70 yards in nine plays with their first possession.

Turkeys: dangerous if stuffed?

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your Thanksgiving turkey is stuffed, it may be dangerous.

That warning comes from the Agriculture Department, which says that cooking stuffing inside a turkey increases the danger of salmonella poisoning.

The department issued the warning this week in reporting the results of a survey of food safety practices in the home. The survey indicated that many American homemakers would flunk tests for cooking turkey safely.

Fresh meat and poultry may contain salmonella bacteria, which cause a disease characterized by flu-like symptoms such as severe headaches, vomiting, diarrhea, cramps and fever.

It can cause death in particularly susceptible persons such as infants, elderly persons or those with chronic diseases.

Although salmonella can be killed when the turkey is cooked, it may be transferred from the turkey to the stuffing, the department said.

"Therefore, for absolute safety, stuffing or dressing should be cooked in a separate container," it added.

"If the homemaker insists on cooking stuffing inside the turkey, it is imperative that she cook the stuffing thoroughly," the department said. "In the cavity of the turkey, it takes longer for the stuffing to be sufficiently cooked."

It should reach a temperature of at least 165 degrees during roasting, the department advised.

"Just because the outer surface of the turkey appears to be done does not necessarily indicate the stuffing is safely done, too," it said.

The risk of cooking the stuffing in the turkey is further compounded when the stuffing is packed tightly because it does not allow the oven heat to penetrate as quickly, the department said.

Hold three for slaying

CARTHAGE, Mo. (AP) — Arrests of three young Carthage men were completed early today, less than 24 hours after the bullet-riddled body of James Stemmons, liquor store owner, was found.

Don Richardson of the highway patrol, spokesman for the Tri-State Major Case Squad, said charges of first-degree murder, kidnaping and aggravated robbery would be filed against the men.

About 20 officers under the direction of Sheriff Joe Hart worked non-stop on the case after Stemmons' body was found Friday morning.

Stemmons was reported missing Thursday night when two customers entered his store south of Carthage and found the cash register open and no sign of the owner.

The body was found beside Stemmons' pickup truck in a field four miles south of Carthage. He had been shot three times in the head and his body had been blasted by a shotgun.

Richardson said the officers recovered four guns that had been taken from Stemmons' store and were believed to be the murder weapons. They were a .303 Enfield rifle, a 35 caliber automatic rifle, a 38 caliber pistol and a 12 gauge shotgun, he said.

Several hundred dollars also was recovered, Richardson said.

One of the men was arrested at 7 p.m. Friday night; the second at 12:30 a.m. today, and the third at 1:30 a.m.

Lucky driller finds oil

By DAYTON BLAIR
Associated Press Writer

NOWATA, Okla. (AP) — Did you ever dream of owning your own oil well, maybe in your back yard?

Douglas Mitchell did. And he made the dream come true with a well producing oil that sells for more than $11 a barrel.

If his luck holds out, he may make enough to pay off the mortgage on his farm and help finance his children's educations.

Making the dream come true was not easy. He had to buy his own drilling rig, borrow completion equipment from friends and then pay for oil tools.

Mitchell, a native of Bartlesville, Okla., has a master's degree in wood technology and general forestry.

After five years working in the wood industry, he and his wife returned to northeastern Oklahoma and a year later he bought an old cable tool drilling rig for $500.

The rig was often in the repair shop and one day it fell apart, almost killing Mitchell. He had to seek employment in the oil fields, and even worked at a smelter and ran some cattle to make ends meet.

Finally, the family bought their own home, a farm house between Nowata and Bartlesville. Then he acquired a K-type star spudder and last January raised it in his back yard.

Aided by his wife and 13-year-old son Jim, he drilled the well to 1,287 feet. But he had to go to friends to get equipment to complete the well.

Among those friends were W. D. and Charles Colen of Bartlesville, who provided tubing, rods and pumping unit; Rell Schwab Jr. of Nowata, who came through with a 100-barrel tank; R. M. Campbell of Bartlesville, who provided various tools and the offer of another tank, and Doyle Cox of Ramona, who provided a winch truck.

When the Douglas & Linda K. Mitchell No. 1 well was completed, it was bringing in 76 barrels of oil a day with water from perforations at 1,006 to 1,016 feet.

Mitchell originally received $10.20 a barrel for his oil, but now is getting $11.20.

He drilled a second well, which was dry, and is now preparing to drill a third about 500 feet from the original one.

Since April, when it was brought in, the well has produced 2,759 barrels, but production is declining.

"Now, at long last, I'm hoping we can do a little more for ourselves and a little less moonlighting," Mitchell said.

Mrs. Mitchell, who has a bachelor's degree in English, recently quit a teaching job in the Bartlesville-Delaware schools to become a full-time housewife. Her cooking, incidentally, is done over gas produced from another well Mitchell drilled.

Brash stuntman will change his act now

VENICE, Fla. (AP) — Philipe Petite, who has often offended authorities but thrilled onlookers with unannounced strolls — like on a tight-rope 1,350 feet above the streets of New York — says his stunts will be in the proper spotlights from now on.

"I will work above the center ring, alone," Petite says with a touch of pride of his planned show with the Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus.

The Frenchman's Jan. 3 debut in this southwest Florida city, winter headquarters of the circus, will be one of the few times he has performed without the likelihood of arrest.

The native Parisian gained worldwide attention Aug. 7 by an unsanctioned balancing act between the skyscraper towers of New York's World Trade Center. But police were waiting for him when he got back down to earth.

Editors name top performers

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Associated Press Managing Editors Association has selected writer Brooks Jackson and photographer Chick Harrity for its annual top performance awards.

The awards are given annually to recognize outstanding work by an AP reporter and an AP photographer during the previous year. Jackson and Harrity each received $500 and a plaque during the APME annual convention aboard the Queen Mary Hyatt Hotel.

Jackson, a member of the Special Assignment Team in the AP's Washington bureau, was singled out for his coverage of milk producers' political campaign contributions which became a subject of controversy in the Watergate investigation.

Harrity, a former newspaper photographer who joined the AP in 1965, was honored for his poignant picture of then President Nixon as he bade farewell to his staff. Harrity is on the AP staff in Washington, D.C.

This was the eleventh year for the top performance awards. For only the third time, the APME General News Committee selected a "first honorable mention" award for a writer. It went to Louise Cook of the AP New York General Desk for her coverage of consumer affairs.

Other honorable mention awards in the reporting-writing competition went to Fred Hoffman of the Washington Bureau for his coverage of the U.S. alert when the Yom Kippur war broke out in October of 1973; John Barbour, a staffer in the New York AP Newsfeatures department, for his account of the ordeal of a New York man mistakenly accused of rape, and Frank Crepeau, a member of the AP Moscow staff, for his exclusive interview with exiled Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn in Switzerland.

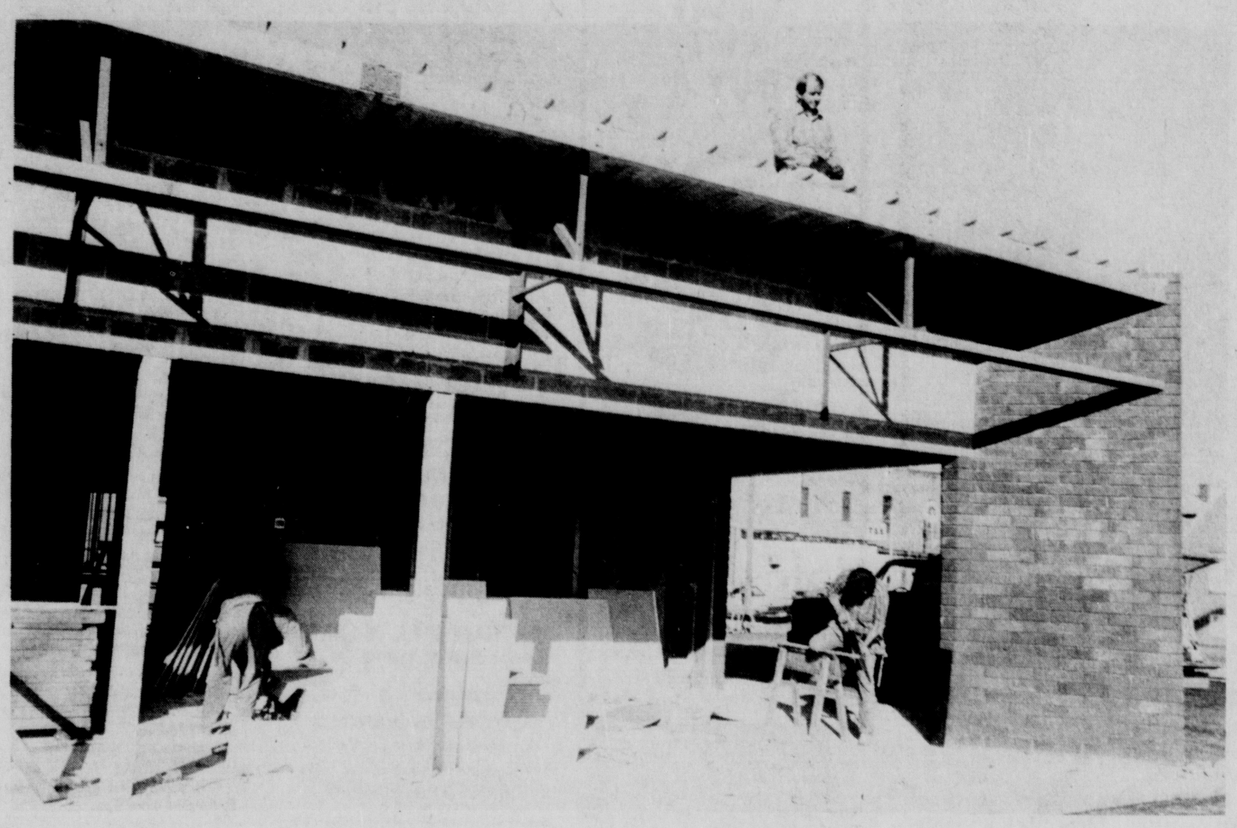
AP photographer George Brich of Los Angeles received a "first honorable mention" in the photo competition. He was cited for his coverage of the shootout in which six members of the Symbionese Liberation Army were killed as police tried to capture them and Patty Hearst, who escaped, last May 17.

Other honorable mentions for photographic excellence went to Neal Ulevich of AP's Saigon bureau for coverage of a Jakarta demonstration; Charles Tasnadi of the Washington bureau for capturing the simultaneous shrugs of President Nixon and Soviet Chairman Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow, and Harry Harris of New York for a photo of Willie Mays protesting an umpire's decision.

Killed in accident

WATERLOO, Ill. (AP)—Raymond J. Schallom, 62, was killed Friday when he walked into the path of a car on Illinois 3 near here, police said.

The driver of the car that struck Schallom, Jean C. Jost, 50, was not charged, authorities said.



Donut house shapes up

Winchell's Donut House, being built at Broadway and Ohio, has started to look as it will when completed in early December. The business is a company-owned operation out of LaMirada, Calif. The building has been contracted to American West Contractors, San Diego, Calif. A Christmas opening is planned.

Green space is just the thing

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—The state Board of Public Buildings opted for green space today when they decided to tear up an asphalt parking lot adjacent to the south Capitol steps and plant grass.

The grand staircase on the south, or city side, of the Captiol will look like the north, or river side, when the work is finished.

It will cost about $27,000 additional to the work under way in building a circular drive on the south side, which has resulted in destruction of trees, grass and shrubbery.

Original plans called for a narrow strip of grass and retention of the parking lot overlooked by the Thomas Jefferson statue on the south steps. The area is where new governors are inaugurated.

About 60 parking spots will be lost, but Gov. Christopher S. Bond, Lt. Gov. William C. Phelps and Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth voted for the proposal after Jefferson City housing officials disclosed plans to tear down buildings west of the Capitol, which would provide additional parking space.

Bond dissented at the last meeting when the board voted 2-1 to abandon plans for a parking garage on what is now a hilly, grassy area, after it was revealed that part of the garage would have to be above ground.

The legislature appropriated planning money for the underground garage when it also appropriated money for the south circular drive.

In other action, the board accepted a report on a $3.9 million cost for acquiring the land and renovating the Continental Building in midtown St. Louis.

At the suggestion of Robert James, commissioner of administration, the board agreed to have James discuss the plans with legislators from St. Louis.

John Cooper, director of planning and construction, said he believed the midtown site is needed for Revenue Department, welfare, probation and parole and state education offices. He said the $22 cost per square foot for renovation compared favorably with an $38 to $44 cost for a new building.

Social Services Director Lawrence Graham requested a $2.5 million to $3 million computer center, and said federal funding would take care of nearly $1 million of that. The computer center has replaced a new health laboratory as Graham's No. 1 construction project.

Cooper and James suggested putting the two items together—possibly in one building—on the same block that would have been purchased for the laboratory. The block is near a freeway and across a street from an area being purchased by the state for a state office building to be built five years from now.

Bond asked whether the health lab and computer center could be deferred until the new state office building is appropriated for, but Cooper said there is a "time priority," that the health and computer buildings are needed in 1975.

"It seems that at every meeting we're talking about new buildings," Danforth said. The board agreed to his suggestion that Cooper and James draw up a list of priorities, including the time it will take for construction, parking proposals and the amount and source of financing.

The top priorities will go into Bond's capital improvements budget to be prepared for legislative approval.

Will request funds to help law

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Christopher S. Bond has promised to seek an emergency appropriation from the legislature in Janaury to finance implementation of the state's new ambulance licensing law.

Speaking to the Mid-Missouri Comprehensive Health Planning Agency Friday, Bond announced that the federal government has approved use of $50,000 in highway safety funds for the law and that he would ask the legislature for $15,000 more in state revenue to supplement the federal grant through June.

"The Department of Transportation has made it very clear that no funds will be available to us for this purpose next year," the governor emphasized, however, "and I firmly believe it is the responsibility of the Missouri General Assembly to appropriate monies for implementation of measures which are passed by that body."

The law, which became fully effective in July, sets standards for ambulance service around the state and for the personnel involved in providing that service. Currently 45 ambulance districts have been established in the state, each with the power to tax residents to support public ambulance service.

The national Labor Relations Board was established on July 5, 1935.

Claims time is right for ERA

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., the first black woman ever elected to Congress, says the Equal Rights Amendment would cause a basic restructuring in treatment received by women.

She also told a University of Arkansas audience Friday that she would not be a candidate for the presidency in 1976.

"I did my thing in 1972, completing what I started out to do, and that was to show that a woman and a black at that could go all the way to the top," she said of her effort two years ago to win the Democratic party nomination for president.

The amendment has not yet been ratified by a sufficient number of states for it to become part of the U.S. Constitution.

"Since time immemorial, women have been treated as inferior human beings," Rep. Chisholm said. "Almost all cultures relegate females to a lower rung on the social ladder in spite of the fact that women play crucial roles in the survival of those cultures." Citing sayings concerning women, Mrs. Chisholm mentioned "it is thy place, woman, to hold thy peace and keep within doors," and "when a woman inclines to learning, there is something wrong with her sex apparatus."

Spirit of cooperation could benefit

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says U.S. farmers stand to benefit over the long pull from what he believes is a new spirit of world cooperation aimed at solving global food problems.

The World Food Conference in Rome Nov. 5-16 had its share of self-serving rhetoric, he told newsmen last week, but overall the meeting left a positive impact. At some future time, perhaps in 10 years, the Rome conference will be viewed as a benchmark in efforts to solve world hunger, he said.

Butz's observations and optimism were made on a general plane. He still insists a world food reserve, for example, be left to individual countries and not brought under massive international control.

For all his enthusiasm about international cooperation, Butz continues his oft-repeated contention that the free market system, and not government intervention, will pave the way to a well-fed world.

Butz was asked how the American farmer will be affected by what occurred in Rome. He said the conference made "a very firm commitment" for more technical assistance to poor countries from the rich nations to help them increase food output.

"I think organizations, I think this department, I think our agricultural colleges, I think the multinational companies will find themselves increasingly participating in technical assistance," Butz said.

Thus, he said, "The fact that we have now moved food to a top-priority position in national scales of priority, I think, opens up opportunities for food producers everywhere ... the real opportunity for food security in the world is based more on trade than aid."

A main thrust of Butz's feeling about aid to impoverished, hungry nations is that the United States has carried the main load much too long. It is time, he says, for other richer countries to take over larger responsibilities.

As illustration of U.S. help, Butz says American aid has:

—Provided 84 per cent of all food contributions by developed countries in the eight years 1965-72.

—Amounted to 46 per cent of the United Nations' World Food Program aid since it was started in 1962, with Canada second at 13 per cent.

—Totaled $25 billion in donations and concessional sales since the beginning of Public Law 480 (Food for Peace) assistance in 1954.

—Included 143 million metric tons of wheat, rice and other grains since then.

Further, Butz said, food aid shipments in the current fiscal year ending next June 30 are being increased in terms of food grain quantity from 197374, but selectively according to need and subject to quarterly review.

Discussing world food reserves, Butz emphasized that the Rome conference supported "an internationally coordinated but nationally managed system" aimed as a buffer against future needs.

"For too many years, the United States and Canada have essentilly carried the world food reserves, not as a conscious policy, but as the by-product of a poorly conceived price support policy," Butz said. "That time is gone."

He referred to previous farm policy tailored to high price supports which helped prompt huge grain surpluses in the late 1950s and early 1960s, and later attempts to manage output by paying farmers subsidies to idle part of their land.

A more flexible system was devised by Congress in 1970 and renewed again in 1973. Since the huge export orders began draining off stockpiles in mid 1972, the government's policy has been increasingly toward full production, no land-idling subsidies and reliance on market prices rather than federal payments to farmers.

Butz has consistently endorsed this development as a wave of the future, economically, for farmers. And a thriving export market is the key.

Thus, Butz could not support proposals by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and others that the United States deliberately create a substantial stockpile of grain to carry out its role in the world food arena.

Butz said, however, that even with current tight supplies, farmers control what amounts to a food reserve. Producers and the private trade, not the government, should continue to control it, he said.

"If there were a publicly owned reserve of wheat of, let us say 200 million bushels, as Sen. Humphrey recommends, the pressure to put that in the market to blunt rising prices would be so tremendous — and it would take on such political expression — it would be impossible to sit on it," Butz said.

But he said he favored one role for the government in grain stockpiling. When it is determined how much U.S. food aid will be given, the government should take steps to assure that amount will be available, he said.

Butz said the commodities needed for overseas aid could be isolated several ways, including authority for the recipient countries to acquire what they needed early or by direct acquisition by the Agriculture Department to assure enough will be on hand to meet requisitions during the year.

Crop checking system expected

AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government and the grain trade hope to have in operation by the 1975 harvest a new early-warning system to detect unusual defects in wheat, corn, soybeans and other commodities important as food producers in the United States and abroad.

Worked out jointly by the Agriculture Department and the National Grain and Feed Association, the plan will supplement existing federal grain inspection services, which in the past have not adequately alerted government and trade people when unusual defects have shown up at harvest time.

"In recent years, infrequent or localized defects such as red-striped corn, mottled soybeans and sprout-damaged sorghum have disrupted the orderly grading and marketing of grain," the department said Friday.

As planned, when a crop is harvested, certain strategically located country elevators — to be designated by the trade association — will send samples of the new crop to USDA's laboratory in Beltsville, Md.

At Beltsville, the samples will be examined for unusual defects which may not show up in regular testing operations.

The National Grain and Feed Association said the system "will aid in the detection of unusual quality problems in a new crop at the local level, thus maximizing producer income and minimizing local grain elevator losses due to undetected or improperly identified quality defects."

The joint agreement for the project was signed by Alvin E. Oliver, executive vice president of the trade association, and Ervin L. Peterson, administrator of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service.

One spokesman said that in the past local elevators have lost money heavily by buying grain at full price which later turned out to have hidden quality defects. Another result has been that local elevators, after being caught in such a predicament, have overreacted by discounting grain prices to farmers in an effort to prevent further losses.

With the early alert program, the spokesman said, it is hoped both extremes can be avoided.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says it will hear arguments on the question of increasing Class I milk supports in federal marketing orders next Tuesday.

Officials said "a modification of the previously announced comment" regarding a preliminary decision not to raise minimum milk prices will involve further consideration.

Earlier, it was announced that USDA tentatively would not increase minimum prices for Class I milk in federal marketing orders. But officials said further comments will be accepted, including an open meeting scheduled for Tuesday at which time proponents of the increase will be allowed to present their views.

Prison terms given to accused gamblers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Two of seven men accused of operating a $1 million-per-year policy racket have been sentenced to six month prison terms.

Sentenced in federal court Friday were Donald Burr, 45, of Overland, and Mose L. Johnson, 62, of meacham Park.

Two other men, Leroy Works, 59, of Webster Groves, and Darde Smith, 44, of Maplewood, were sentenced to similar terms earlier. The other three men are awaiting trial.

HORSES OWNED BY SYNDICATES

LONDON (AP) — More than 100 of the horses now racing in Britain are owned by syndicates. An example is Today, which won a purse of 500 pounds ($1,200) at Epsom in April. The horse is owned by 12 employes of the British Broadcasting Corp. who each paid 100 pounds ($240) for a share in the horse six months ago. Each pays another 10 pounds ($24) a month for feeding and training costs.

Most of Today's purse was swallowed up by expenses, and the Jockey Club said that few syndicates are showing a profit.

Crash with eagle hospitalizes man

DENVER (AP) — Terry Hauf, 25, was hunting game birds on a farm near his home Yoder, Wyo., home when he was struck and knocked unconscious by an eagle. He estimated the bird's wing span at between 4 and 6 feet.

"I didn't see the bird until I came to. He was dazed too," Hauf told reporters at a hospital where he was recuperating Friday. He added that the bird took off across the field at kind of a trot, flapping its wings.

Hauf was brought to Denver where doctors operated on his right eye, injured in the collision, in an effort to save it. He also suffered head cuts.

55-A—Farm Equipment

The Building Buy of the Year Now Available in Four Widths!

BUTLER Farmsted®

3,000 Square Feet — $4,822
(includes 20x13 Double Slide Door)
3,600 Square feet — $5,973
(includes 24x13 Double Slide Door)
F.O.B. PLANT

Your Butler Agri-Builder now offers the durable, all-steel Farmsted in four widths ... and still at unbelievably low prices.

Farmsted is fire-resistant and termite-proof. Clear-span interior with no unsightly rafters or trusses. And Farmsted is easily insulated.

Farmsted offers these options: (1) Four widths; 30', 40', 48', and 50'. (2) Lengths from 25' up, in 25' bay additions. (3) Eave heights to 16'. (4) A second double slide door. (5) Lite Panl skylighting. (6) Antique Gold finish. (7) Windows, ventilators and walk-in doors also are optional.

Farmsted can do double duty for implement shelter and-or grain storage. When modified for grain, the 40' x 75' size holds 18,000 bushels.

Farmsted can be easily lengthened or moved, and offers every kind of farm building use.

Farmsted is easy to erect. You can do it; we can do it; or we can do it together. Call for full details.

Broadway director avoids commitments

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Franco Zeffirelli hates to repeat. On the other hand, doing a show several times has great merit for him.

Franco Zeffirelli prefers permanent acting ensembles. But a special cast for a single production is also good, he says.

Broadway is and isn't a scary place to work. Critics are either out of touch with public taste, or unfortunately too attuned.

Franco Zeffirelli is clearly one eminent stage-film-opera director with a wary diplomat's profound aversion to precise commitment about operating method.

Certain aspects of the theatrical craft he will certify. "The stage," he says, "is a cruel arena." Also, "a director's success is 75 per cent in player selection." When discussing further specifics, a conversational verdigris of cautious ambiguity surrounds comment.

After an absence of more than a decade, the suave maestro from Florence is back in town with "Saturday Sunday Monday," a drama triumphantly mounted previously for the National Theater Company of Great Britain.

The production opens Thursday (Nov. 21) at the Martin Beck Theater with a cast headed by Eli Wallach, Sada Thompson, Walter Abel and Jan Miner — familiar luminaries all. In London, Lord Olivier, Joan Plowright and Frank Finley were the leads.

Zeffirelli explains that his preference for such stellar talents on stage really doesn't contradict his well-known proclivity for tyro performers in the key roles of such cinemas as "Romeo and Juliet" and "Father Son, Sister Moon."

"I'm not especially attracted to unknowns," he demurs. "They must have great ability. On film you can bring that out with careful attention. But up on stage, performers are alone for several hours and you can do nothing." The hands wave in rueful resignation.

As for the difference between directing an ensemble such as the National Company and a group picked for one play, he finds advantages in the first of internal rapport and a ready-made audience, whereas the alternate situation enables "exact casting for one part without compromise." A film version will probably be made of "Saturday Sunday Monday," but Zeffirelli isn't saying who might be in that incarnation. "Actors have feelings," he explains.

The comedy about a weekend family crisis is by Eduardo De Filippo, a prolific playwright whose works until recently have somehow been overlooked outside of Italy.

"He is one of my idols," says the 51-year-old director. "The National accepted it just because they wanted me again after the great success of my 'Much Ado About Nothing' for them."

After SRO repertory run, Zeffirelli reshaped the comedy for still continuing success in London's commercial West End. However, remembering the thud of his only other New York venture — "Lady of the Camellias" — he was "inclined not to do it" when a Broadway production was suggested.

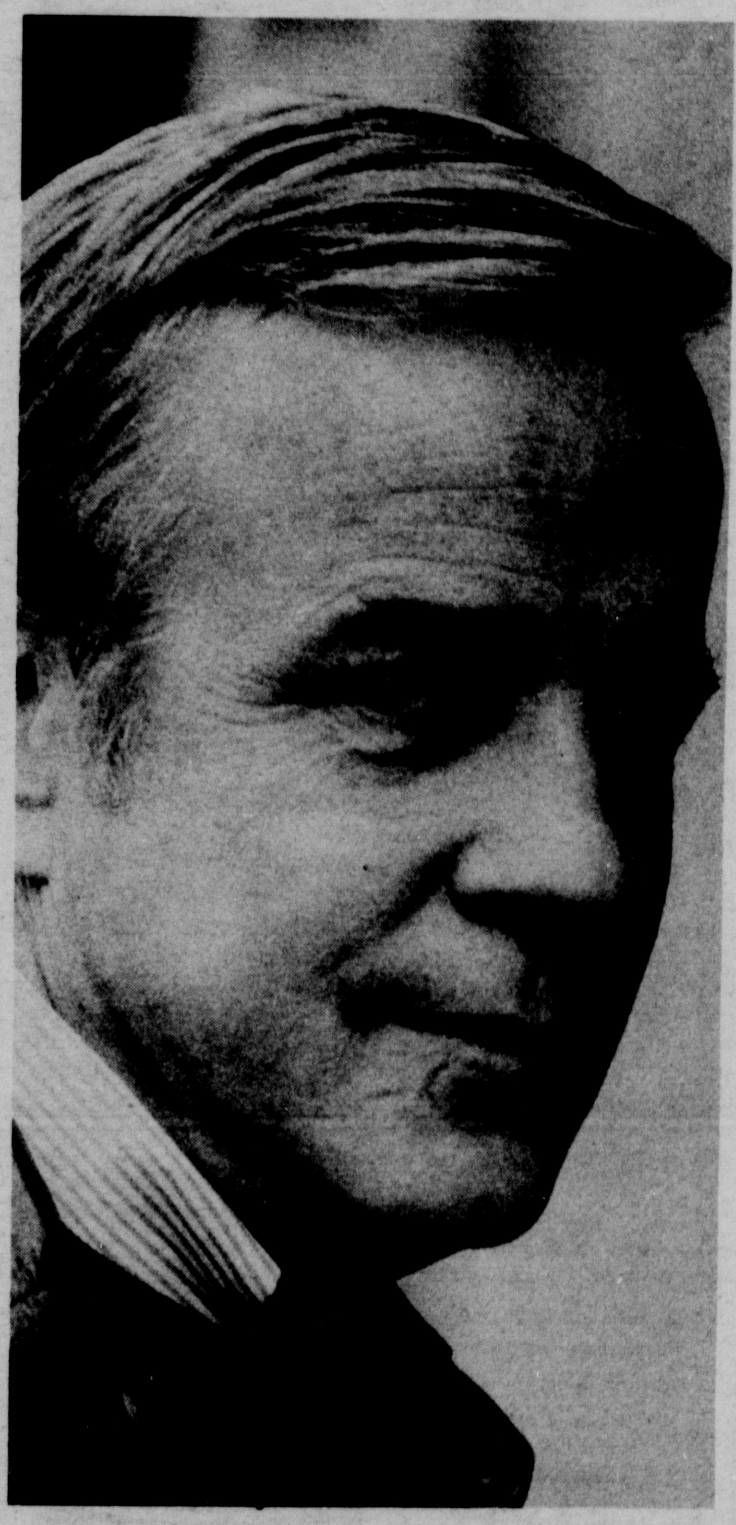
"This is a good one to try again with," he now amends. "I hate to repeat, but doing something that I have experimented with already is an advantage." Just don't get the idea, however, that this is an exact duplication.

"I have done operas three, four, five times and each version is different although basically the same. It would be very unfair to impose on distinguished actors something that had been modeled for others."

The last time here Zeffirelli believed "the Broadway characteristic was great tension, emphasis on Actors Studio Motivation and all that. This time I haven't found that. It is relaxing."

There's also that matter of critics — "I've had bad notices, always. When the London reviewers unanimously hailed this play, I was shocked. I thought I must have failed. I was suspicious."

If praise has assuaged distrust, some skepticism about the merit of reviewers remains. Previously he voiced opinion that "the gap between them and the general public is immense." He amends that now with: "I'm afraid critics are too in touch with audiences, both in good taste and bad taste."



Return to Broadway

Franco Zeffirelli is back in New York with a play for Broadway after an absence of more than a decade. The director of stage works, films and opera, he's now presenting "Saturday Sunday Monday," a drama he'd previously mounted with great success for the National Theater Company of Great Britain. It's a comedy by Italian playwight Eduardo DeFilippo — "He's one of my idols," says Zeffirelli. (AP)

Multi Questions

Are any of Johnny Carson's sons married? What are Loretta Young and Claudette Colbert doing and how old are they? — Mrs. Lois Standaker, Duluth, Minn.

None of Johnny's boys is married. Loretta Young is active in charitable work and is seen, looking exquisitely beautiful, at many Hollywood social functions. Claudette Colbert recently appeared in a stage play in Los Angeles. Loretta is 61 and Claudette is 67.

Stacked deck

I've recently become a fan of The Untouchables and Robert Stack. When was the series made? Is Stack still acting? How old is he and is he married? — Lisa Sacks, Wilmette, Ill.

The Untouchables premiered on TV in 1959. Stack, who is very much married to his beautiful and social Rosemarie, is 55 and a member of a very old California family. Yes, he still acts. He is now filming "Adventures of the Queen," a TV movie for CBS.

Sickness and death

I read recently either that Laurence Harvey was dying or that he had died. Please clarify, as it seemed to be a misprint. He is one of my favorite stars. Also, is Susan Hayward ill? — P.M., Port Lamoca, Tex.

Sadly, Harvey died recently of cancer. And also sadly, yes, Miss Hayward is seriously ill.

Gould considers himself an ordinary man

By PATTI KERINS

NEW YORK — He thinks himself the lengendary everyman. From unspectacular beginnings in Brooklyn, N.Y., he progressed typically through public schools, marriage, fatherhood, divorce and readjustment. But the analogy ends there. Somewhere along the line, Elliott Goldstein became Elliott Gould, leaving the ranks of the anonymous forever.

Elliott Gould caught the public eye in the highly-successful comedy film M-A-S-H. His acting credits multiplied with leading roles in "The Long Goodbye," "Getting Straight," "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice" for which he received an Academy Award nomination, "Spies," "California Split," and Ingmar Bergman's "The Touch."

In January, Gould will costar with Telly Savalas in a new release "The Alley." It's a comedy but, says Gould, "there is underlying drama. Two cars are stopped in an alley, facing each other. Neither one wants to move. It's a comment on life." And because he "was once a child" Gould will appear with Barbara Eden on Dec. 10 in an ABC-TV special "Out To Lunch," featuring the Sesame Street Muppets. "I'm doing it primarily because I like kids," said Gould. "It's a one-shot deal but I would like to do more in this area. For the show, Gould will resurrect the singing and dancing talents that won him a career in show business via the Broadway chorus line. He and the Cookie Monster are partnered in three dance routines under the direction of choreographer Pat Birch (of "Grease"). Despite Gould's accomplishments, he refuses to abandon his image of the "man next door."

Elliott Gould with Bert

"I'm no different than you are," protested Gould. "I grew up in the streets of New York. I had a lot of doubts and fears like everyone. I couldn't even ride a two-wheeler until I was 15!"

Decked out in scruffy blue-jeans and oversized black mohair sweater, his clipped black curls arrayed in no particular way, Gould's intense, dark eyes defy you to label him a star.

"Acting is my job," he explained. What other people read into it has no relation to what I am. If I wasn't acting, I would still be the same person. I was walking down the street one day and a few guys on a garbage truck recognized me. They shouted and waved and I waved back. We had a common ground. We're all trying to make a buck. That's what it's all about — relating to each other. We're all in this together."

Perhaps it was his six years as Mr. Barbara Streisand or the time spent in psychoanalysis that drove Gould to dissect minutely his every motive and choice. But be sure that all that touches his life endures strict appraisal.

For his children, Jason, Molly and Sam, Gould has no ambition. "Whether they choose acting or choose nothing," said Gould, is not important. Working isn't synonymous with ambition. Most important is that they be successful as human beings. It doesn't matter what you are, as long as you know who you are. That doesn't change."

Money, Gould believes, is secondary to personal interaction. "If somebody comes to steal my television, it's not really the TV they want. They need the money it can bring. So I say to them, 'Wait, let's talk. You've got a problem. Maybe I can help you or maybe I can direct you somewhere where you can get help."

His sullen countenance turns off many a talk-show devotee. "I don't talk naturally in a group," he said. "I'm better in a one-to-one situation." There was a time when the talk-show routine engenedered defensible resentment. "The questions asked were based on the audience's image of me and everything the audience knew about me was based on hearsay. It had nothing to do with what I was. It put me on the defensive. But now I'm more comfortable with myself. I can open up more. I don't feel I have to answer everything. Silence is an answer."

Facile judgments are often a consequence of limited knowledge. While Elliott Gould has, at different times, been judged boorish, aloof or just downright rude, his observers may have passed over the genesis of his thick-skin. Gould is an ordinary man living under the extraordinary pressures of stardom. In his 36th year, he has come to know himself as a person rather than a box-office commodity. He says confidently, "My life is for me to give not for people to take."

Daring producers find their place

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — This is the era of the independent producer, those daring young men with not much else besides nerve and an idea. Of them all, perhaps the nerviest is a man named Stuart Duncan.

He's just made his first movie, "Let's Go For Broke." It's a James Bond spoof, with the heroine an inept girl named Jackie Broke.

Duncan grew up intending to go into the family business (Lea & Perrins, the sauce people) but, after a brief fling, quit to try something for himself. He always had loved the theater, so tried producing plays. His third was "Godspell," a long-running off-Broadway hit in New York.

He decided he wanted to try a movie.

"It was a dumb thing to do," he says, but he did it anyhow. He knew two people — his prep school roommate was producer Martin Ransohoff and one of his "Godspell" investors ($900 worth) was a beautiful blonde actress named Christa Helm.

He hired Miss Helm to be his star. She was supposed to be a karate expert, according to the script. She isn't.

"They just had me kick people," she says. "I kicked so energetically I threw my back out. I was in traction for days, in the same hospital where Joe Namath was having a bad knee worked on. I had once dated Joe, so that was all right."

Duncan says the picture cost $1.1 million. He figures $300,000 of that was wasted because he was new and made mistakes. As it is, he thinks, he has a good picture.

Hollywood conversation generally revolves around movies but these days Hollywoodsters are like everybody else — they talk about inflation.

Anne Francis, who had just finished her work in CBS' exciting "The FBI Story — Alvin Karpis," told me she had solved inflation with what she calls "Francis' Law."

Francis' Law? It's simple, she says.

Anne Francis

"If you have problems paying your bills, just make some more money."

She admits, of course, that that isn't as easy to do as it is to say. Even in her star-type bracket.

"These days," she says, "TV shows, instead of paying more, are trying to get you to work for less. The new residual ruling, under our new union contract, won't make itself felt for some time. And, besides, there just aren't that many jobs around now."

What Anne is doing now is something very different for a glamor gal. She's just made a pilot for a syndicated series — "or maybe it'll be on PBS" — about home improvements. She thought up the title, "Home Improvements," herself.

Anne has always been handy around the house and aso she figured she might as well capitalize on that talent. On the show, she'll demonstrate how to do things and talk to experts on such subjects as plumbing, carpentry and electricity.

It'll be nice having Anne around the house, one way or another.

Kennedy has his own economy program

By DICK KLEINER

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — The day's shooting for the ABC series, Nakia, was over and Arthur Kennedy relaxed with a drink in the cocktail lounge of the hotel which is the show's headquarters here.

Give an Irishman a few drinks and you have a right to expect laughter and funny stories. Not with Arthur Kennedy, and least not in this strange year, 1974. He is so overcome with pessimism about our nation's economic future that he can talk of little else.

"I only took this part," he says, referring to his role as the sheriff on the Robert Forster vehicle, "because it was a good offer. And I'm putting the money to good use, too."

He says he has embarked on his own economic program these frightening days. You could call it the Kennedy Economic Plan.

"In the event of a depression, which may not be far away," he says, "the thing that gets hurt the worst is real estate. Real estate holdings always get clobbered. So I've sold everything but my Nova Scotia farm. I'll never sell that — that's my retreat."

In fact he says, his wife, Mary, who shares his gloom, wants to move to Canada permanently. She is currently in Albuquerque with him as he shoots his Nakia role.

The Kennedys have a 400-acre farm in Nova Scotia. He is using the proceeds from his Nakia employment to improve the Nova Scotia acreage.

"I'm putting in fish ponds," he says, "and clearing land to accommodate more sheep."

Kennedy is a serious student of economics and can talk knowledgeably about international finance, politics, national economics. On all fronts he is pessimistic.

"I think there is a very strong possibility," he says, "that we will see the kind of runaway inflation that Germany had after World War I. It won't be fun."

Arthur Kennedy

But, meanwhile, there is a life to live and a series to be shot. He is enjoying working on Nakia and thinks it is a TV show to be moderately proud of. The only problem is what to do on the days he isn't working.

"What do I do here in Albuquerque?" he asks. "Well, this week the Arabian Horse Breeders Association is having a convention and auction in this city. I've decided I can't afford to buy anything but I'll go to the auction to watch."

He says that when the series is finished — and, judging from the disappointing ratings, that may not be too far in the future — he wants to take some time off.

"I don't know how long I'll take off," Kennedy says, "or where I'll go. I just know that, for the time being, I'm kind of fed up with working. I need to spend some time not doing anything much at all."

TV Scout Reports

Sonny Bono will be 40 next Feb. 16 but he says he doesn't expect any great trauma as he enters his fourth decade.

"I've never been that aware of age," he says. "It doesn't mean that much to men, anyway. Look at actors like Newman and Redford — they get better with age."

Norman Rosemont, who produced the TV movie, "The Count of Monte Cristo," did much of the filming on location at the Chateau d'If, known as the "Alcatraz of France." Rosemont says "That place was so tough bread and water wasn't punishment — it was Sunday dinner."

———

People may not think of Rodney Dangerfield as fastidious, but he keeps shoe trees in his slippers!

———

Victor Borge saw a chubby girl in an all-denim outfit and he says, "She was bursting at the jeans."

———

Alan King says he thought it was interesting that Howard Cosell announced Frank Sinatra's Madison Square Garden concert because "Sinatra is one of the few stars who is bigger than Cosell's ego."

———

Carol Burnett really can get the hard-to-get guest stars, with Maggie Smith joining the ranks of previously seen Rita Hayworth and Gloria Swanson. It's a tribute to Carol's talent that equally talented women want to appear on her series.

———

Richard Thomas, of The Waltons and the forthcoming NBC-TV movie "The Red Badge of Courage," has a small house in Hollywood which he says is his "weekend retreat. When I work, I really work. That weekend rest is almost like recovering from the flu."

———

Richard Thomas' first book of poetry has been published by Equinox in paperback. It's called simply "Poems by Richard Thomas." Earl Hamner, the creator of The Waltons, sent a copy of the book with a letter that says, "It would be extremely gratifying to my ego to claim that Richard Thomas portrays me each week on television. It is true that that the character of John-Boy Walton is based on my own circumstances and yearnings when I was a young man, but the John-Boy we see on television is Richard's own creation, accomplished with his own art and imagination and technique."

Earl goes on to say that there is a bond of friendship between him and Richard. He adds that Richard and John-Boy share a common passion: "They are both consumed with the power and beauty and majesty of the written word."

Victor Borge has been pondering this: "Why do people sit down in the daytime and sit up at night?"

———

TV director John Badham (who has directed "The Law," "The Gun" and "Terror" for TV so far this season — "My career will be over by December 1st," he laughs) wants to move into feature films. He says he is being very careful about picking the right project, because, as he says, "one blown opportunity" and a career is damaged.

"God only knows how Billy Friedkin, who directed 'The Exorcist,' survived two Sonny and Cher pictures but somehow he did."

Rodney Dangerfield says he gets mixed up when he drinks. "The other night I ordered a roast beef on the rocks."

———

Dyann Cannon is playing Virginia Hill in an NBC-TV World Premiere film. "The Virginia Hill Story." Some of the filming was done at the palatial Harold Lloyd estate in Beverly Hills.

Dyann sums up the size of the place nicely. "I've been in smaller cities," she said.

Bob Hope has gone to West Point to dedicate the Eisenhower Theater and he has been invited to have lunch with the Cadet Corps at the Cadet Dining Hall. Dolores Hope, who accompanied Bob, won't be able to dine with him, however. She will lunch with Mrs. Sidney Berry, the Commandant's wife, at the Berry quarters.

Women, it seems, are not allowed in the Cadet Mess Hall. One exception was made in Christmas of 1970 when the whole Bob Hope Christmas troupe visited the Academy, and the women, including the Golddiggers and the Dinaglings, were allowed to join the men.

Rock Hudson and Nancy Walker, of McMillan & Wife, got together for a rousing version of George Gershwin's "Mine" at a Carol Burnett tribute. They were so good that their collective boss — Universal Studios — is looking around for a musical comedy to co-star them. Hudson owes Universal two pictures, and the musical could be one of them.

———

Apple's Way's Ronny Cox, who is as talented a musician as he is an actor, signed a contract with Columbia Records to make some albums.

He promptly plunked down his recording contract advance on a brand-new tennis court. Ronny's neighbor is Vincent Van Patten, who plays his son of the show. Vince is a crack player and they hope to play together frequently.

Star Trek is my favorite program, but all I see now are reruns. The cartoon can't compare with the other version. Will it ever be back for another season. What can I do to help? Meanwhile, keep the reruns coming! — Kathy De Vries, Worth, Ill.

There are no plans to make any new Star Trek TV shows, but there are talks going on about a feature film for theatrical release. So just keep hoping.

Tomorrow and tomorrow

I have become quite a fan of Tomorrow despite the lateness of the hour. Tom Snyder's candor and interesting presentations are worth losing sleep. Please give us some background on him. — Janet Huston, Duluth, Minn.

Snyder was born in Milwaukee, Wisc. May 12, 1936. He's tall (6 foot 4), a graduate of Marquette University, married and the father of a daughter, 10. He came to Los Angeles in 1970, handling local news for KNBC. He has now moved to New York for NBC.

Don't fight

Please settle an argument. Does Mary Tyler Moore play a Jewish girl on her show or not? We will take your answer as settlement. — D.F., Chicago.

No, the character of Mary Richards is not Jewish. Several shows over the years have made that point as Mary's background was contrasted with that of Rhoda Morgenstern, the Jewish girl played by Valerie Harper, until she moved off to her own series, called Rhoda.

Blind singer has bigger ambitions

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Can a blind man be an actor? Jose Feliciano thinks so, and he already has two performances on his record.

The Puerto Rico-born guitarist-singer-composer first played a role in the television series "MacMillan and Wife," portraying a man whose knowledge of tobacco helps solve a crime.

Now he is appearing in a "Kung Fu" segment as a Western drifter.

In both roles Feliciano portrays a blind man, but he sees no reason to limit himself to such roles.

"I think it's no more of a challenge for a blind actor to play a sighted person than it is for a sighted person to portray a character who is blind," he remarked.

"I'm sure that any actor who plays a blind role must spend a lot of time studying what it is like not to see.

"Well, I could do the same in reverse. I don't think sight is necessary for an actor."

Feliciano has been beating the odds for all of his 29 years. He was born blind in the Puerto Rican village of Larez, where his father was a farmer. The family emigrated to New York City, settling in a three-room apartment in Spanish Harlem. In time there were 12 sons. Three died in childhood.

Jose spent most of his days listening to music on the radio, began playing chords on an accordion, started with guitar at 9.

As a teen-ager he played and sang in Manhattan coffee houses. With "Light My Fire" he became a record star, and for the past eight years he has been collecting gold records and top salaries for concerts and club dates in the United States and abroad.

That wasn't enough. Six months ago, he decided he wanted to act.

"I had never acted before — except when I sing," he remarked.

"There's a lot of acting in singing. It's really like a movie, but you have only two minutes to put across a dramatic point.

"You've got to be convincing in a very brief time, or else the audience won't buy it."

Feliciano prepared himself with dramatic lessons from actor-coach Jeff Corey. When the guitarist switched agencies to William Morris, he told his new agents of his ambition. The castings in "MacMillan and Wife" and "Kung Fu" resulted.

Looks for more

Jose Feliciano, the Puerto Rico-born guitarist-singer-composer, sits on the back steps of his camper studying a Braille script for his role on a television "Kung Fu" segment. He plays a blind person, as he did on "MacMilland and Wife," but contends he could portray sighted persons also. He uses the camper as his dressing room on professional engagements since he is familiar with its interior layout.

What a difference a camera makes

HOLLYWOOD — She was in Hong Kong and what does everybody do in Hong Kong? Everybody buys a camera, of course, because they are so cheap there.

So Ahna Capri bought a camera and came home and had to find some way to use it. She took her good but inexpensive Japanese camera and strolled up and down Hollywood Boulevard. She took a picture of every ticket-taker in every theater and there are dozens of them along that stretch of pavement.

She found she had a knack for taking pictures of people. Since there is always plenty of time for an actress between assignments she took more and more pictures. Now she's almost a professional.

She writes, too, so you can see stories in a new magazine, Stars In Sports, by Ahna Capri with pictures by Ahna Capri. These are stories about the athletic adventures of people like Jackie Cooper and the late James Dean.

Ahna Capri is one of the very few child actresses to mature into a genuine beauty. Maybe it's the Hungarian in her that has come out, but today, full-grown in every direction, she's a whiz.

She was born in Germany, although her parents were Hungarian. Her original name was Annushka Marie Nanasi. Her father, a doctor, fled Naziism and then had to flee Communism, and, eventually, landed in the U.S. in 1950. He and his family spent some time in Ohio but then came to California, and Ahna considers California her home state.

She was only 14 when, as Anna Capri, she costarred with Andrew Duggan and Peggy McCoy in the old series, Room For One More. It was a hit in those simpler days, lasted two years and brought her her first taste of fame and semi-fortune.

She continued to act after the series folded, appearing as a guest star on most of the series for the next few years. At 17, she fell in love — with both serious acting and a young man. The career won out and she went to New York and studied with Stella Adler.

Now back here she's doing well with her career. She changed the spelling of her first name — Anna seemed a little pedestrian for a glamor gal, so it became Ahna.

She would like to make more feature films, of course — every professional actor or actress has that goal. So far, her most successful feature was "Enter the Dragon," with the late Bruce Lee, one of the biggest of the kung fu epics.

Most of that was shot in Hong Kong and that's when she bought her camera. Now, a whole new career seems to be opening up for her, that of photo-journalist.

"I still consider myself primarily an actress," she says, "but it's very nice to have this to fall back on when I'm not working."

Ask TV scout

Where oh where?

Please tell me where The Waltons is filmed. Someone said Charlottesville, Va. Is that true? — Mrs. L. H. Wand, Austin, Tex.

No. The Waltons is filmed on the back lot of The Burbank Studios, nee Warner Brothers, in Burbank, Calif. The house and garden stand there majestically, not far from Shangri-La, which is occasionally used for Kung Fu scenes. Occasionally, if the series needs to go on location, as they did for the two-hour show which began the season, they go to northern California.

Complaint

I've enjoyed the shows Match Game and Tattletales, but I get tired of the same old stars on these two shows. There is always Brett Somers and Charles Nelson Reilly on Match Game and Elaine Joyce and Bobby Van on Tattletales. Why don't they put on someone who is new? — Mrs. A.N., Conley, Duluth, Minn.

That's a very good question to which there is really no answer. TV plays it safe, and if most of the viewers like someone, you'll see that person over and over again.

Squares and diamonds

Does Peter Marshall have a son who plays professional basketball? — Sandy Porter, Jr., Chicago.

Yup. The lad's name is Pete La Cock, which is Peter's real name (well, dad's first name is Pierre, but that's French for Peter).

Gaboring question

I would like to know more about Eva and Zsa Zsa Gabor. How old are they, where were they born, do they have any children and are they married? — Theresa Schleuger, Duluth, Minn.

The girls, both born in Hungary, are 50 (that's Eva) and 51 (that's Zsa Zsa). Zsa Zsa has a daughter, Francisca Hilton, from her marriage to Conrad Hilton. As to whether or not they are married, the answer is usually yes.

Dreyfuss' apprenticeship is over

By ELLIE GROSSMAN

EDGARTOWN (NEA) — Good actors can make you believe just about anything.

So when Richard Dreyfuss says, "I'd cut an arm up to here to work with Marlon Brando," it's a bit unnerving.

For a split second, a grisly image presents itself. Dreyfuss picking up a knife from the table, cooly hacking off his right arm (he's left-handed) and marching out of the hotel dining room, off Martha's Vineyard where he's filming Universal's adaptation of the Peter Benchly novel, "Jaws," and straight into a New York stage production of "Death of a Salesman," with Brando, fully armed, as Willy Loman.

"I got a call today to play the role of Biff," he says, "and Brando was mentioned as a possible lead. But I'm too young for the part." (Dreyfuss is 26.)

Still, on second thought, if Brando were to say yes . . .

"He's the greatest actor of the 20th century," Dreyfuss states without hesitation. "I've seen 'Julius Caesar' over 30 times. Here's a performance by a man born in Nebraska, acting with John Gielgud and James Mason, and he's the only real Roman in the whole room." He laughs delightedly. "He walked like a Roman, he talked like a Roman, he wore a toga as if he were born in it." Dreyfuss gets up to demonstrate, and succeeds despite his blue jeans and pullover.

"Brando has two gifts," he continues. "First, he looks like a classical hero. Then, he has incredible powers of observation. He can mimic more people's behavior than any other actor.

"Most actors have one expression of anger, let's say, whether they're playing a wino or a prosecutor.

"In 'On the Waterfront,' Brando's anger is inarticulate, uneducated." He imitates the thick-mouthed characterization.

"But in the first scene of "The Ugly American,' it's all up front here. His anger was eastern seaboard, Harvard, monied, totally contained."

He stops a passing waitress to order his fifth cup of coffee and lights another cigarette.

Bearded now and wearing glasses, Dreyfuss looks nothing like Duddy Kravitz, the hustling young Jewish Canadian he played to critical acclaim in the film, "The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz." (Jewish himself, he does not think the movie's anti-Semitic.)

True, he's animated and brash and engagingly irrepressible like Duddy. "I love Duddy, I understand him. No other actor could have played that part because no other actor has my energy level."

But unlike Duddy, whose intellectual curiosity stopped with "God's Little Acre," Dreyfuss is a student of politics and American history. A devoted actor who'd chuck it all to publish a metropolitan newspaper because that's where the power is.

He's a Frank Capra "freak," a romantic — "I love to hear my grandparents talk about the old days when they were immigrants" — a self-confessed egoist and womanizer, and a conscientious objector who looks back fondly on his substitute military duty.

Richard Dreyfuss

"I worked as a medical file clerk for 24 months in '69 and '70 in Los Angeles County General Hospital and I fell in love with file work.

"I volunteered for the night shift because on weekends and holidays I'd have an hour and a half of work a night. The rest of the time I'd sit down with my cigarettes and a cup of coffee and read. I was known as the clerk with the book."

But the real joy was the baby charts.

"No one could do them but me," he says with relish and borrows a pen to draw a facsimile on a paper napkin.

"The serial number has to be repeated here and here. The baby's name goes here, the date, sex, etc. Now I'd never let this go through this way. The 'seven' is casual, the 'one' is fine, the 'three' is indifferent. And then there's the word, baby. I could write it 85 ways. Like this or this. 'Baby,' he says coyly and grins.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ANN MARGRET

Is your hobby collecting motorcycles?—F. G., San Mateo, Calif.

● No, it's riding them. A friend gave me one in 1962, because he had no further use for it, little realizing what he'd started. I became hooked on motorcycling. As of now, I have nine bikes. When I did "The Cincinnati Kid" with Steve McQueen, the studio chiefs had daily heart attacks when they saw me screech and whizz onto the lot on my cycle. They wanted me to stop till the film was over—in view of their financial responsibility—when I could do as I wished. They said I made them nervous. But I said bike-riding made me relaxed, and if I was relaxed, I'd do a better job. The faster I go, the better I like it. I've even gone 100 mph!

FOR CHARLTON HESTON, starring in "Airport 1975"

Were you disappointed at not being in the TV series "Planet of the Apes"?—T. F., Los Angeles, Calif.

● I was pleased—but not satisfied—with the first "Planet" movie. An actor must never be satisfied. But I had no desire to repeat my "Planet" role. I agreed to do a cameo part in "Beneath the Planet of the Apes" only as a favor to 20th Century-Fox, to make a bridge between the first and second films. I don't want to be in any series because I've no wish to be tied down to any role or media.

FOR PEGGY FLEMING

Do you find that the thrill of success wears off?—Vanessa Petersen, Anchorage, Alaska

● I'm afraid so. The thrill of being successful at something does wear off—because you must always be looking forward to new things and to surpass your past achievements. But there's something else that never wears off—and that's the thrill of winning a competition.

FOR DINA MERRILL, actress and honorary member of the Board of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation

What should you do if you discover your child is a diabetic? —A. D., Mansfield, Ohio

● Keep calm. And call your local J.D.F. chapter or an American Diabetes Association affiliate for the name of a specialist. As soon as possible, have your child take care of himself and make him understand he's not an invalid, that control and diet are his passports to a good and normal life.

FOR JIM SIMPSON, sportscaster

I have always been amazed at the way sportscasters are able to handle hockey and basketball action. Do most men in your field find these the toughest games for a play-by-play announcer?—Tom Jackson, Canton, Ohio

● No, I think most play-by-play men agree that hockey and basketball are among the easiest because the action is almost continuous and the announcer doesn't have to "fill" during blank periods. I find golf the most difficult sport to do. There are long periods to fill, and you can't follow the ball as easily as you can in other sports.

FOR ISAAC ASIMOV

Who's your favorite non-science fiction writer? How has your style of writing changed over the years?—Dick Mack, San Leandro, Calif.

● P. G. Wodehouse and Agatha Christie tie for the favorite slot because I can, and do, read their books over and over, enjoying them each time as much as I did the time before. I started writing short stories in 1938 and completed my first full-length novel in 1949. Now, 155 books later, I still write the same way now I did then. I sit down at the typewriter and hit the keys. Is there any other way?

FOR RICH LITTLE, impressionist

Have you ever found that using another voice helped you in everyday life?—J. Pole, Monsey, N.Y.

● I was in a hotel once that had poor room service because of a convention. After a couple of unsuccessful attempts to get service as Rich Little, I became Cary Grant. The room service improved right away.

FOR CHARITA BAUER, star of "The Guiding Light"

You've been on "The Guiding Light" for such a long time. Do you find it's dull doing the same thing over and over again?—J. Rickey, Ft. Worth, Texas

● Every job has tedious moments. I've been on the show for 24 years, and sometimes I experience boredom—but it's a fleeting emotion. I cure myself by telling myself how lucky I am to have the same job for so long. Show business is particularly insecure, and there's nothing monotonous about getting paid regularly!

FOR JULIA CHILD

I heard that Russia makes the best ice cream. Which country do you think makes the best—and why?—Laurie C. Weinstein, Indianapolis, Ind.

● I haven't been all over the world, but I do know that France makes poor ice cream. And it's even hard to find really good ice cream in the U.S. these days, though I hear there are some new brands popping up in some communities that are really delicious. Homemade ice cream seems best to me. The problem is it's so fattening. I've always got the Battle of the Bulge to contend with.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Does the British Royal Family ever make faux-pas in public, like ordinary people?—P. I., Long Branch, N.J.

● John Lavelle of New York's Rainbow Room once asked Princess Margaret whether she'd like her eggs sunnyside up or scrambled. She replied: "Is there any difference between them?"... When the Queen's official Wine Taster was asked to name Her Majesty's favorite, he confided: "She has none. She'll drink anything that's put in front of her." And Prince Philip once met a group of international reporters and said to one: "What paper do you represent?" When the Prince was told "The Rising Sun," he pointed to the man's flashy orange-and-red tie, and said: "I should have guessed. You're wearing it."

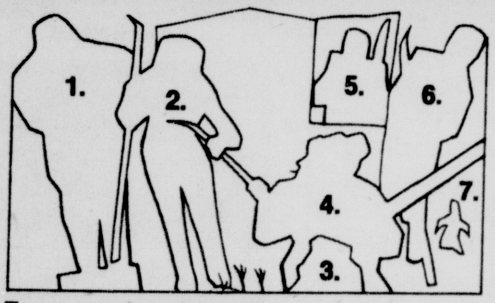
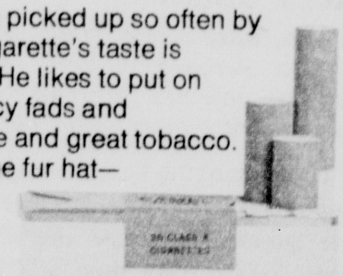
Can you spot the Camel Filters smoker?

©1974 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.



Almost every skier up here today has a gimmick. Find the one who doesn't. 1. Nope. He's Sandford R. Brochure, resort owner. Gimmick: Every weekend predicts "two inches of powder is coming!" (It's his wife—wearing heavy make-up.) Just bought some super-cool menthol cigarettes, and they turned to slush. 2. She's Althea Home. Gimmick: Stretch pants so tight she mends them with spray paint. Thinks a ski pole is an athlete from Warsaw. 3. An abominable snowman. 4. No, he's Boyer U. Dumm, beginner. Skis like a man being attacked by a lumber yard. Has been picked up so often by ski patrol, they've sewn a handle on his jacket. His filter cigarette's taste is recessed so far, it needs lift tickets to bring it out. 5. Right. He likes to put on skiis—not his fellow skiers. Wants his cigarette without fancy fads and gimmicks, too. Camel Filters. No nonsense. Just good taste and great tobacco. 6. He's Gay Abandon, ski model. He's either wearing a huge fur hat—or his head is unravelling. Thinks a giant slalom is something you buy in an Italian deli. 7. A pigeon, on his way to a formal dance.



Camel Filters. They're not for everybody (but they could be for you).

"What I Have to Be Thankful For"

Some famous people remind us what Thanksgiving is all about—even when fate has been less than kind

Compiled by Alan Ebert and Frances Spatz Leighton

This has been a year of political upheaval and turmoil; a time of economic instability and uncertainty. For many, 1974 challenged long-held principles and values. It also challenged the people in its persistent crises, shortages and environmental disasters.

FAMILY WEEKLY asked the following people, all of whom experienced turmoil, upheavals and crises in their own lives in '74, those things for which they are grateful on this Thanksgiving Day.

SONNY BONO

. . . who, in one brief year, lost not only a wife but a top-rated TV show.

"No one escapes. There are always problems in life. But you can't let them defeat you. One of the ways to win is to take stock of what you have and be grateful for it. Simple things that we take for granted—like being alive, sunny days, spring flowers, laughter—these are what life is all about. Sharing with another person, giving to someone in distress—that I can both give and receive—that's what makes me thankful.

"I am also thankful that our country has a future—and thankful that most people finally realize that to insure that future takes each person's work. Finally, I am thankful for the happiness I have gained through my work and the friendships that have given meaning to it and my life."

SALLY QUINN

. . . who, after being billed as CBS's answer to Barbara Walters, was abruptly fired and now has returned to the relative obscurity of a newspaper job.

"I am thankful I didn't lose my mind or jump out the nearest window, both of which were possibilities after the CBS Morning News disaster. My time at CBS was traumatic, to say the least, but it taught me something for which I will be ever thankful. I discovered there is more bounce-to-the-ounce within this lady than she knew. I have courage I didn't know I had. I refuse to take defeat by crawling away from the line of fire in disgrace. I just finished my first book about my CBS experiences. It's titled, 'We're Going to Make You a Star!' They didn't, but even for that I'm thankful, because it made me return to journalism and that is my true love.

"I guess I'm an optimist; the kind who sees a pony wherever there is a pile of manure. And I sure saw an awful lot of ponies at CBS. I guess what I'm trying to say is, personal courage and optimism and a sense of humor make life worth living. I'm thankful I seem to have all three."

KAYE BALLARD

. . . "Just Molly and me and baby makes three"—and that was the near sum total of people who came to see Miss Ballard flop on Broadway in "Molly" and in Chicago in "Sheba."

"A bad year? Who, me? Just because I'm opening an orange juice stand and selling the pits on the side as a do-it-yourself necklace is no reason to think I've had a bad year.

"It was not a bad year. It was a horrible year! The worst! But I have my dreams. Around that big corner in the sky waits a TV series where each week I run in, yell 'Dinner is served!', grab the paycheck and run for my home in Palm Springs.

"But seriously folks, despite the little aggravations of the past year—like starvation—there are many things for which I'm thankful. Take my health. Other than having a terrible cold, a hacking cough, hives and a hangnail, I feel terrific. And I feel thankful to be living in this country. Where else can you wake up in the middle of the night feeling depressed and suicidal and turn on the TV and see Joan Crawford, even more depressed and suicidal? The way that woman has suffered, who am I to complain?

"And I'm thankful that people laugh—when they see me wearing my 'Nixon '76' sweatshirt. Laughter is what I'm most thankful for. It's my survival kit."

STEVIE WONDER

. . . the blind recording star who almost died last year in a car crash, but who has miraculously and fully recovered.

"After the auto accident, doctors told me I might never perform again. I am thankful to God that He spared my life and gave me the courage not to accept the doctors' diagnoses. Music is my 'thing'—my way of saying hello, of bringing together people of all races and cultures. I am thankful God gave me the gift. I am thankful that I do see a 'coming together' all over the world.

"I am thankful for my faith, for without it there is loneliness. And I am thankful for the people who make Stevie Wonder want to sing. Without them, there is no kick. Singing for oneself just ain't where it's at.

"Lastly, and most important, I'm just so thankful to be alive in this great big beautiful world that we all take too much for granted."

BETTY FORD

. . . She did not want her way of life disrupted. She did not want her husband to be Vice President. She did not want her husband to be President. And she certainly did not want to undergo a radical mastectomy.

But as Thanksgiving approaches, Betty Ford realizes that the shock of all these events have made her stronger and have awakened her to a new feeling of thanksgiving. She has made her peace with fate and fortune. And Betty Ford gave us these thoughts:

"This year more than ever I have so much to be thankful for—the loving care I received during my recent illness, the thoughtful messages and prayers from all over the country.

"And now I have received the most meaningful Thanksgiving gift of all—the privilege of being able to share this special Thursday with my family.

"One cannot see ahead. I never dreamed I would be spending a Thanksgiving in the White House. I never dreamed I would be at the hospital undergoing an operation. This year, I have learned to concentrate on all the things that I have, all the things that are there, and not what may be missing.

"Each night I read from the Bible. There are so many passages that speak of thanksgiving. They give me courage, as they do so many other Americans."

TOM SEAVER

. . . whose 11-11 pitching record for the New York Mets last summer did not live up to his $170,000 salary.

"I am thankful for second chances. For third and fourth ones, too. The expression,

Now, rediscover your country's exciting history with this beautiful new collection of authentic state pennies. These are real Lincoln head copper pennies and started as 100% legal tender but we doubt whether you'll ever spend them.

A special private stamping has imprinted opposite President Lincoln's profile, the name and geographic shape of each state, on 50 beautiful copper pennies. Each has been polished to a mint shine and the complete set of fifty is an exciting acquisition for all collectors.

A Collector's Treasury to Display on Wall or Desk

These distinctive coins come with sturdy holder that both beautifully displays and protects your set. The State Pennies mount in alphabetical order with each name appearing below the appropriate coin. Included, and a boon to students of history and geography, is information on each state's: capital, flag, flower, bird, nickname, largest city, area, location, motto and when state was granted statehood. All in all, a very impressive addition to your home or a very wonderful gift. A Deluxe wooden frame is also available at only $4.99.

Copper Pennies Becoming Scarce!

With the price of copper soaring, and world supplies dwindling, the American copper penny is rapidly going out of circulation. Reports are that the U.S. Treasury may even soon issue paper script instead of pennies. We urge you to order today while there is still a supply of pennies and while we can still get pennies for the same price. This collection could someday be a museum piece.

Deluxe Version: Gold Electroplated on Copper. This Collection is made even more exquisite and more valuable with 50 copper pennies covered with real gold. This heirloom version costs only $16.99.

Family Weekly
AT HOME

By Rosalyn Abrevaya
Women's Feature Editor

Family Weekly's annual idea bank for Christmas (we managed to keep the $100-maximum figure despite inflation) offers suggested gifts for every room in the house. They're practical, as well as decorative, and some you can even make yourself!

Gifts to Give Your Home for $100 or Under

Give Your Den a Unique Rya Rug (about $100)

Even when handsomely adorned with a mineral collection, this dark wall might create a somber room. The red-orange rug (4'7" x 6'7") provides a vivid pick-up and adds character to the room with its sculptured high-low pile—the motif resembling a butterfly spreading its wings. From Egetaepper collection rugs, its made of Acrilan to withstand heavy traffic. This rug comes in four other color combinations and is available in a full range of sizes.

A Gift Underfoot for Your Child's Room (about $100 for 8-x-10 room)

The bright, cheerful colors in this Raggedy Ann 'n Andy print carpeting make decorating a child's room simple. Use it as the focal point to pick up the hues for paint and accessories. There's also a practical note: fashioned of Enkalure II soil-hiding nylon, it will look clean longer despite spills and tramping feet. The carpeting is available in 15-foot width, at approximately $10.95 a yard. From Jorges Carpet Mills, Inc. Room designed by Virginia Frankel.

Old-fashioned Raggedy Ann 'n Andy carpet makes a fun children's room.

George Small

Easy to hang, this inexpensive mural adds a splash of color to any area.

Instant Wall Graphic (under $100)

If you have a room that needs a total lift, let this striking geometric mural do the job. It's easy to hang, since it's pretrimmed and prepasted—easy to care for too, because it's washable vinyl.

For a look of dazzling elegance, it is teamed here with sleek chrome and glass furniture on a luxurious soil-hiding white carpet. The mural is also available in warm earth tones, taupe on silver, and a bright combination of oranges on yellow. From Imperial's E-Z Du scenic murals collection, it is available across the country. Furniture by Cosco Contemporaries. Carpeting by Collins & Aikman.

Give a Gift of Time (about $60)

Genuine stained glass, in ever-changing tones of red burgundy, blue and ivory, is hand-crafted by Bulova into a stylish timepiece. The arched niche design is enhanced by a functional pendulum, while its hour-and-minute hands and raised numerals are in ebony color. A transistorized movement keeps this beautiful wall ornament operating for over a year on a single battery. It measures 7⅞" wide by 13½" in height.

Add a touch of tradition to a wall with this transistorized clock.

Build a "Hideaway" Hutch (under $70)

There's no reason to be without the convenience of a dishwasher. Even if your kitchen is too small for stowing a convertible model, a hutch offers "garage space" in the dining room. This antiqued hutch, built with ¾-inch plywood, houses the dishwasher while providing shelf space for serving pieces. Simply roll the dishwasher to the table for loading, then into the kitchen for operation. Construction plans for the hutch are available from Consumer Information Center, Dept. FW, The Maytag Company, Newton, Iowa 50208.

A WONDERFUL GIFT FOR COLLECTORS AND INVESTORS

A Very Limited First Edition Collectors Plate

FROM THE SATURDAY EVENING POST COVER COLLECTION

the ANDREW WYETH Plate

WE have indeed had difficulty in getting one of the most beautiful and desired collector plates—the Andrew Wyeth "Hunter" Plate (sometimes called "Autumn Lure"). It seems that because Andrew Wyeth is America's most famous fine artist, the Ridgewood people are delivering them very slowly due to extra hand-craftsmanship required and the few plates that reach selected shops disappear almost immediately. But now, Joy's Limited Edition has made arrangements for a nice supply of these rare works of art and can promise you delivery within a few weeks.

Because Andrew Wyeth belongs in the ranks of Picasso, Chagall, Rembrandt, and Michelangelo—it is both a pleasure and a privilege for us to introduce you to this magnificent First Edition Ridgewood China Plate of Andrew Wyeth's famous masterpiece. Because they are so limited, we have to put a strict limit of one plate per person. Plate measures 8½ inches in diameter and is produced on the finest china that the Ridgewood Company can produce.

Andrew Wyeth was born in Chadds Ford, Pa. and has lived there and in Maine all of his life. Most of his works are based on country and coast and the life and people of these regions. His father was the famous illustrator, N. C. Wyeth who was hero worshipped by young Norman Rockwell. His son is the renowned Jamie Wyeth who as a young man had already painted a niche in the American Artists Hall of Fame. Andrew Wyeth himself was the only artist ever to be honored by an exhibition in the Washington White House.

We predict an early sell out of this Andrew Wyeth Plate for several reasons:

- The only First Edition Ridgewood China Andrew Wyeth Plate produced.
- Considered by many to be Andrew Wyeth's most beautiful work.
- Ridgewood China has the exclusive world right to produce and distribute this plate — and it will never be made again.
- This beautiful Andrew Wyeth painting was selected in 1943 to be a Saturday Evening Post cover and was adored by millions.
- When you consider the growth of lesser collector plates, you can well understand why collectors are eagerly searching for this.

ABSOLUTELY FREE: Because we want you to have this lovely plate in your collection, we are offering as an incentive to anyone who orders within two weeks, "The Art of Andrew Wyeth" book with over 175 pages and over 100 full color prints of his important works. Remember, only one plate and book per collector and supplies are limited. The book alone sells for $19.50, but it's yours Free with the purchase of the Collector Plate of the year — for only $35.00. Orders will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis, and your check or money order will be returned promptly, of course, if it arrives after our allotment is exhausted.

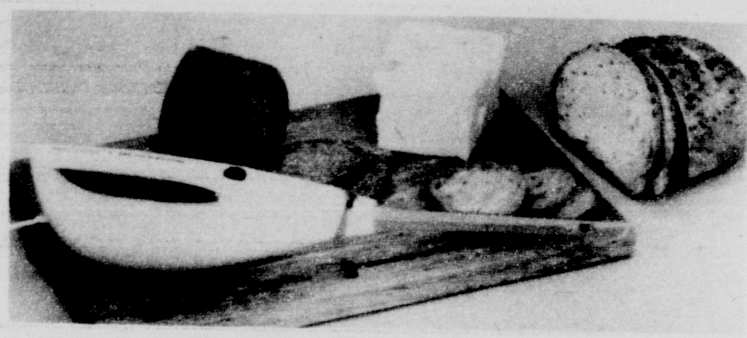
Magic With A Roll of Tape!

Electric Knife and Carving Board (about $28)

A practical accessory for your kitchen is this deluxe electric knife which includes its own generous 11″ x 17″ carving board. Elegant enough to use at a dining table, the winning combination makes you a carver instead of a cut up and can help you do the right job in half the time. It's also a great help in slicing vegetables and fruits evenly. From Hamilton Beach-Scovill, it's available in sunny gold.



If there's anything about it you don't like, you can take it back.

Now, that's a guarantee.

We're not kidding. When you buy any one of these Black & Decker portable power tools, you get a guarantee so good that if there's anything about it you don't like—you can return it to a participating retailer or Black & Decker Service Center. It'll be exchanged for a replacement tool, no questions asked. This guarantee is good for one whole year. Kind of makes sense, doesn't it? That Black & Decker would offer a guarantee every bit as good as its products (Proof of purchase and return of original standard equipment required. Guarantee does not include tools used commercially or in rental service.)

A tool you can work with at a price you can work with. Black & Decker.

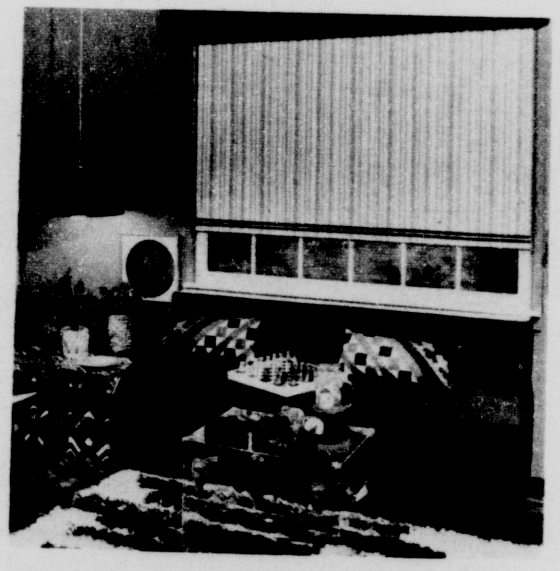
Do-It-Yourself Decorator Accents (under $5)

All it takes to bring the holiday spirit into your home is imagination and some colorful tape. Use decorator tape to adorn your favorite picture frame, lampshade or candle holder—turn gift packages into glistening jewels with bows, geometric cutouts, and stars. The look is expensive, but the distinctive touch is achieved here by using ten rolls of Scotch sparkling metallic tape for a cost of less than $5.



Surprise Your Window with a "Stock" Shade (about $28.50)

Although it looks custom-made, this 73″ wide, 6-foot long random-stripe shade is readily "in stock" at your favorite store. Called Colony Stripe, it's constructed of vinyl-coated fiber glass, is colorfast, fire-resistant. Ann Heller, the room's designer, trimmed it with two rows of press-on tape for added charm. The shade's cost comes down with narrower widths. In the popular 37¼″ width, it retails for about $9.50. From Joanna Western Mills Co.

"What I Have to Be Thankful For"

'Wait till next year!' has never seemed more appropriate. Sure, it was a lousy year for me professionally, but I'm thankful that I'm not carrying it with me into next year. I don't believe in brooding over the past, but in looking at your mistakes and moving on.

"I don't feel defeated. Off-years happen to people, not just to pitchers. I'm thankful that I look forward to the future, that my attitude about life is optimistic rather than pessimistic. I always feel the best is yet to come.

"Finally, I have a really terrific wife, Nancy, who stands shoulder-to-shoulder with me. For that I am very thankful."

. . . who recently recovered from a long and severe illness.

"The sun is shining again after many, many years of bad health and professional and financial difficulties. This year was the end of a period of six long and lousy years. But I'm thankful for them in retrospect. They gave me an appreciation of life. (You have to be 'out of it' to appreciate the true meaning of being 'in it.') And it is not about money or hit records, it's about togetherness, your own and that which you share with loved ones.

"I'm thankful for five wonderful children. I'm thankful for the people in my life who care. I'm thankful that because I see life as a joyous gift that I am singing better than I ever have. I'm not older, folks, just better—the youngest 46-year-old you'll ever meet. Like this country, I've been through a lot of changes in recent years. It has made me a better person, and I suspect we will emerge as a better nation for our trials and tribulations.

"Listen, now that things are cooking again, you wanna come on-a my house?"

. . . whose recent divorce proved that 13 was not her lucky number.

"After 13 years of marriage, I was divorced. After 13 years of living in the same house with my husband and my two children, I discovered a house is not a home when the vibrations say otherwise. 1974 was a year of changes and upheaval, but it was also a year of realizations: We get help by helping ourselves. You can't sit still, can't let life rule you. We grow through experimentation and often through our failures as well.

"I am thankful I now live on a wide-and-wonderful ranch in California. I am thankful I had that courage to make such a drastic change. I am thankful that I am Patti Page, a woman whose work has given her great comfort the past two years. I am thankful that the public still accepts Patti Page and that allows her financial independence.

"I will be 25 years old in show business next year, and for that I am thankful.

"Lastly, I am thankful for the gift of Kathleen and Danny, to whom I am that other person—Mama."

Alan Ebert, who helped to compile this story, has a few things to be thankful for himself, having spent four months of the past year in bed with hepatitis. "I guess what I'm most thankful for are chocolate chip cookies, reruns of 'The Lucy Show,' and just being alive," says Ebert, "—not necessarily in that order."

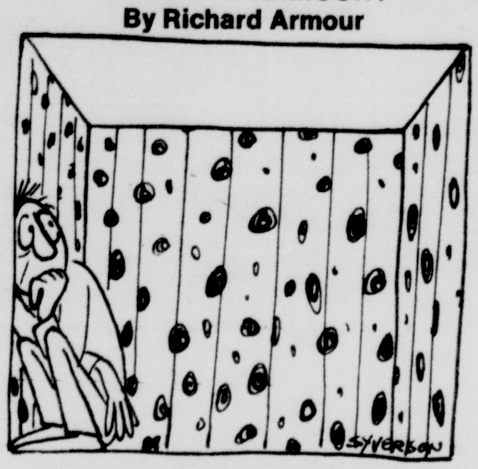
ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour



WHEN BLANK MIND MEETS BLANK WALL

There is a certain wall of mine
That's made of strips of knotty pine.
It is my study. I admit
I all too often study it.
The knots resemble beasts and birds
And things for which I have no words.
One seems a sweet roll, one a face,
One seems to move from place to place.
The builder said that knotty pine
Was warm and cozy, really fine,
But frankly, friends, no ifs or buts,
Those knots will someday drive me nuts.

One desperate father says he secured a better education for his teenagers just by pulling a few wires—the TV, the stereo and the telephone.

—Anna Herbert

Watchdog owner to veterinarian: "Every time I shout 'Sic' he goes to sleep." Vet: "Ah, yes—sicking sleepness."

—Robert Brault

Social worker: "The last time I visited you, you made me very happy because you were sober." Old Soak: "True, honey, but today it's my turn to be happy."

Our daughter, five, was due to take her cough syrup, which had a safety cap. She attempted several times unsuccessfully to open the bottle. I took it, telling her only Mom and Dad could open medicine—and opened it on the first try. She looked puzzled. "How does the bottle know you're the mother?" she asked.

What in the World!

AUTHOR RYAN AND SAILOR VAN HEEZIK
The changes thirty years can bring

How long is 30 years? At the left, author Cornelius Ryan—30 years ago a 23-year-old war correspondent, the youngest writer covering World War II in Europe. At right, Arie Van Heezik—born 30 years ago during the Nazi-imposed "Hunger Winter" in Holland, and now first officer of the Rhine cruise ship Holland Emerald. The two men met recently as Van Heezik's ship took Ryan and a boatload of British, American and Polish generals to the scenes of the disastrous Allied Military Operation Market Garden in Arnhem and Nijmegen—an operation that took place those 30 years ago. When it failed, the Germans cut off heat, electricity and food in Amsterdam as a reprisal, and 35,000 Amsterdammers starved to death while others survived by boiling tulip bulbs and eating them. During that tragic winter, Van Heezik was born. Ryan recently completed his book about Operation Market Garden, "A Bridge Too Far" (Simon and Schuster, $12.50), fighting a body-engulfing cancer until the last page was done, directing his doctors on how to keep him alive, declining pain-killers so his mind would remain clear enough to allow him to finish his book—now a critical success.

Pictorial Parade

CHARLOTTE OLDFIELD
Before . . . and after

Rapunzel? No, it's Charlotte Oldfield who recently had her hair cut for the first time in her life. Before she submitted to the cutting shears, she was several pounds heavier and had more than three feet of brown-red hair hanging down her back. After two and a half hours in the hairdresser's chair, the thick wavy blanket was gone, and Charlotte emerged with this trendy, short cut.

How can people pay their bills with ballooning inflation? Answer: Many can't—and don't. "Latest figures show 2.7 percent of installment loans that people have taken out for autos, appliances and so forth are delinquent. That's up from 1.9 a year ago—the highest in more than 20 years. Home mortgages are behind, too, with 4.7 percent of home buyers delinquent at the end of 1973. That's also the greatest delinquency rate in 20 years. Business is hard hit by delinquency too. Bad debts written off by commercial banks in 1973 are estimated at more than $800 million, up from $767 million the year before. Liabilities involved in business failures in 1973 amounted to a record $2.3 billion. That's 15 percent more than in 1972." This from T. Frank Hardesty, author, lecturer and business consultant.

HOW THE CLUB OPERATES

Simply mail the application, together with check or money order for $1.97 as payment for your first 13 selections.

Every four weeks (13 times a year) you'll receive the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest...plus hundreds of alternates from every field of music. In addition, up to six times a year you may receive offers of Special Selections, usually at a discount off regular Club prices.

If you wish to receive the Selection of the Month or the Special Selection, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically. If you prefer an alternate selection, or none at all, simply fill in the response card always provided and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make your decision. If you ever receive any Selection without having had at least 10 days in which to decide, you may return it at our expense, for full credit.

Your own charge account will be opened...the selections you order will be mailed and billed at regular Club prices: cartridges and cassettes, $6.98 or $7.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $5.98 or $6.98—plus processing and postage. (Multiple unit sets and Double Selections may be somewhat higher.)

After completing your enrollment agreement (by buying 9 selections within 3 years), you may cancel membership at any time. If you decide to continue, you'll be eligible for our generous money-saving bonus plan.

NOTE: all applications are subject to review and Columbia House reserves the right to reject any application

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

CHRISTY STANFORD OF BEMIS, TN, ASKS:

"WHY DO DOUGHNUTS HAVE HOLES?"

DOUGHNUTS ARE SMALL CAKES MADE OF SWEET TYPE OF DOUGH AND COOKED IN DEEP FAT. MOST DOUGHNUTS ARE ROUND AND HAVE A HOLE IN THE MIDDLE. AT ONE TIME THE DOUGHNUT HAD NO HOLE. THE IDEA OF PUTTING THE HOLE IN THE DOUGHNUT WAS INVENTED BY AN OLD SEA CAPTAIN WHO ENJOYED EATING DOUGHNUTS, AS THEN MADE, BUT THEY SOMETIMES GAVE HIM INDIGESTION. HE FOUND THAT CUTTING A HOLE IN THE MIDDLE ALLOWED THE DOUGH TO COOK THOROUGHLY AND THE DOUGHNUTS WERE MORE DIGESTIBLE.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — Every year our family makes candles for Christmas. We use potato chip canisters for molds. Leave the white ruffled paper inside the can to make a pretty candle. You'll have beautiful candles for gifts or home use. — KAREN.

●

DEAR POLLY — When a hot water bottle is not available, soak a towel in very hot water, squeeze out and then fasten towel in a plastic bag. Wonderful for leg cramps or the backache! — JO.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, % this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — I save relish and peanut butter jars for storing leftovers. They take up much less space in the refrigerator than bowls do and can even be stacked! — LYNDA.

●

DEAR POLLY — I am 14 and have a Pointer to help other kids with the problem of storing and sorting dirty clothes. Tie or sew together the bottom of the legs of a pair of blue jeans. On one leg write "Dark," on the other "Light." Hang the jeans on the closet door. Saves work for Mom! — K.H.

●

DEAR POLLY — If a drinking glass has only a hairline crack, put a piece of tape on the bottom to identify it and save touse for rooting house plant clippings. — CLAUDIA.

DEAR POLLY — I keep a wax pencil near my refrigerator and always date containers of leftovers as well as writing what is in the container. The pencil markings wash away so a container can be used again and again. — ANNETTE.

DEAR POLLY — Small children have a way of unrolling far too much toilet tissue. I squeeze a roll so that a crease is formed in the cardboard tube before putting the roll in the dispenser. This prevents the roll from turning so fast and tissue is conserved. — DOROTHY.

●

DEAR POLLY — When mailing more than one gift in the same box, mark the number of gifts inside on the cover of the box so none are overlooked. — ANN B.

●

DEAR POLLY — Be your own trash-masher! Two or three wastebaskets of loose paper can be mashed into a two-quart milk carton. These cartons can stand a lot of pressure. Also, boxes can be flattened with the feet and several laid flat in another box for disposal. — MRS. O.C.Y.

●

DEAR POLLY — When we moved, I had a lot of stationery with the old address on my hands. Printed labels completely covered the old address neatly. — ARCHIE.
